AMERICAN FLAG BIGGEST THRILL AT THRILL SHOW

80,000 in Patriotic Demonstration.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Soldiers' field was a billowing sea of flags yesterday. Eighty thousand cheering Americans who came to pay honor to the police and firemen transformed the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show into a majestic display of patriotism.

Fireman on ladder at Thrill show.

The police and firemen were given a thundering ovation when they paraded upon the field. The admiring throng's enthusiasm knew no bounds when the outstanding fire and police heroes of 1939 marched in with a guard of honor to receive their awards from the heads of their departments. The heroes are Capt. Joseph Flahive of the fire department, Patrolman Raymond Ira Pebe of the Chicago park district police, and Patrolman William Phillips of the city police.

Dramas Tell of Valor.

It was a day of pageantry, a day of color, a day of marching men. The sum of a perfect July afternoon beamed down upon a field of green that was a striking setting for the scarlet of mighty fire trucks and the blue of uniforms and police cars.

Most impressive of the entertainment events to the spectators, perhaps, were the dramas which told the valor and the glorious tradition of the men in blue.

One was of the law's triumphs over bandits, in which Chief John L. Sullivan and Lieut. Kyran Phelan of the detective bureau directed the bureau men and Chief Roger F. Shanahan the park police. The other was of a battle against flames in a six story building, in which great water towers and aerial ladder trucks were used by Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan and Anthony J. Mullaney, first deputy marshal, of the fire department.

Crowd Stands at Attention.

But the magnificence of the patriotic demonstration surpassed all else.

It began when the great crowd stood in reverent attention while the American flag was raised over the tower erected for the fire drama. The field rang with applause after Marion Claire sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

It was the patriotic pledge by the boys and girls, however, which sent the spirit of America welling over. Waving American flags which were presented to them at the gates, Chicago's future citizens solemnly repeated a pledge of allegiance to the colors, to good citizenship, and to the principles of safety and lawfulness which the fire and police departments represent.

Parents Join in Pledge.

It was a pledge for youth. But fathers and mothers joined unbidden in the pledge.

"Wave those flags proudly!" urged the master of ceremonies, Philip Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE staff.

Perceiving that their elders did not wish to be left out of the expression of patriotism, the master of ceremonies called thru the public address system: "Let the fathers wave their hats!"

The thrill show was sponsored by the police and fire department and the park district, in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE.

Down 7 Planes in Hour Fight Above Convoy

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—British fighter planes and antiaircraft guns on warships today scattered German dive bombers making massed attacks upon convoyed merchant ships in the Strait of Dover.

At least seven of the German planes—five bombers and two fighter craft—were brought down. The Germans had hurled about 40 dive bombers and a number of escort planes into the attacks. After dispersing the armada, British fighter craft chased some of the Nazi planes back across the English channel.

As tho synchronizing his words with the roar of the British planes' guns, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said in a broadcast speech that Britain would emerge from its defensive position and assume the offensive against the Nazis in 1942.

Ask No Mercy.

"We shall ask no mercy," he declared, and asserted that the British would rather see London in ruins than have it enslaved by an invader.

The British navy, the prime minister said, had ruined the effectiveness of the French fleet because it presented a threat both to British nad American security. [For the text of Churchill's speech see page 8.]

Today's air battle raged for more than an hour, an air ministry communique said, during half of which time antiaircraft guns continuously pumped shells into the invading air fleet. One German bomber was brought down by a direct hit from one of these guns.

Shoot Down Four Planes.

One patrol of Spitfires shot down four of the seven German planes accounted for, the communique said. Two Messerschmitt fighters were destroyed by a patrol of Hurricanes. The first was shot down by the squadron leader.

"After a long burst, the enemy aircraft flicked over on its back," the communique declared. "The squadron leader continued to fire. Still upside down, the Messerschmitt dived steeply and crashed.

"Meantime, another enemy fighter was doing its best to get on the tail of the squadron leader's Hurricane. But it in turn was being attacked by another British pilot. After one long burst from his machine gun, there was an explosion in the Messerschmitt. This too dived steeply to its end."

Watched by Townspeople.

Portions of the battle occurred so near the southeast coast that townspeople of communities along the shore watched it. They saw one of the German bombers spiral down into the sea, then another, with the pilot parachuting into the water.

Britain announced a total loss of five planes, distributed thus: one defender shot down today; one bomber attacking German targets downed last night; three fighter planes lost Saturday while repelling raids on Britain.

[The Germans claim to have downed 10 British planes over the channel yesterday while losing only one of their own.]

In addition to the seven German craft downed today, an eighth was shot down attempting to stop last night's British bombing raids within Germany. These raids, described as being of great intensity and wide range, paid off the Germans' Saturday attacks on British ports and ships.

Bomb 14 Airdromes.

An air ministry communique which named targets sprinkled all over Germany and the Netherlands told of British planes bombing 14 airdromes, splintering docks and harbor facilities, and pounding aircraft factories, oil refineries, supply factories, and distribution centers.

The British announcement listed these German targets in the night attack:

Aircraft factories at Bremen and Delchshausen.

Docks at Hamburg, Bremen, Emden, and Wilhelmshaven.

Oil refineries at Hamburg and Monheim.

Supply factories at Grevenbroich, Gelsenkirchen, and Hamburg.

Freight yards at Hamm, Osnabrück, and Soest.

Fourteen airdromes in Germany and the Netherlands.

State Harmony at Convention Is Threatened

BY PARKE BROWN.

Illinois harmony in the Democratic national convention was threatened last night just as the delegation met as a unit for the first time.

The occasion was a dinner-dance in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House given by National Committeeman P. A. Nash to the 164 delegates and alternates and their wives. The only speech was a brief appeal by the host that the state stand solidly for the renomination of President Roosevelt.

Disturbing Element Felt.

That plea, it was generally believed, was caused by a disturbing element in the situation.

The discomfort emanated from Lieut. Gov. John Stelle and a few of his friends who have not forgotten the beating given Stelle as a candidate for governor in the April primary. Those friends did not include State Auditor E. J. Barrett and Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, Stelle's April running mates. They joined in the harmony air of the occasion. Stelle left without eating.

Garner or Farley Whispered.

The first tremor struck the crowd when it was whispered that five downstate delegates intended to vote against Roosevelt on the first ballot.

Next, word was carried to Nash that Stelle wanted to address the delegation. He intended, it was said, to move that Nash be reëlected national committeeman. Nash 10 days ago announced his desire to retire and his wish that Mayor Kelly be chosen to succeed him. Nash vigorously turned down the proposal that Stelle be permitted to speak.

Stelle Strikes at Harmony.

Then as Stelle left the dinner, he struck directly at harmony. He made a statement to this writer.

"If President Roosevelt considers this crisis so great that he must override the third term principle," said the lieutenant governor, "then it is so great that Illinois must have a governor able to perform his duties.

"If Roosevelt accepts renomination, I shall immediately write the governor a letter demanding that he resign and that I and Senator George M. Maypole, president pro tem of the senate, next in line for the governorship, whom Horner holds unacceptable, also resign."

STRATEGISTS DEVISE ROLL CALL COUP; WHEELER GROUP PENS ANTIWAR PLANK

Senators Threaten to Carry Battle on Floor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A draft of a foreign relations plank prepared by a group of United States senators for presentation to the resolutions committee which is writing the Democratic national platform was made public early today. The group backing it said that unless that plank or some declaration equally strong is written into the draft of the platform to be submitted to the convention delegates Wednesday, they will carry the fight to the floor.

Senator Bennett Clark.

Senator Wheeler.

The plank was written by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a committee member, after conferences with Senators Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, D. Worth Clark of Idaho, Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, and Pat McCarran of Nevada and others.

The plank reads:

"We herewith solemnly reaffirm as basic to our national welfare the principles enunciated by Thomas Jefferson that 'the happiness of mankind is best promoted by the useful pursuits of peace; that on these alone a stable prosperity can be founded; that the evils of wars are great in their endurance and have a long reckoning for ages to come' and that 'for us to attempt, by war, to reform all Europe and bring them back to principles of morality and a respect for the equal rights of nations would show us to be only maniacs of another nature.'

Oppose Foreign Encroachment.

"We therefore pledge that our every effort shall be directed against the involvement of this nation in any foreign war.

"We are unalterably opposed to any encroachment by any foreign power in the affairs of this hemisphere, and likewise to any attempt on the part of the Americas to dictate or control the affairs of other powers.

"We therefore dedicate ourselves to the proposition that we shall never use our armed forces in a war of aggression, nor shall we send those armed forces to engage in wars in Europe or Asia. We consecrate ourselves to the principles of peace and the pursuit of friendly relations among all peoples."

Goes Further than Roosevelt.

Senator Wheeler and others of the group declare the proposed plank goes further than President Roosevelt's pledge in his message to Congress Wednesday that "we will not send our men to take part in Europe's wars."

The phrase "armed forces" they hold embraces the navy and air forces as well as the military. The proposed plank they said presupposes a strong

CURRENT CONGRESS' SPENDING MORE THAN ANY OTHER SESSION

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—Representative Daniel A. Reed [R., N. Y.] said today that this was "the first 20 billion dollar session of congress in American history," surpassing by almost two billions the total appropriations by any one session during the world war.

Reed said appropriations and spending authorizations, either approved or pending, at this session totaled $20,499,000,000.

"Altho President Roosevelt has demanded enormous new taxes and has called upon the nation to make every sacrifice in support of urgent national defense needs," said Reed, "not a dollar of economy has been enforced upon the sprawling peace time bureaucracy built up by the New Dealers since 1933. Every federal boondoggling project continues at full throttle."

He also charged that for the first time the "federal bureaucracy now numbers more than 1 million pay rollers," whereas the peak during the world war was 918,000.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

A daring, spectacular project to "draft" President Roosevelt for a third term without presenting his name for renomination in the 28th Democratic national convention, which assembles today in the Stadium, emanated last night from the White House strategy board.

The plan, reputed to have been conceived by Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, chief Roosevelt liaison officer at the convention, is to forego placing Mr. Roosevelt in nomination in the customary nominating speech or in any other manner.

Nominating speeches would be made for Vice President John N. Garner, Postmaster General James A. Farley, and perhaps for Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, who have stated they would run if Mr. Roosevelt's name is not presented.

Vote Would Go To Roosevelt.

Then, with the names of all the candidates for the nomination except Mr. Roosevelt's submitted to the convention, the roll would be called. Alabama would lead off with 22 votes for Roosevelt, and the other states would fall in line, making the choice of the president unanimous by the end of the roll call.

The beauty of this procedure, according to its authors, is that Mr. Roosevelt would not seem to be seeking renomination and his choice would have the appearance of a commanding call to the party's leadership, the two term tradition to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Hopkins declined to discuss the matter for publication. Mr. Farley said he had not heard of it. John E. Mack, delegate at large from New York, who originally was slated to deliver the speech placing the president in nomination, would not talk but indicated he did not know whether he was to do any nominating.

Up to President, Says Nominator.

"It is up to the president to say," was all he would vouchsafe.

The disclosure of this plan came at the end of a day in which the strategy board, consisting of Mr. Hopkins, Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, and a new recruit, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, pursued their efforts to eliminate all opposition to the renomination of the President in such a manner as to take the curse off the violation of the anti-third term tradition.

Their appeasement overtures encountered an insuperable obstacle in the person of Mr. Farley, who asserted he will stay in the contest for the nomination to the end of the balloting. Farley stated his position in a press conference.

"What about Massachusetts?" he was asked.

"They're pledged to me," Farley replied, "and I assume they'll keep their pledge. I will not release them. My name is going definitely before the convention and it won't be withdrawn until the balloting is finished."

"What about the report Senator Carter Glass will nominate you?"

Plans to Ask Glass.

"I don't know," answered Farley, "I haven't seen him. But I'd be happy to have him. He's a great American. I intend to ask him to nominate me."

"Do you have any agreement with other candidates that all names will be presented in regular order?"

"Any attempt to go contrary to the regular nomination of all candidates will be deeply resented by the delegates," said Farley. "This is a Democratic convention and the delegates have the right to express themselves frankly and freely."

"Jim, it was just a week ago you talked with Roosevelt. Isn't that secret ripe enough yet to tell?"

"Not by me," said Farley.

He was asked whether it were not true that New Dealers had been urg-

3d Term Foes Rise in Party's Female Ranks

BY MARCIA WINN.

National committeewomen, usually such cagey politicians that they [like Farley] won't talk Presidents, unleashed their tongues yesterday.

The subject was the "Draft Roosevelt" movement. Not all support it. At least two of the 51 Democratic National committeewomen do not want Mr. Roosevelt to run for a third term. They said so emphatically. His candidacy, they said, would lose the northwest for the Democrats.

Mrs. Edith R. Battey of Montana, chairman of her state welfare board, who boldly wears a "Win With Wheeler" button, minced no words.

"I'm absolutely opposed to a third term!" she said. "We cannot win the northwest with a third term.

Cites McNary Strength.

"Senator McNary [Republican candidate for Vice President] is the strongest man the Republicans could have nominated. We lose the northwest unless we have a man such as Wheeler, who can take the farm-labor vote, which McNary holds.

"You watch," she cautioned. "The anti-third term sentiment of the northwest will break forth on the third ballot. You'll hear something then."

Mrs. Emily F. Edson of Oregon, which is the native state of McNary, was equally ardent. She, too, wants Wheeler to head the ticket, with Farley as Vice President.

Out of 20 others, polled at a gala luncheon given by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, Illinois' committeewoman, in the Palmer House, a few were reticent and some were frankly worried about the third term issue.

Frankly, She's for Roosevelt.

Mrs. Daphna Nygaard of North Dakota was frank about the "Draft Roosevelt" move. "I'm for it," she said. "When the delegates go to cast their ballots, they won't bite the hand that feeds them."

But Mrs. Arthur D. Condon of Washington, D. C., proxy for Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, minister to Norway, admitted that she—altho pro-Roosevelt—is worried about the third term. She said she turns it over in her head every day. "Even people who admire him," she said, "worry about a possible dictatorship, but I say that he had an opportunity to be a dictator in 1933. The people wanted him to be one then and he wasn't, so why worry now?"

The final word at the luncheon came from Secretary of Labor Perkins.

She said she doesn't believe in breaking customs or precedents "just for the fun of breaking them," but believes that tradition should be disregarded if it interferes with a course believed to be right.

ing him to remain as national chairman in the event of the President's renomination.

"A great many people," said Farley, "have called and asked me to stay as chairman and said it would be helpful to the party."

"Does that include the so-called Hopkins crowd?"

"I'm not sure that I know what you mean by the Hopkins crowd," he answered. "Let's put it this way: A great many fine Democrats have called on me for that purpose."

Farley joined in the general laughter.

"Who's running this convention, Jim?" yelled a reporter.

Favors Unanimous Action.

Asked whether Massachusetts would move to make the nomination unanimous in event of the President's renomination, Farley said: "Any nomination should be made unanimous by the convention at the end of the balloting."

He said he had not been in touch with President Roosevelt since their Hyde Park conference last Sunday.

"Jim," asked a reporter, "If Willkie's name is presented to the convention, what will happen?"

"God only knows," he answered.

"When are you going to state your position on the third term?"

"Before this convention is over," said Farley with great emphasis, "I will express myself freely and frankly on all questions."

Opposition Is Evidenced.

There was evidence of great opposition among the arriving delegations to the choice of either Secretary of State Cordell Hull or Vice President Garner for Mr. Roosevelt's running mate, chiefly on the score of their age. The convention showed signs of going in search of a young, vigorous campaigner who would be able to trade blows with the redoubtable Republican champion, Wendell Willkie.

As a result, vice presidential lightning rods were reared by or on behalf of numerous young and vigorous Democrats, including Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, former Gov. McNutt, now federal security administrator; Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, Louis Johnson of West Virginia, assistant secretary of war; Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court, and Senator Wheeler.

The attention of the country will be focused on the 1,849 delegates and their deliberations in Chicago Stadium.

The convention will be unparalleled in our political annals. For the first time a major political party is about to bid defiance to the unwritten law limiting the tenure of the presidency to eight years.

Deemed Party's Only Hope.

It is going to "draft" President Roosevelt almost unanimously for a third term. It is going to disregard the anti-third term tradition on the theory that the critical state of world affairs demands the retention of Mr. Roosevelt in office.

Actually the party's reason is that he is deemed to be the only Democrat who can beat the Republican nominee.

For the first time a political party is going to renominate a President without knowing whether he will accept. Almost all the leaders and delegates now on the scene believe Roosevelt will run and, confident in that belief, they will choose him. But they are yet to learn Mr. Roosevelt's intentions from his own lips.

The President's secret has been well guarded. Only two persons here are known to share it with Mr. Roosevelt. They are Farley and Hopkins.

Stand Stirs Speculation.

When the President will choose to bare his mind on the subject is a matter of much speculation among leaders and delegates. Some believe it altogether likely he will maintain his silence until after his nomination next Thursday, if not until he delivers his acceptance speech, presumably after the Willkie acceptance.

Altho the presentation of candidates for the presidential nomination will not take place until Thursday, the speeches in effect nominating Mr. Roosevelt will begin with the opening of the convention today.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, a prime mover to "draft" the President for a third term, is expected to start the ball rolling when he gives the convention its official welcome at noon.

Chairman Farley may not contribute much, if anything, to the cause when he makes his speech opening the convention.

In his keynote speech which he will make tonight when he assumes the gavel as temporary chairman, William H. Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the house, may be expected to give the third term nomination a boost, indirectly at least.

Another Roosevelt nominating speech is expected tomorrow night when Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the President's famous "Dear Alben," who is majority leader of the senate, strikes another keynote as permanent chairman of the convention.

Wednesday night Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, chairman of the resolutions committee, will submit the party platform, which, supervised and in part drafted by the President, will suggest the great wisdom of retaining Mr. Roosevelt in office.

Then on Thursday will come the actual nominating. Whether the name of the President will be presented in the orthodox manner by Mr. Mack of New York or the unorthodox and arresting plan concocted by the White House strategists shall be followed will have been decided by that time.

TACK UP LAST BIT OF BUNTING FOR CONVENTION HALL

Farley Takes Few Whacks with His Gavel.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

The Chicago Stadium received its finishing touches yesterday afternoon for the grand opening of the Democratic national convention at noon today.

National Chairman James A. Farley, resplendent in a cream-colored suit and dark blue tie, stood before a battery of microphones on the bunting-covered platform and practiced a few whacks with his gavel in a preview of his opening address for the benefit of the newsreel cameramen. Speaker William B. Bankhead of Alabama, who will be named temporary chairman, had gone thru similar motions in the morning.

As soon as the national chairman was released to hurry off to a radio broadcast the sound of the hammer and saw reverberated thru the vast convention hall. Thomas Garry, city superintendent of sewers and head of the program of refurbishing the Stadium, asserted late in the day that everything was in readiness.

Seats Painted Bright Red.

The Stadium will present a festive picture on a mammoth canvas when the delegates, alternates, and spectators find their way to their seats today. These seats are all painted a brilliant red, which adds to the gayety of the scene.

Dominating the whole convention hall is a huge portrait hanging from the lower balcony at the western end of the Stadium. It is of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and is of sober mien, altho the convention artists gave him a pronounced striped tie.

Facing Roosevelt at the other end of the hall is another painted poster of Vice President John N. Garner.

The platform, which will be the nerve center for the big events all week, is on the Madison street side of the Stadium and faces to the north. Spread out from it are the nerve lines of the convention—the press, cameramen, radio, delegates, and spectators.

Seats for 3,187 on Floor.

Ranged along either side of the rostrum are the press seats. There are 762 of them. The press galleries are graded down from 12 feet above the convention floor at the point where they wing out from the platform to four and a half feet at the ends.

According to Superintendent Garry, the press seats were raised to this height so zealous photographers could not clamber up along the rim of the galleries and obscure the view of the newspaper men, not to mention the burned out flashlight bulbs they might drop into typewriters or laps.

Gilded Eagle Is There.

Jutting out from the stage into the arena like the prow of a ship is a gilded eagle, wings outstretched. The metal bird was removed from the Cook county Democratic headquarters at the Morrison hotel for the purpose.

Delegates will notice a curious-looking apparatus resembling a beehive suspended about 40 feet above the platform. This, Garry explained, was the loudspeaker system, with its battery of 16 horns.

Garry explained the amplifying system was the first of its kind and eliminates any flarebacks or "sounds like a man talking in a barrel." The individual microphones on the aisles at the seats of the various chairmen of the state and territorial delegations will be tuned in by pushing buttons on a soundboard on the platform.

Band Near Garner's Picture.

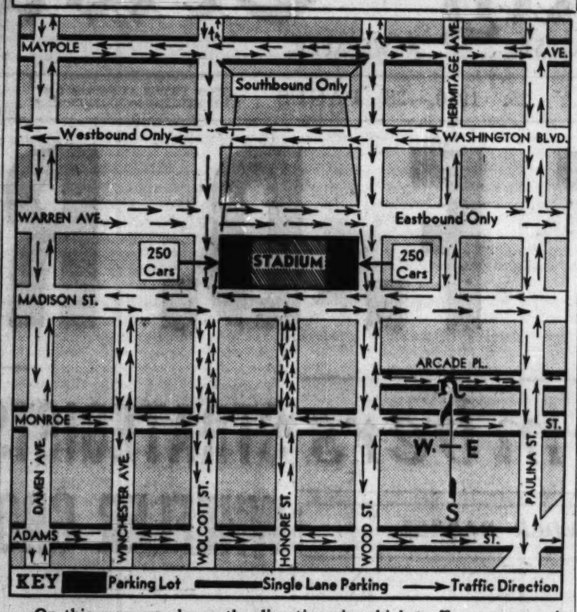
The organ loft and stand for a band of 40 men picked by James Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, are located on the east side of the Stadium, near Garner's picture.

In the basement are 86 newspaper offices and 22 dark rooms for photographers. Radio broadcasting studios will be found below the stage and behind it in the galleries. There also are two hospital units in the basement and mezzanine, manned by four doctors and six nurses, ready for any emergency, including surgery.

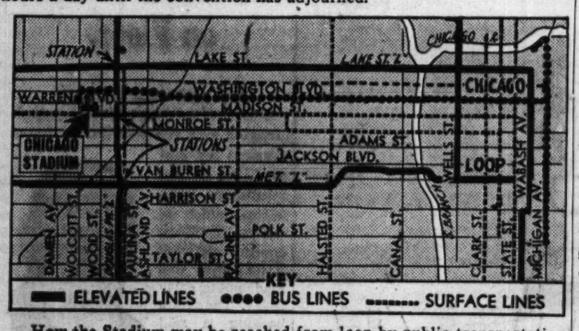
The interior of the Stadium is a riot of red, white, and blue. Two thousand five hundred lineal yards of bunting are draped from the balcony railings and platform, punctuated with the official seals of the states and territories. From the rafters are hanging 400 different pieces—flags, banners, and bunting.

Outside, the Stadium canopies also are draped in patriotic colors. American flags fly high over the building.

Traffic Scheme for Convention



On this map are shown the directions in which traffic may move in the vicinity of the Chicago Stadium during the Democratic national convention and the parking lots adjoining the huge auditorium. The scheme will go into effect today and will be continued in force 24 hours a day until the convention has adjourned.



How the Stadium may be reached from loop by public transportation facilities is indicated on this map.

Shower Is Likely Today for Convention Opening

A shower is likely today for the opening of the Democratic national convention, according to the weatherman, but it probably will be a light one.

90 PER CENT VOTE IN LITHUANIA DESPITE BIG RAIN

BERLIN, July 14 (AP).—The German wireless reported tonight that the national elections in Lithuania were being held without incidents, and that despite incessant rain 90 per cent of the voters had gone to the polls. It said that the supreme election committee issued a radio warning during the afternoon that "certain elements" were out to interfere with free voting, however, and said that in Kaunas and Vilna the polling places were so crowded that periodic closings were required.

SPECIAL TRANSIT SERVICE SET UP FOR CONVENTION

Shuttle Buses to Run from Hotels to Stadium.

Officials of the Chicago Surface lines, the Rapid Transit lines, the Chicago Motor coach company, and taxicab companies announced plans yesterday for special service to deliver Democratic convention delegates and visitors to the Chicago Stadium in speed and comfort.

The Chicago Motor Coach company will operate a shuttle service, with a bus every eight minutes, between Michigan avenue hotels and the Stadium. These buses will leave their terminal at 8th street and Michigan avenue and travel north to Washington street, then west to Wolcott avenue and south to Warren boulevard.

This special service will be supplemented by the regular bus line from Wacker drive and Michigan avenue south to Washington street and west to the Stadium.

New Cars to Be Used.

Surface lines officials estimated they would carry between 7,000 and 8,000 persons daily on the Madison street car lines. All of the streamlined equipment, 83 cars with front entrance, will be pressed into service in Madison street.

Officials of the Yellow Cab company said they would have 1,150 cabs on the streets 24 hours a day during the convention. The Checker Cab company will have 1,000 cabs in service.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company will supply service to the Stadium from the loop on the Lake street and Logan Square branches of the elevated. The trains will operate at six minute intervals and officials said cars will be added as they are required.

Pedestrians Main Problem.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, said the daily convention motor cavalcade would add no great burden to the west side boulevard system. He said pedestrian concentration around the Stadium would be the biggest police problem.

A force of 520 policemen, both patrolmen and traffic police, will be assigned to aid visitors and halt traffic snarls. Capt. David Flynn, head of the Chicago police traffic division, called attention of automobile drivers to the fact that Washington boulevard is for west bound traffic only, while east bound cars will travel in Warren avenue.

Wolcott avenue and Wood street will be set aside for southbound traffic between Maypole avenue and Madison street. Only two lanes of northbound traffic will be permitted in Honore street and Wolcott avenue between Adams and Madison streets.

PUERTO RICAN FARLEY DELEGATION WINS OUT OVER ROOSEVELT BLOC

The Puerto Rico delegation pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley won a battle last night over an uninstructed group favorable to President Roosevelt. The decision was made by a subcommittee headed by Gory Hogg of West Virginia, with full power to act for the national committee.

This seating contest must now be acted on by the convention credentials committee, to be created today, and by the convention itself. W. R. Bennett, national committeeman from Puerto Rico, headed the winning group of six delegates.

The contest involved a factional fight between Bennett and a younger group led by Louis H. Dexter and Walter McK. Jones, a former national committeeman from the island.

FARLEY SPEAKS BEFORE NEGRO PARTY WORKERS

Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, yesterday addressed delegates to the 12th quadrennial convention of the National Colored Democratic association. The convention is being held at the 8th regiment armory, 35th street and Giles avenue.

Farley urged the Negro Democrats to give unanimous support to their party in the November election. About 20 states have sent delegates to the 1940 convention.

COL. M'CORMICK'S WARNING: ARMY NEEDS MACHINES!

Blames Inaction of Foes for Nazi Success.

Germany was the only nation in the world to study the losses of the last war and exploit new weapons. The most terrible warfare in history has resulted. But a defense can be perfected to meet any offensive. And in this case the answer is mechanization: machines in vast numbers.

This was the assertion of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in an address given last night during The Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour over station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Two weeks ago Col. McCormick, a regimental commander and member of Gen. Pershing's staff in the last war, outlined the probable line of German attack upon England, indicating a point of view which proved later to be shared by British military authorities. Last week he counseled foresight and calm judgment in American military policies.

Repeats Summerall's Warning.

Last night he repeated the warning, voiced after the last war by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, that "any great nation which fails to provide for mechanization to the utmost practicable degree must suffer the consequences of neglect in future war."

In his analysis of modern warfare, Col. McCormick likened the shock of Germany's blitzkrieg to the disaster visited upon the Persians when Alexander hurled his phalanxes and cavalry against them.

The text of the address follows:

"Soldiers and sailors are not more resistant to progress than other people.

"But where, in private life, obtuseness brings the downfall of the individual or, at most, of his company, in a commanding general, or in a school of war, it destroys a nation.

Mechanization Spreads Ruin.

"The development of mechanization has brought ruin to buggy manufacturers, carriage makers, horse dealers, and others who did not accommodate themselves to it. It brought ruin to whole countries in Europe whose generals did not.

"In private life great men are free to come to the front. In consequence, progress is continuous and rapid. The organization of armies is such that it is difficult for the exceptional man to rise. The tendency, therefore, is toward mediocrity; to avoidance of deep research; to worship of the past; to refuge in such phrases as 'the principles of war are unchangeable,' and 'infantry is the queen of the battlefield.'

"History tells us that new instruments of war have been generally forced upon armies by emergency. The army resists them, and, instead of accommodating itself, tries to force them into its rigid routine, or to ignore them.

Taxicab Attack Recalled.

"Thus, Gallieni's brilliant use of the taxicabs of Paris to attack the German flank on the Ourcq, has been discounted by military pedants.

"The bringing of supplies into Verdun by a fleet of trucks, when the railroad into the fort was cut, has been ignored. The transportation of troops by omnibus to fill the holes in the line in the battles of 1918 and to bring American assault troops to the front the same year have not been studied. The use of tanks has not been developed beyond 1918. In most countries the flying corps and the other services have quarreled, hampering the development and usefulness of aviation.

"From the beginning of antiquity, military minds have thought in terms of three miles an hour, the walking pace. Military literature, telling the exploits of great generals, knows nothing of armed machines which travel at 30 miles per hour, and airplanes at 300.

Germany Learns War Lessons.

"Elsewhere, military doctrines went back rather than forward from 1918. Only in Germany were the lessons of the last war studied and the possibilities of the new weapons exploited.

"In every defeated country, defensive tactics were based on the theory of a walking enemy, slowly deploying, opening an artillery bombardment, and working forward thru barrage and machine gunfire at a foot's pace.

"What happened to them was that the bombardment flew at them at 200 miles an hour, and the attack was from armed machines charging thru the danger zone at 30 miles an hour, while troops dropped in parachutes or landed from airplanes distracted the defense.

How Mechanized Armies Won.

"Once thru the line, the mechanized columns ranged at will in an undefended countryside, capturing generals, cutting telegraph wires, destroying railroads, breaking up the supply organization of the opposing army, depriving it of food and ammunition while finding its own supplies in unfortified towns and depots.

"So successful have these tactics proved that where a year ago the defense was considered so much stronger than the attack that little nations thought to defend themselves against a great one, today the attack is as irresistible as the charge of Alexander's phalanxes and cavalry was to the Persians.

"Is it possible to devise a defense against this lightning warfare? It would be strange if it were not, as all thru history a defense has been found for every form of attack.

Germans Stopped in 1918.

"In the spring of 1918 the Germans learned to break the rigid front trench line then in vogue, and were near to victory when stopped by a more elastic form of defense in a zone some six miles deep.

"If a zone six miles deep was sufficient to slow down and stop an attack on foot at three miles an hour, how deep a zone must be prepared to stop an attack at 30 miles per hour? How deep a zone to exhaust the attacker, use up his supplies, stop or delay him until reënforcements can attack and destroy him?

"That can be tried out in maneuvers but proved only in war. For sake of discussion, shall we say, a zone 40 miles deep? This defense would involve the occupying of all points that an armored column MUST pass thru or stop; ALL bridges, ALL roads thru woods and forests, all causeways, all mountain passes, all considerable towns, fortified on the vast scale that mechanical shovels now make possible.

Garrisons' Needs Told.

"All of the garrisons should be armed with antitank and antiaircraft weapons with machine guns and automatic weapons for close fighting.

"Whatever could be of use to the enemy would be concentrated at these strong points. If numbers do not permit the holding of all of them, or if the holding forces were being overcome, there should be complete demolition of the bridges or roads. Supplies of all kinds should be utterly destroyed or moved to other defended places.

"The enemy panzer columns being stopped or delayed, unable to injure the defender's supplies or procure supplies for themselves, the defensive airplanes and defensive tanks operating freely thru these fortified points, which hamper movements of the attacker, should have enough advantage over him to defeat him. This implies that the defender be approximately as strong in equipment as the attacker, as warlike and as skilful.

Politics Hampers Defense.

"In our country the lack of mechanical equipment and consequent ignorance of its use is not the fault of the military but of the political forces.

"As long ago as 1923, under the leadership of Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, the army adopted the principle of mechanization. In 1929, Gen. Summerall, the great fighting soldier of 1918, said:

"'We must recognize that we are living in a mechanical age. Any great nation which fails to provide for mechanization to the utmost practicable degree must suffer the consequences of neglect in future war.'

"But his advice was not followed by the political authorities.

"Today we have not enough tanks and other machines even to practice with effectively.

"We have not a single heavy battle tank or a man with experience enough to design one confidently.

"Until the tools are provided, until our generals and general staff officers have learned how to use them, all the talk about raising armies is futile.

"Impress upon your friends what Gen. Summerall said 11 years ago. Build machines. Build them in great numbers. Build them fast, for men without machines are helpless in modern war. Fortunately, we have the greatest factories and the most capable manufacturers in the world. Turn them loose to arm us, and all will yet be well."

600 STUDIO GUESTS

A studio audience of 600 heard Col. McCormick's address and the Symphonic Hour. Music by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Henry Weber, ranged from the overture to the opera "Rienzi," by Wagner, to selections from the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas, "Iolanthe" and "The Gondoliers."

Marion Claire, soprano, sang "Star Vicino," by Rosa, Brahms' "Serenade," and, assisted by the W-G-N chorus, "Waltz of the Flowers," by Tschaikowsky. Her love song from Iolanthe was particularly well received, as was "Bow, Bow, Ye Low and Middle Classes," which featured the chorus.

The Symphonic Hour was produced by William A. Bacher of W-G-N. The program notes were prepared by Cecil Smith, of THE TRIBUNE.

PLAN STRATEGY TO GET STRONG ANTIWAR PLANK

Leaders of the Keep America Out of War congress met last night, on the eve of the Democratic national convention, to determine strategy they will follow in seeking adoption of strong antiwar and anticonscription planks. Two hundred leaders from various parts of the country attended the meeting in St. Paul Methodist church, Ashland avenue and Harrison street.

Frederick J. Libby, of Washington, D. C., national executive of the Council for the Prevention of War, called for "a soundly developed peace movement with well equipped research staff to aid local study groups in determining what the foreign or domestic policies should be." He said the government in a democracy depends for policy on an enlightened people.

Harold Fey, field editor of the Christian Century, who recently returned from Asia, outlined reasons why the United States should remain at peace with oriental countries.

ANTIWAR PLANK IS DRAFTED BY WHEELER GROUP

Senators Threaten to Carry Fight to Floor.

declaration will be made for preparedness and national defense, and also for upholding the present neutrality laws.

Whether this will mean a controversy was in doubt last night, one surmise being that to avoid a floor fight the resolutions committee might accept a large part of the proposed plank.

Senator Wheeler still is at work on the draft of an anticonscription plank. On this subject he had conferences with Senator Clark of Missouri and others. This plank, it was declared, will be submitted to the resolutions committee.

Compromise Is Likely.

Earlier the anticonscriptionists declared if their views were not placed in the platform draft they would carry their fight to the convention floor. The possibility appeared, however, that an affirmative plank, for conscription might be submitted by the advocates of compulsory military training. In this event a compromise might bring about silence on the whole subject.

In this event the Wheeler-Clark group might not push the matter further. In the event, however, that a plank for conscription for national defense only should be placed in the final platform draft, the group threatens to take the issue to the floor for decision by the delegates.

Wants Peace Party Name.

Senator Wheeler said the Democratic party must designate itself a peace party.

He said it must be committed to a program of "peace, prosperity, and preparedness." The Republican national platform adopted at Philadelphia said the Republican party stands for "Americanism, preparedness, and peace."

The air became somewhat tense with potential controversy as the party's declaration on foreign affairs and national defense moved into the foreground. During the public hearings of the resolutions committee, the Burke bill [not an administration measure] which proposes to require more than 40 million men between 18 and 65 years of age to register, has been a common target for many groups.

Expect Strong Resistance.

An anti-conscription plank is likely to meet with strong resistance by the administration forces, inasmuch as the war and navy departments have recently urged immediate adoption of compulsory selective military service. As a first step in this program, it is proposed that President Roosevelt mobilize the National Guard for a year of intensive federal training.

In an effort to head off the conscription controversy, Speaker Bankhead, convention keynoter, urged postponement of the issue at a press conference.

"We ought not to be too fast in taking a stand in the form of compulsory military training," he said. "We should consider all phases of the problem and then decide upon the most reasonable way of defending ourselves."

Cites Views of Stimson.

After a conference with Senator Clark, Senator Wheeler said the noninterventionists are not fully satisfied with a war plank that might be modeled upon President Roosevelt's pledge in his defense message to congress last week that American troops will not be sent overseas to take part in Europe's wars.

He said a plank should amplify this and reaffirm belief in the neutrality laws. This he said was essential because Secretary of War Stimson has been advocating repeal of these laws. Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts is among those expected to support Wheeler on this part of the plank.

"It is not sufficient to merely say that we 'won't send our men to fight in Europe's wars'," said Senator Wheeler. "If we should become involved in the European war this pledge would mean nothing. It would then be called an American war, our war, and, of course, our men would be sent to Europe.

Wants Even Stronger Pledge.

"I want a pledge that no American boys will be sent to fight on foreign soil unless this country, or the western hemisphere, covered by the Monroe Doctrine, should be attacked. I shall also seek a pledge to retain the existing neutrality law, which keeps American ships out of the war zones and prohibits credits to Great Britain and other belligerents."

Harry H. Woodring, who resigned as secretary of war and was replaced in the Roosevelt cabinet by Henry L. Stimson, former Republican, on his arrival said he had a brief plank on nonintervention. He conferred with Senators Wheeler and Clark. The Woodring declaration, which will be placed before the resolutions committee by the Kansas member of the committee, Randolph Carpenter, reads:

"We are for a policy of nonintervention in the politics as well as the military affairs of the old world."

The resolutions committee held a short public hearing in the Blackstone yesterday morning, followed by a brief executive session. There are to be more open hearings today, and at the conclusion the committee, given its official standing by the convention today, will take up actual drafting of the party's declaration of principles and issues for the coming campaign.

Opposed to Poll Taxes.

Ald. Earl B. Dickerson [2d] of Chicago headed a delegation of Negro Democratic leaders at yesterday's public session of the committee and submitted their proposals for platform pledges. Dickerson wanted the party to go on record for abolition of poll taxes in the southern states, for adoption of cloture by the United States senate in order to pass the Wagner-Gavagan antilynching bill, and for safeguards against discrimination on account of race, creed, or color in the administration of relief, the national defense program, and all tax financed projects.

Dickerson told the resolutions committee that there are more than 4,000,000 Negro voters and that they hold the balance of power in 89 congressional districts.

Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico, author of the Hatch Pure Politics act, asked the committee to include a plank indorsing his plan to have national campaigns financed by the federal government and to prohibit other contributions.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to speak at today's open session. Phillip Murray on Friday gave the position of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

As part of the discussion over conscription and foreign policy planks, Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.], author of the war referendum resolution which has attracted attention in recent years, in a letter to Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, chairman of the resolutions committee, yesterday urged the referendum idea be written into the platform.

"A forthright declaration in favor of giving the people a right to vote on any proposals to send Americans to war overseas," Ludlow wrote, "if put into the platform, would sweep the nation."

No Threat to Defense.

"The war referendum plank which I propose would be strictly limited to a declaration for a referendum on taking part in overseas wars. If the United States or any other country in the western hemisphere is attacked or invaded the referendum would not apply.

"This proposal would not impair our national defense in any way, shape, form, or degree, and the Monroe Doctrine would be fully safeguarded and protected. We who advocate a referendum on foreign wars believe in the strongest possible national defense."

On the interventionist side, an open message was sent to the delegates to the national convention yesterday by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, of which William Allen White of Kansas is national chairman.

This statement said the "best possible way for us to keep the war away from our shores is to help Great Britain and her allies assure a victory over Hitler at the English channel."

TWO C. I. O. AIDS DESERT LEWIS FOR ROOSEVELT

Kennedy and Murray Get Seats on Bandwagon.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, appeared yesterday to have lost two of his strongest lieutenants to the Roosevelt bandwagon movement. He and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, once friends but now enemies, were both here for the convention—Green for nonpolitical purposes, he said; Lewis for unexplained purposes.

A statement was issued in convention headquarters declaring that Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, and Philip Murray, Steel Workers' union leader and principal lieutenant of Lewis in the C. I. O. movement, will cast their convention votes for President Roosevelt for a third term.

Car Workers for Roosevelt.

This action followed an announcement last Wednesday that the United Automobile Workers of America, the second largest affiliate of the C. I. O., was urging the third nomination for Roosevelt. The executive board of the U. A. W. A., in session in the Morrison hotel, voted for a resolution to that effect.

A short time ago Lewis announced his break with the New Deal and declared that if Roosevelt were renominated he would be ignominiously defeated.

The announcement of the voting intentions of Kennedy and Murray came originally from the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, a unit of the C. I. O. Vincent Sweeney, spokesman for both, was asked whether the announcement did not indicate a split in the ranks of the C. I. O.

"You may draw own conclusions," he replied.

Lewis Refuses to Comment.

The announcement was shown later to Lewis and he said he had no comment on it.

"Why are you here, Mr. Lewis?" a reporter asked.

"I came here to meet Murray and others of my friends," he said.

"Do you plan to take an active part in the convention, for or against any one?"

"No," replied Lewis.

Democratic leaders said Murray and Kennedy represented more than 1,000,000 members of the C. I. O. They said the rank and file wanted to support the Democratic party, but that Lewis was playing politics and now finds himself with no place to go except to Roosevelt or to Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee.

Green appeared interested in the prospect of a schism between Lewis and other C. I. O. leaders. He said Lewis' hopes have been based on a third party movement or a split in the Democratic party, but that instead the split appears to be in the C. I. O.

IOWA DELEGATION ORGANIZES; 5 IN COMMITTEE RACE

Iowa delegates to the Democratic national convention completed their organization yesterday except for electing a national committeeman and committeewoman. Five candidates compose the field for committeeman and a choice was postponed until later.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace was confirmed for member of the resolutions committee. Former Gov. Nels G. Kraschel of Harlan was named to the committee on credentials.

Former Gov. Kraschel was given an edge by some of the Iowa observers here for national committeeman. When the delegation finally ballots for that office they will consider Kraschel, Bert Jeck of Atlantic, Frank Comfort of Des Moines, Walter Balluff of Davenport, and T. E. Diamond of Sheldon.

Californians Elect Actress National Committeewoman

Helen Gahagan, motion picture actress, was elected Democratic national committeewoman from California yesterday. The California convention delegation gave her 29 votes to 15 for her closest rival. Miss Gahagan is the wife of Melvyn Douglas, actor and director. This is her first venture into politics.

INDIANA SHOWS OFF McNUTT IN MARBLE HALLS

Indiana is doing things in a big way at the convention—in a bigger way, in fact, than any other state. Hoosier Democrats want the home folks to know that and are urging that still more Indianans come to the Stevens hotel to see for themselves.

First, there is the favorite son candidate himself, former Gov. Paul V. McNutt, now federal security administrator. Standing 6 feet 3 inches tall, he usually towers over any cluster of visitors.

Of imperial proportions, the Indiana quarters are the largest of the 52 delegations at the convention. There is nearly 8,000 square feet of marble paved floor space, reached by one easy flight of stairs from the hotel lobby. Ceilings are 30 feet high.

McNutt is likely to be found standing in front of the largest picture of President Roosevelt in the United States. This gigantic likeness, 22 by 16 feet, is a color photo enlargement.

More than 7,000 McNutt buttons have been handed out to the stream of visitors since the capacious quarters were opened Saturday morning.

KENTUCKY PICKS GOVERNOR HEAD OF DELEGATION

Gov. Keen Johnson was elected chairman of the Kentucky delegation to the Democratic national convention last night. Senator Alben W. Barkley, majority leader at Washington, was named to the resolution committee, as was anticipated.

Senator A. B. [Happy] Chandler, Barkley's colleague, was placed on the committee which will notify the presidential nominee of his choice. Lieut. Gov. Rodes Meyers will perform that duty on behalf of Kentucky for the vice presidential nominee.

Other appointments made at the caucus sent Mayor Joseph Schultz of Louisville to the committee on permanent organization and placed Dr. John Phillips of Williamsburg on the credentials committee. Dr. B. F. Shields of Taylorsville, speaker of the Kentucky house of representatives, will be on the rules committee.

Since Gov. Johnson has already been named national committeeman to succeed Senator Chandler, and Mrs. Sam L. Connor of Bardstown was elected committeewoman, these matters did not come before tonight's caucus.

If President Roosevelt does not run, Kentucky's 22 votes will go first to Senator Barkley.

63 CIVILIAN AIDS TO VISIT STIMSON IN WASHINGTON

State and corps area civilian aids of the secretary of war will go to Washington Wednesday for a conference with Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. The meeting was called by Tom R. Wyles of Highland Park, national president of the Military Training Camp association, who is chief civilian aid to the secretary of war. A total of 63 aids will attend, including members of the national emergency committee of the association, whose chairman is Granville Clark of New York. The group will discuss military training camps, preparedness, selective service, and other matters.

YOUNG DEMOCRAT SPOKESMEN SAY AMEN, NEW DEAL

Adopt Report on Issues Without Debate.

State leaders of the Young Democratic clubs of America, claiming to represent 4 million persons, approved yesterday without debate the Roosevelt proposal of compulsory military and industrial service. This was included in a statement of principles adopted by the leaders and submitted to the convention resolutions committee.

Homer Mat Adams, national president of the Young Democrats, assistant director of the Illinois department of finance, and nominee for state treasurer, said that 150 leaders attended the meeting in the Stevens hotel. There were Young Democratic national committeemen and committeewomen from every state. In addition there were chairmen of activity committees without voice or vote in the proceedings.

"The vote was unanimous," said Adams. "These matters were offered for debate but there was none."

Follow Roosevelt Policies.

In no detail of their report did the Young Democrats depart from the Roosevelt policies. On the controversial question of compulsory training they said:

"Members are willing and anxious to make any sacrifice for the defense of our country. The young men realize that the cause of preparedness and their own self-interest demand that they be trained now for any eventuality.

"Therefore they indorse a program of service to the government—a program that calls into service all young men either for training in the armed forces or in civilian and vocational fields. Compulsory military service alone does not meet all the needs for this nation's defense."

Fear Threat to Democracy.

The Young Democrats echoed the President's pronouncements to the effect that the European war threatens American democracy and that all material aid should be given to democracies involved in battle. American youth, they said, stands firmly behind Roosevelt's declaration that "we will not use our arms in a war of aggression; we will not send our men to take part in European wars."

Unqualified approval was also given to the President's assertions about the Monroe Doctrine and the protection of all nations in the western hemisphere "along cultural and economic lines."

Lewis, head of the C. I. O., and James C. Petrillo, national head of the musicians' union, were among the guests.

Among United States senators present were James F. Byrnes, South Carolina; Joseph F. Guffey, Pennsylvania; Sherman Minton, Indiana, and Francis T. Maloney, Connecticut.

MICHIGAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE MEMBERS RENAMED TO POSTS

Michigan delegates to the Democratic convention last night reelected their national committeeman and committeewoman, Edmund C. Shields of Lansing, and Mrs. Clara D. Van Auken of Detroit. This action was taken by acclamation in the caucus room in the Morrison hotel.

United States Senator Prentiss M. Brown was chosen member of the convention resolutions committee. By a resolution proposed by feminists, the delegation was committed to support a plan to double the number of resolutions committee members in order to make room for one woman from each state. Such a plan is expected to be offered on the convention floor today. Mrs. Christine McDonald Huston of Ypsilanti will be the Michigan representative in the event this course is adopted.

Mrs. Violet Patterson of Perkins, vice president of the Young Democrats of Michigan, was named to the committee to notify the vice presidential nominee. She is the first Michigan woman to be so honored. Senator Brown was pledged the "favorite son" support for the vice presidential nomination in another resolution.

MISSOURI HAS 30 VOTES, 29½ FOR ROOSEVELT

Missouri's delegation to the Democratic national convention will cast 29½ votes for President Roosevelt and ½ of a vote for Vice President Garner—from Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

This was the tally registered yesterday at the Missouri caucus in the Hotel Sherman. Senator Clark presided as chairman of the delegation, but stepped down from the chair when the order of business turned to the selection of a delegate to second the President's renomination for a third term.

Determination of its voting stand was the principal business before the delegation since it had selected its members on the convention committees before leaving home.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark is being boomed by friends for a place on the national ticket, but what support he will get from Missouri depends on what happens after the first ballot.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN LEG.

AN EQUAL RIGHTS BUGABOO SPLITS WOMEN'S RANKS

Guffey's Sister Lambasts Committee Stand.

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller.

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, peppery national committeewoman from Pennsylvania and sister of Senator Joseph F. Guffey, started the schism yesterday, or, perhaps, advanced it. Mrs. Miller announced, in a voice of iron and with tears in her eyes, that the women's advisory committee of 18, of which the Democratic women's division so proudly sings, is not a women's committee but "a committee of women."

Assails Secret Session.

She termed it unofficial, unrepresentative, bigoted, and self appointed. She wants to know why it met secretly Saturday to draw up the 14 point program it gave to the platform committee as "reflecting the opinion of women" on vital issues. Its views on at least one issue—that ancient bugaboo, the equal rights amendment—are not hers.

This 14 point program, given to Senator Robert F. Wagner, resolutions chairman, for consideration, tackled such problems as international policy, employment, youth, labor, and health. In it, the women said America's first line of defense is preservation of "social legislative gains" of the New Deal. By adroit wording of a phrase in its labor plank it evaded indorsement of equal rights for men and women—a plank for which many feminists, among them Mrs. Miller, are fighting.

This considered slight drew Mrs. Miller's wrath, part of which she managed to squeeze into an 800 word statement to Senator Wagner.

Only 15 States Represented.

"Only 15 states were represented on the committee," Mrs. Miller said indignantly. "And the state of Pennsylvania not at all. New York, however, had four members.

"Nobody asked any of the national committeewomen about it. We have three lawyers on the national committee. Why wasn't one of them on the advisory committee?

"I don't object to the women who were on it. They are very fine, but they were there unofficially. That's what infuriates me. Unofficially!"

If she had known of the committee's whereabouts, Mrs. Miller said, she would have forced her way in to discuss the equal rights amendment. The committee of 18 in its labor plank, politely but firmly disavowed any equal rights movement. In doing so, Mrs. Miller feels they denied their democratic birthright.

Calls Issue Fundamental.

"Since this is a fundamental issue," Mrs. Miller cried, "then the only democratic way is to submit it to the people. That is good Americanism—and good politics."

Mrs. Miller was not alone in her stand. All four of the national committeewomen sitting near her at a luncheon in the Palmer House agreed, among them Helen Hanson of Maine, an attorney and delegate at large; Mrs. Clara Van Auken of Michigan, and Mrs. Luella Brown of New Mexico.

"I wasn't invited to listen," said Miss Hanson.

"We weren't even notified," said Mrs. Van Auken.

"No one was——," said Mrs. Brown. "Is that democratic?"

Chief of Group Replies.

Mrs. Thomas F. McAllister, head of the women's division, who appointed the committee of 18, replied to Mrs. Miller's broadside with, "Why didn't she tell me she wanted to talk? Nobody asked me." Mrs. McAllister appointed the committee July 1, she said, and made the 18 names public. She says the women represented all regions of the United States. Nobody asked her to appoint it, she said. She did it because such a committee functioned in 1936.

As for equal rights, the women are pretty well divided. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins termed it "this equal right racket," and said, "I disfavor it right out."

In the Convention Whirl

There was some unrest yesterday over selection of a convention flower. Florists were reported to favor the white rose, which, they say, means in the language of flowers, "I am worthy of you." Some delegates were on record for the gladioli. They mean "armed and prepared."

Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois, will be host to delegates and alternates from Illinois at a luncheon in the Palmer House tomorrow.

Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, will preside at a memorial breakfast Wednesday morning in honor of the late William Jennings Bryan, three times a Democratic presidential nominee. Daniels served in the cabinet with Bryan under Woodrow Wilson. [See page 6.]

Donkeys will be the main item among souvenirs to be sold at the convention. Delegates can get all kinds, from lapel donkeys to 30 inch gray and white plush donkeys attired in green vests and gray striped trousers.

No liquor will be sold at the convention, but there is an ornate bar in the reception headquarters at the Stadium.

Postmaster General Farley was at the La Salle street station early yesterday to meet Mrs. Farley, who arrived on the 20th Century Limited from New York City. Also aboard the train were Gov. Lehman of New York and Mrs. Lehman, and Basil O'Connor, President Roosevelt's former law partner. [See page 6.]

Later Farley advised a radio audience: "If you follow the deliberations of the convention here in Chicago with close and undivided attention, you will not be disappointed. Please remember that we Democrats never do things in a dull way."

Mrs. Sam H. Jones, wife of the governor of Louisiana, and a party of 35 Louisiana Democratic leaders arrived on the Panama Limited of the Illinois Central railroad. Mayor Walter Chandler of Memphis, Tenn., also was aboard the train.

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, arrived early yesterday and hastened into conference.

Some of the Democrats among the throng at the Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field mistook novelty dolls which hawkers were selling for Democratic political dolls. The dolls were dressed in red shirts and blue trousers to imitate firemen, and across their chests in large white felt blocks were the letters "F. D." This, of course meant "fire department," but some of the visitors thought they meant "Franklin Delano."

Ely Culbertson, the bridge expert, wearing the alternate's badge from Connecticut, arrived to get his first taste of politics. Culbertson said he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative at large in Connecticut.

SEIZE PUNCH BOARDS, DICE GAMES.

Bloomington, Ill., July 14 [Special].—De-Witt county sheriff's deputies last night seized a large number of punch boards and dice games in a gambling raid in Clinton. Marion Coppenbarger was fined $33.40 on a plea of guilty and eight others posted $200 bond and their trial was continued 10 days.

BANKHEAD IN CITY READY TO MAKE KEYNOTE SPEECH

Stages Preview; Says He Will Talk 35 Minutes.

William B. Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the house of representatives, temporary chairman and keynoter of the Democratic national convention, arrived in Chicago yesterday and staged a preview of his speech for news reel cameramen in the Stadium.

He pronounced the convention arrangements "magnificent" and told radio men his speech tonight would take but 35 minutes for delivery. This is the fourth convention for the Alabama legislator.

Father of Actress.

The father of Tallulah Bankhead, star of stage and radio, Speaker Bankhead almost succumbed to the lure of the footlights while serving his legal apprenticeship in New York City. He was ready to accept a part in a Broadway production when his mother persuaded him to stick to the law.

When Tallulah decided on a stage career he was her strongest ally and friends believe he takes more pride in his daughter's stage progress than in his own career.

"He was my first dramatic teacher," Miss Bankhead has told fellow actors. "He played Romeo while I attempted Juliet."

Served Under 6 Speakers.

Bankhead served as chairman of the rules committee and majority leader of the house before he became speaker. His unanimous election to that post came after the death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee near the close of the 1936 session. He was the first Alabaman to become speaker of the house.

Speaker Bankhead is the brother of Senator John Hollis Bankhead of Alabama and the son of the late Senator John H. Bankhead. He served under six speakers before he was elected to the position. He has said that he regards Champ Clark as the greatest of these, and one of his most cherished possessions is a scarred gavel which Clark autographed for him.

Willkie Will Be Invited to Norris' Home Town

McCook, Neb., July 14 [Special].—Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, will be invited to open his speaking campaign in McCook, the home of Senator George W. Norris, who already has attacked Willkie's utility connections.

'Father Is Keynoter

Tallulah Bankhead, star of stage and radio, whose father, William B. Bankhead of Alabama, will be temporary chairman and keynoter of convention.

BOLSTERS FEAR ROOSEVELT WILL AID LA FOLLETTES

Wisconsin Democrats who are afraid President Roosevelt will aid the La Follette Progressives in Wisconsin, as he did four years ago, asserted their fears were strengthened last night by a speech of Leo T. Crowley, director of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. He is the New Deal contact man for the Badger Democrats.

Crowley addressed the 24 Wisconsin delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention when they assembled in the Bismarck hotel for a dinner given by Charles E. Broughton and Mrs. Louise N. Givan, Wisconsin national committee members.

The speaker referred to a successful Republican-conservative Democratic coalition in the Wisconsin congressional and state elections in 1938, and said: "If a coalition with the Republicans was all right in 1938, why won't a coalition with the Progressives be proper in 1940?"

He was replying to a question by Willis Donley, a delegate pledged to Vice President John N. Garner. Donley had asked: "Will the President support the Democratic ticket in Wisconsin?" After his reference to the 1938 coalition, Crowley gave Donley the direct answer: "I don't know."

After the dinner and Crowley's speech, the Wisconsin delegates reelected Broughton as national committee member. He received 16 of the 24 votes. Election of the woman member was postponed until Tuesday afternoon.

WILLKIE DINES WITH 10,000 AT COLORADO FETE

Eats Trout, Buffalo Meat on Slope of Rockies.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Almont, Colo., July 14.—Ten thousand people from the western slopes of the Colorado Rockies gathered on the banks of the Gunnison river at this famous fishing center today to eat fried trout and buffalo meat and to add a new and unique chapter to the rising political miracle of the Wendell L. Willkie presidential boom.

This was an annual event along the Gunnison, and fishermen snaked 5,000 trout out of the clear, fast waters to feed the multitude, and all was free as on another Sabbath long ago when loaves and fishes were served. There were 3,000 at the feast last year, and so the politicians of the district figure that the added 7,000 came to see the Republican presidential nominee.

Willkie, Carr Arrive Together.

Willkie and his party, led by Gov. Ralph Carr, motored 185 miles over Monarch pass from Colorado Springs to sit under the pines and eat fish cooked over a camp fire. Others came from all over the western slope and from as far as Pueblo and Grand Junction. The roads up the Gunnison valley were heavy with dust and the people streamed in a long line for hours past the smoking tables of fish and meat. The affair was under the auspices of the Gunnison Izaak Walton league.

While this was not supposed to be a campaign trip, Gov. Carr made use of the opportunity to tell his people that they must "do their part in saving the last stand of democracy in this country" by sending Willkie to the White House in November. The applause that greeted this appeal and the applause given Willkie when he rose to speak gave evidence that Colorado voters will do their part.

Willkie was under temptation to speak what is on his heart in this campaign, a flaming conviction that he is heading a crusade of the people, but he merely told the people that he had a happy day and that they were the kind of people he had known all his life.

Willkie Meets Leaders.

"As I look at you," he said, "I see America, the kind of people I grew up with in Indiana and the kind I know. It is not proper for me today to talk on political issues, but the America that you represent must be preserved at all hazards. To that cause I dedicate myself and all the counsel and assistance I may have."

The fish fry proper was held on the river banks in a pine forest 12 miles from Gunnison. Here the candidate and Mrs. Willkie were lost in the crowd a minute after they had left their cars. They were pulled and guided by friendly hands to special seats under a pine tree and ate three or four fish apiece. Between bites Willkie was introduced to people from all the surrounding counties, leaders in Republican clubs, women's clubs, and independent clubs.

Young Men Are Present.

Adjournment was taken an hour later to a platform in front of the club lodge, where the thousands were gathered along the roads in a dusty amphitheater. Tawny breasts of mountains formed the background. An American flag was set in a standard on the platform and a band played while the local notables were marshaling their forces.

The meeting was in charge of Ed Dutcher, county chairman. On the platform were state Republican leaders and young business men organizers of the Willkie for President clubs, who are waiting for the word to go in the campaign. They have pledged themselves not to seek any office with emolument for the next four years. This is a movement of young America of the responsible type that is one of the most significant things in this campaign.

On the trip here Willkie stopped at several small towns to shake hands with people in the street. At Salida several hundred persons, gathered on the streets, sought to see and shake hands with "the next President."

Willkie takes all this in a natural, easy stride. He likes to meet people and has a natural flair for political campaigning. Mrs. Willkie trails along in the background, interested as a girl at a country fair, but quite unaware that she has attained any great importance herself. The women in these crowds take a quick liking to her.

Willkie returned to Colorado Springs by airplane.

Green Tells Young G.O.P.: We Must Make Democracy Work

Decatur, Ill., July 14 [Special].—Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, called on Young Republicans here today to volunteer for service under the colors of the Republican party to avoid being drafted for war and work under a dictatorial government of the New Deal.

Before a cheering crowd of 2,500 delegates and visitors at the final session of the Illinois Young Republican convention, Green told his audience: "We are in a fight to the finish to preserve the American form of government and our system of private enterprise. The 1940 campaign is the last hope for the preservation of these American principles. A third term would destroy them."

People Turn to Willkie.

Green said that in every walk of life people are turning to the Republican party and the leadership of Wendell Willkie, the nominee for President.

"We have seen freedom lost in lands where government has failed and the people in despair have yielded to a totalitarian government," said Green. "We must make democracy work in Illinois and the nation."

Green also assailed the Kelly-Nash and Springfield political machines and said they are attempting to dominate the Democratic convention in Chicago.

James M. Tucker, secretary of state of Indiana, in his talk this afternoon also threw down the gauntlet to the New Dealers and challenged Mr. Roosevelt "if he dare to do so" to seek a third term nomination at the Democratic national convention which opens tomorrow in Chicago.

Americanism vs. New Dealism.

"The Republican party challenges him because we know that this election is one that is going to be fought out on the principles of Americanism vs. New Dealism," said Tucker.

"No administration in the history of this nation has brought about more class hatred, disunity, immorality, indecency, and dishonesty than has Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal administration.

"For seven years our people have witnessed the growth of huge burocracies in our federal government; burocracies that have the power to adopt regulations which are laws; burocracies which are not elected by the people, but are the creation of executive power wrongfully taken from the legislative branch of government. The Republican party stands unequivocally against this trend of burocracy."

Swain Named President.

Timothy J. Swain of Peoria was elected president of the Illinois Young Republicans at a meeting which followed the talks by Green and Tucker. Charles J. Fleck of the 45th ward, Chicago, was named junior national committeeman.

Included in the resolutions adopted at the closing session were ones pledging support to Willkie in Illinois and approval of the Illinois platform of the Republican party. Another struck at the alleged alliance between crime and politics in Chicago and demanded that Cook county officials order an investigation of charges of alleged alliances as mentioned in two national magazines.

In the election of officers the following persons were named besides Swain and Fleck: Secretary, Joseph N. Sikes, Waukegan; treasurer, Robert E. Mills, Ottawa; chairman of the board of governors, James Holicky, 33d ward, Chicago; financial secretary, Cyril Campbell, 7th ward, Chicago; assistant financial secretary, Marino Riccuto, Bloom township, Cook county; first vice president, Francis Florsheim, 4th ward, Chicago; second vice president, Nicholas Berkes, Cicero; third vice president, Miss Merle Woods, Lovington; fourth vice president, Earl J. Taggart, Bridgeport; fifth vice president, Mrs. Velda Metcalfe, 19th ward, Chicago; sergeant at arms, Allen Ashcraft, Evanston; assistant sergeant at arms, Gabriel C. Garro, 28th ward.

Now 32,245,000—Gain of 2,076,000 in Decade.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The American farm population on Jan. 1 was estimated by the agriculture department today at 32,245,000, the largest in 24 years.

The estimate is 186,000 more than a year ago and represents an increase of 2,076,000 for the decade, 1930-'39. The highest farm population figure ever reported was 32,530,000 in 1916.

The increase in the last decade followed a decrease of 1,445,000 during the 1920's and a net loss of 463,000 between 1910 and 1920.

The department said farms lost 2,179,000 persons thru migration during the 1930s, but that an excess of rural births over deaths more than offset losses thru movement to urban areas.

Births were reported at 7,361,000 and deaths at 3,313,000 during the last decade.

Lack of opportunity in cities may add 2,000,000 more persons to the rural population by 1950, the department said.

"An increase in farm population at this time means growing pressure of population on natural resources, especially in the poorer agricultural areas," the department said. "Technological changes in agriculture have kept pace with those in industry, and the labor requirements for agricultural production have been decreased."

Fewer Workers Needed.

The department said that normal requirements in farm production for both domestic and foreign outlets now can be met with approximately 1,600,000 fewer workers on farms than in 1929—which, with their dependents, means 3,500,000 fewer persons. Farm employment was said to have decreased more than 300,000 between 1930 and 1940.

Largest increases in farm population during the last 10 years were in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi. The south Atlantic states, from Maryland and Delaware to Florida, showed the next largest gain. Areas most severely affected by drouths of 1934 and 1936 reported increases before 1935 and decreases thereafter.

BURNED IN GAS EXPLOSION.

Harold Dunne, 40 years old, a WPA worker, was burned on the face and arms yesterday in a gas explosion in the kitchen of his home at 5006 Drexel boulevard.

BATISTA LEADS VOTE AS CUBANS BATTLE AT POLLS

Five Die in Presidential Election on Island.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 14.—Col. Fulgencio Batista and former President Ramon Grau San Martin, rivals for the presidency, both claimed crushing victories for their respective parties shortly after the polls closed in the national elections.

Juan Sancerni. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Despite the claim of his opponent the returns tonight indicated that Batista had won by a 3 to 2 margin.

Batista said: "I have spent all day personally inspecting Havana precincts and, together with thousands and thousands of reports from thruout the island, I am definitely assured that I have won the election."

Dr. Grau San Martin said: "The opposition's victory has proved a crushing blow for Batista thruout the island. I am ready to accept congratulations as the new president of Cuba."

Women 60 Per Cent of Total.

Official figures indicate that between 85 and 90 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots. Sixty per cent of the voters were women.

Election day was marked by many reports of slayings, injuries, kidnapings, and destruction of bridges and telephone and telegraph lines.

At 4 p. m. officials reported that five persons had been killed and 21 seriously wounded by rifle bullets, 58 injured in fights. Two hundred were arrested on charges of violence, including kidnaping, arson and assassination.

Five arrests were made after José Marallesi, a communist, was killed at a Havana polling place by machine gun bullets.

Seven election officials who were to preside over a Havana precinct were kidnaped by an armed and masked squad in an automobile.

Seven Wounded at Polls.

A shower of bullets from five automobiles seriously wounded seven persons waiting their turn to vote at another precinct. Armed men stole ballot boxes at five precincts in Matanzas City.

Luisa Maria Fernandez, A. B. C. president at Rodas, Santa Clara province, was seriously wounded by irate voters who charged she had sold 82 electoral cedulas [decrees] for $3 each.

All 17 precincts at Batabano were burned by terrorists.

Two Girls Kidnaped.

The 10 and 7 year old daughters of Braulio Gonzalez, coalition [Batista] candidate for mayor of Cienfuegos, were kidnaped. Their father complied with warnings that he withdraw from the race but the girls had not been released tonight.

Juan Sancerni, Liberal coalition candidate for representative, was seriously wounded by a rifle fusilade fired from an automobile in Havana.

Col. José Peraza, chief of staff of the army, decreed martial law in rural sections, and ordered soldiers to shoot on sight any one found cutting communication lines.

Woman Critically Injured on Carnival "Rocket Ride"

Mrs. Blanche Wess, 26 years old, 315 West 26th street, was injured critically last night on a riding device called the rocket at a carnival being sponsored at 25th street and Lowe avenue by St. Joseph's society of All Saints' church. She struck a whirling circular platform and was carried swiftly around, her body striking obstructions. She incurred fractures of the left arm and hip.

22 FROM SUNKEN TANKER LANDED AT SCOTCH PORT

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Capt. T. H. Roberts and 21 crewmen of the 8,909 ton British tanker Athellaird, torpedoed in the Atlantic July 2, were landed at a Scottish west coast port today. They had drifted seven days in an open boat before being picked up by a British rescue ship.

Irvanian Freighter Torpedoed.

JERUSALEM, July 14 (AP).—Exhausted from battling high seas that buffeted their lifeboats, 18 crewmen of an Iranian freighter reached shore at Acre today and reported their ship had been torpedoed by an Italian submarine 70 miles off Haifa. Reports reaching here did not name the ship.

BRITAIN TO TAKE OFFENSIVE IN '42, SAYS CHURCHILL

Prefers 'London in Ruins' to City Enslaved.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—Britain will emerge from its defensive position and assume the offensive against Germany in 1942, Prime Minister Winston Churchill predicted tonight in a broadcast relayed to America and the dominions.

He declared that defense efforts must not be slackened but be "redoubled, not only for the summer but for the winter; not only for 1941, but for 1942," when, he said he trusted, the war will "take a different form from the defensive in which it has hitherto been found."

Churchill declared Britain never was so well prepared to withstand an invasion, with an army of 1,500,000 already standing guard.

Promises Fight for Every Inch.

He pictured a united England defending every inch of soil, adding: "We shall defend every village, every town, every city. The vast mass of London itself, fought street by street, could easily devour an entire hostile army, and "we would rather see London laid in ashes and ruins than that it should be painfully and abjectly enslaved."

In turning British naval guns on French warships, Churchill said, Britain prevented the transference of the ships to Adolf Hitler, which "would have endangered the security of both Great Britain and the United States."

Text of Speech.

The text of Churchill's speech follows:

"During the last fortnight, the British navy, in addition to blockading what is left of the German fleet and chasing the Italian fleet, has had imposed upon it the sad duty of putting effectually out of action for the duration of the war the tactical ships of the French navy. These, under the armistice terms signed in the railway coach at Compiegne, would have been placed within the power of Nazi Germany.

"The transference of these ships to Hitler would have endangered the security both of Great Britain and the United States. We therefore had no choice but to act as we did and to act forthwith.

"Painful Task" Finished.

"Our painful task is now completed. Altho the unfinished battleship Jean Bart still rests in a Moroccan harbor, and there are a number of French warships at Toulon and in various French ports all over the world, they are not in a condition, or of a character, to derange our preponderance of navy power.

"As long, therefore, as they make no attempt to return to ports controled by Germany or Italy, we shall not molest them in any way. That melancholy phase in our relations with France, has, so far as we are concerned, come to an end. Let us think, rather, of the future.

"Today is the 14th of July, the national festival of France. A year ago in Paris I watched the stately parade down the Champs Elysées of the French army and the French empire. Who could foresee what the course of a year could bring?

Predicts a Free France.

"Who can foresee what the course of other years will bring? Faith is given to us as a help and comfort when we stand in awe before the unfurling scroll of human destiny. And I proclaim my faith that some of us will live to see a 14th of July when a liberated France will once again rejoice in her greatness and in her glory, and once again stand forward as a champion of the freedom and the rights of man.

"When that day dawns, and dawn it will, the soul of France will turn with comprehension and with kindness to those Frenchmen and French women, wherever they may be, who in the darkest hour did not despair of the republic.

"In the meantime, we shall not waste our breath, or encumber our thoughts, with reproaches. When you have a friend and comrade at whose side you have faced tremendous struggles, and your friend is smitten down by a stunning blow, it may be necessary to make sure that the weapon that has fallen from his hands shall not be added to the resources of your common enemy.

"But you need not bear malice because of your friend's cry of delirium and gesture of agony. You must not add to his pain; you must work for his recovery. The association of interests between Britain and France remains. The cause remains. Duty inescapable remains.

Offers French Friendship.

"So long as our pathway to victory is not impeded, we are ready to discharge such offices of good will toward the French government as may be possible; and to foster the trade and help the administration of those parts of the great French empire which are now cut off from captive France but which maintain their freedom.

"Subject to the iron demands of the war which we are waging against Hitler and all his works, we shall try to conduct ourselves that every true French heart will beat and glow at the way we carry on the struggle. And that not only France, but all the oppressed countries in Europe, may feel that each British victory is a step toward the liberation of the continent from the foulest thraldom into which it has ever been cast.

War to Be 'Long and Hard.'

"All goes to show that the war will be long and hard. No one can tell where it will spread. One thing is certain: The peoples of Europe will not be ruled for long by the Nazi Gestapo, nor will the world yield itself to Hitler's gospel of hatred, appetite and domination.

"And now it has come to us. We must stand alone in the breach, and face the worst that the tyrant's might and enmity can do. Bearing ourselves humbly before God, but conscious that we serve an unfolding purpose, we are ready to defend our native land against the invasion by which it is threatened.

"We are fighting by ourselves—alone. But we are not fighting for ourselves alone. Here in this strong city of refuge, which enshrines the title deeds of human progress and is of big consequence to human civilization, here, girt about by the seas and oceans, where our navy reigns, shielded from above by the prowess and devotion of our airmen, we await undismayed the impending assault.

Asks No Mercy.

"Perhaps it will come tonight. Perhaps it will come next week. Perhaps it will never come. We must show ourselves equally capable of meeting a sudden, violent shock, or what is perhaps a harder test, a prolonged issue. But be the ordeal sharp or long, or both, we shall seek no terms, we shall tolerate no palleys, we may show mercy—we shall ask none.

"I can easily understand how sympathetic onlookers across the Atlantic, or anxious friends in the yet unravaged countries of Europe who cannot measure our resources or our resolves, may have feared for our survival when they saw so many states and kingdoms torn to pieces in a few weeks, or even days, by the monstrous force of the Nazi war machine.

"But Hitler has not yet been withstood by a great nation with a will power the equal of their own. Many of these countries have been poisoned by intrigue before they were struck down by violence. They have been rotted from within before they were smitten from without. How else can you explain what has happened to France? to the French army? to the French people? to the leaders of the French people?

English in "Good Heart."

"But here in our island we are in good health, and in good heart. We have seen how Hitler prepared in scientific detail the plans for destroying the neighboring countries of Germany. He had his plans for Poland and his plans for Norway. He had his plans for Denmark. He had his plans all worked out for the doom of the peaceful, trustful Dutch. And, of course, for the Belgians. We have seen how the French were undermined and overthrown. We may therefore be sure that there is a plan, perhaps built up over years, for destroying Great Britain, which after all has the honor to be his main and foremost enemy.

"All I can say is that any plan for invading Britain which Hitler made two months ago must have had to be entirely recast in order to meet our new position.

"Two months ago, nay, one month ago, our first and main effort was to keep our best army in France. All our regular troops, all our output of munitions, and a very large part of our airforce had to be sent to France and maintained in action there.

Great Army on Guard.

"But now we have it all at home. Never before in the last war, or in this, have we had in this island an army comparable in quality, in equipment, or numbers to that which stands here on guard tonight.

"We have a million and a half men in the British army under arms tonight. And every week of June and July has seen their organization, their defensive, and their striking power advance by leaps and bounds. No praise is too high for the officers and men, aye, and the civilians, who have made this immense transformation in so short a time.

"Behind these soldiers of the regular army, as a means of destruction for parachutists, airborn invaders, or any traitors that may be found in our midst, and I do not believe there are many—woe betide them, they will get short shrift—behind the regular army we have more than a million of the local defense volunteers, or as they are much better called, the home guard.

"These officers and men, a large proportion of whom have been thru the last war, have the strongest desire to attack and get to close quarters with the enemy, wherever he may appear.

Pledges "No Lying Down."

"Should the invader come to Britain there will be no placid lying down of the people in submission before him, as we have seen come to pass in other countries. We shall defend every village, every town, and every city. The vast mass of London itself, fought street by street, could easily devour an entire hostile army, and we would rather see London laid in ruins and ashes than that it should be painfully and abjectly enslaved.

"I am bound to state these facts because it is necessary to inform our people of our intentions, and thus to reassure them.

"This has been a great week for the royal air force and for the fighter command. They have shot down more than 5 to 1 of the German air craft which have tried to molest our convoys in the channel, or have ventured to cross the British coastline.

"These are, of course, only the preliminary encounters to the great air battles which lie ahead. But I know of no reason why we should be discontented with the results so far achieved, altho, of course, we hope to improve upon them as the fighting becomes more widespread and comes more inland.

Food Reserves Grow.

"Around all lies the power of the royal navy. With over a thousand armed ships under the white ensign, patroling the seas is the navy, which is capable of transferring its force very readily to the protection of any part of the British empire which may be threatened; which is capable also of keeping open our communications with the new world, from whom, as the struggle deepens, increase in aid will come.

"Is it not remarkable that after 10 months of unlimited U-boat and air attack upon our commerce that our food reserves are higher than they have ever been, and that we have a substantially larger tonnage under our own flag, apart from great numbers of foreign ships in our control, than we had at the beginning of the war?

"Why do I dwell on all this? Not, surely, to induce any slackening of effort, vigilance. On the contrary, these must be redoubled, and we must prepare not only for the summer, but for the winter. Not only for 1941, but for 1942, when the war will, I trust, take a different form from the defensive in which it has hitherto been found.

"Means of Survival" at Hand.

"I dwell on these elements in our strength, on these resources which we have mobilized and controled. I dwell on it because it is right to show that the good cause can command the means of survival; and while we toil through the dark valley, we can see the sunlight on the upland beyond.

"I stand at the head of a government representing all parties in the state, all creeds, all classes, every recognizable section of opinion. We are ranged beneath the crown of our ancient monarchy. We are supported by a free parliament and a free press. But there is one bond which unites us all and sustains us in the public regard: Namely, as is increasingly becoming known, that we are prepared to proceed to all extremities, endure them, and to enforce them. That is our bond of union in his majesty's government tonight.

War of Peoples and Causes.

"Thus only in times like these can nations preserve their freedom. And thus only can they uphold the cause intrusted to their care. But all depends now upon the whole life strength of the British race in every part of the world, and of all our associated people, and of all our well wishers in every land doing their utmost night and day, giving all, daring all, enduring all to the utmost, to the end.

"This is no war of chieftains or of princes, dynasties or national ambitions; this is a war of peoples and of causes. There are vast numbers, not only in this island but in every land, who will render us faithful service in this war, but whose names will never be known, whose deeds will never be recorded.

"This is a war of the unknown warrior. But let all strive without failing in faith or in duty, and the dark curse of Hitler will be lifted from our age."

Not Good, but Not Bad Friends! That's French and Nazi Status

BY BERNHARD RAGNER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BORDEAUX, France, July 14.—Neither passive resistance nor friendly coöperation, but somewhere between the two, has been the attitude of the French population toward the German army of occupation if Bordeaux and the surrounding country can be considered as typical.

To date, both sides have been polite and correct in relations with each other and seem to be making a sincere effort to solve all perplexing problems. Authorities have lightened some restrictions, and movies, theaters and other places of amusement now remain open until 11:30 p. m., instead of closing at 9:30 o'clock.

The 10 o'clock curfew [8 o'clock sun time] has been abolished and Frenchmen now may wander about even after midnight if they desire, altho German patrols likely will ask them to show their papers. Bordeaux parks, which were closed for a week, have been reopened to the public.

Relations Less Stiff.

Altho nothing resembling fraternization has developed, relations between the population and the German soldiers are less stiff and formal than at the beginning of the occupation. Handshakes are more frequent. Business announcements in German are appearing on store fronts and restaurant windows.

So, breaking thru the barriers of language, the German soldier buyers and French sellers are extending their conversations to subjects other than the price of peaches or the weight of a Roquefort cheese.

Refugees often are seen on street corners talking with German soldiers in the hope of getting information concerning the communities from which they fled in May or June.

Protect Merchants.

German authorities have issued stringent orders to protect businessmen against imposition and fraud. Today, notices in French and German were posted in Bordeaux stating that individual soldiers are not authorized to requisition anything whatsoever unless they carry duly signed and sealed orders from the state commander.

A communique today from the Bordeaux city hall said that negotiations are being conducted with a view to establishing a practical system of communication of persons, merchandise, letters, and newspapers between the occupied and unoccupied zones of France.

120,000 IRISH ANSWER CALL TO COLORS FOR DEFENSE IN SIX WEEKS

DUNDALK, Ireland, July 14 (AP).—Defense Minister Frank Aiken disclosed today that 120,000 Irish civilians have joined various defense services in the last six weeks, 25,000 of them last week.

Aiken warned against rumor-mongering and advised civilians to stay at home to avoid hindering military operations and to familiarize themselves with the voices of radio announcers as a precaution against hostile propaganda.

Ulster Storehouse Burned.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 14 (AP).—A band of gunmen, believed members of the outlawed Irish republican army, invaded a government storehouse here today, cut telephone wires, saturated the place with gasoline, and burned it. Bacon, butter, ham, and produce were destroyed.

DIPLOMATS OF 9 COUNTRIES QUIT HOLLAND TODAY

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, July 14 (AP) [Via Berlin].—Diplomatic representatives of the United States and eight other nations are expected to leave tomorrow with their families for Basel, Switzerland. A special train will carry them. Their departure was arranged in accordance with a recent Berlin request that diplomatic corps be removed from this German-occupied country.

The party of 160 will include diplomatic officials of Venezuela, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Portugal, Mexico, Italy, and San Domingo, and 21 judges of the International court. About 60 Chinese and Japanese will go to Berlin.

BRITISH APPROVE RED SEIZURE OF BALTIC STATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 14.—The British government is the first power to accord practical recognition of Russia's annexation of the Baltic states.

The especially appointed military attaché here has been recalled and the British military attaché to Moscow has received notification that from now on he must report all developments in the reorganized national armies of the Baltic states.

British radio comments about these developments in the Baltic states are all in a tone friendly to Moscow.

NAZIS CLAIM HITS ON MORE SHIPS THAN BRITAIN HAS

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The admiralty press section, adding up German reports of naval successes, said today that the Nazis have claimed they have sunk or damaged 20 capital ships in the last four months—five more than Britain possessed at the start of the war. It said also that 15 more cruisers than Britain had last September have been reported sunk or damaged by the Germans.

BOYCOTT PAPER IN HONDURAS FOR FAVORING NAZIS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, July 14.—El Cronista, Honduras' leading newspaper, faces suspension of publication unless it changes its policy of favoring the totalitarian governments of Europe. This policy has resulted in a boycott.

El Cronista denies the charges. It asserts that the accusations it is pro-German are fantastic in spite of the fact that it has openly backed the German cause and attacked Great Britain and France in editorials.

In the last great war El Cronista became violently pro-German after its director had married a naturalized German. Resentment of readers at the paper's present policy has resulted in a heavy loss in circulation and the loss of much advertising.

The boycott became serious when the government withheld certain payments and canceled subscriptions until further notice. The Taca Airlines also refused to distribute the paper over its system.

INJURIES FATAL TO PASTOR'S WIFE.

Kankakee, Ill., July 14 [Special].—Mrs. Emma Walter, 61 years old, wife of the Rev. Louis Walter, pastor of Our Savior Lutheran church at Momence, died in St. Mary hospital here today of injuries received in an auto crash Friday night in Momence.

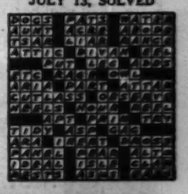
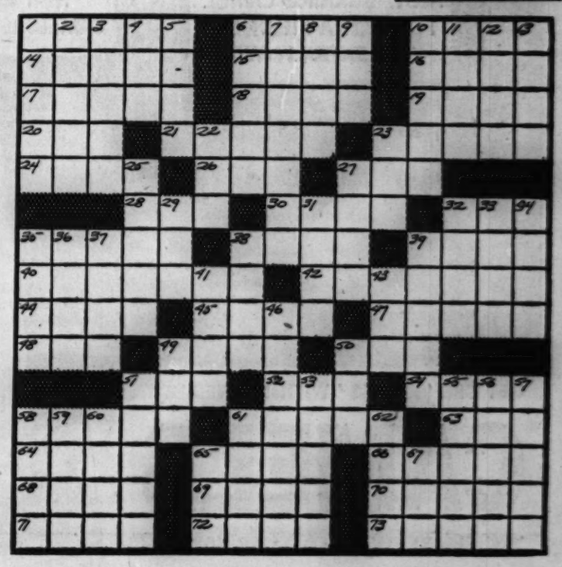
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, JULY 13, SOLVED





SHIPPING CIRCLES DISCOUNT EFFECT OF NAZI BLOCKADE

Point to Merchant Fleet Under British Control.

New York, July 14 [Special].—Germany's chances of blockading Great Britain into submission, wiping out her great merchant marine, and cutting her supply lines thru increased submarine warfare and aerial bombing, were discounted in shipping circles here today.

Ocean traffic experts, recalling Germany's submarine accomplishments in the last war, and considering Britain's vast resources in merchant ships, declined to find much factual verification for Germany's claims that her counter blockade of the British Isles is "becoming more perceptible every day."

Since the war started, Germany has claimed the sinking of more than 4,400,000 tons of enemy shipping, but these figures have been denied vigorously by the British admiralty. The British have contended that the total of British losses is only about one-quarter of that cited by the Germans.

Years of Sinking Ahead.

Shipping officials here point out that, even tho there were verification of the maximum German claims, unless there were immense increases in the rate of destruction, it would take Germany's submarines many years to seriously alter Britain's supremacy in merchant tonnage.

One element that has been largely ignored, it is said, is the fact that Great Britain actually controls more tonnage now than she did when the war started—even allowing for losses that have been admitted.

Germany's occupation of Norway, The Netherlands, Denmark, and Belgium, coupled with virtual control of Sweden, these, sources point out, have enabled Britain, with her mastery of the seas, to take control of large parts of the merchant fleets of those nations. In addition, Britain picked up thousands of tons in French bottoms when France capitulated.

Germans Point to Bases.

Conversely, Germany contends that these territorial occupations have given here bases on the English channel, on the Atlantic and on the North sea that enable her to sink more than 100,000 tons of enemy merchant ships a week—a rate that exceeds by 35,000 a week the allied losses during the unrestricted submarine warfare waged by Germany in the last war.

Official figures show that at the start of this war Great Britain's merchant marine totaled 21,001,925 tons. It has been estimated that in addition to this, practically all the merchant tonnage of Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands and France has fallen into British hands, giving her direct control of a minimum of two-thirds of the world's tonnage of 68,500,000—or roughly, 45,000,000 tons.

Thus shipping men figure that even if the Germans continue to take a toll of 100,000 tons of enemy shipping a week, it would take them about nine years to wipe out 45,000,000 tons.

Even tho the German figures do not take into account merchant tonnage destroyed by German aircraft, shipping men say that the German submarine and air campaign is not as yet of decisive importance.

However, they make no attempt to minimize the importance of the admittedly heavy losses of seaborne commerce on which the life of the "tight little isle" depends.

Also to be taken into consideration in any blockade of Great Britian, shipping men say, is the production of her shipyards.

British shipbuilding figures for 1939 show that her shipyards can turn out 80,000 to 85,000 tons a month, a figure that goes a long way toward making up the losses accountable to U-boats and planes.

Nazis Step Up Attack.

That the Germans also have not lost sight of this factor is indicated by the stepped up tempo of their attacks in recent days on harbor facilities and shipyards in southern and southwestern costal areas of England.

The British report, that they are not unduly alarmed by the furiously renewed attacks on shipping. Up to June 26, they claimed that 26,355 British and allied neutral ships had been escorted by British convoys with a loss of 37 ships, giving a ratio of 1 in 712.

At the same time, with the Germans holding bases and harbors from Narvik to the Pyrenees, the danger of a submarine blockade of England has not been overlooked. Observers recalled that Germany, a long while ago, was reported to be building a fleet of "minnow" submarines of 250 tons, which might prove effective in the short cruising range in which they now can operate.

Private Phone Calls Abroad Reported Halted by Italy

LONDON, July 14.—The London Times, crediting a private source, said tonight that all private telephone calls from Italy to foreign countries had been suspended since Saturday night. Press calls, the report added, are subject to long delays. The newspaper added: "The political atmosphere in Rome is one of tense expectancy such as usually precedes momentous events. Similar delays have been noted in communications from Berlin."

Germany Gets Back 3,400 Citizens France Interned

SEA RAIDER BAGS 18,500 TONS OF SHIPS, NAZIS SAY

Downing of Ten British Planes Claimed.

BERLIN, July 14 (AP).—The German high command disclosed the first figures on Germany's newly unleashed sea raiders today with the announcement that a lone warship had sent 18,500 tons of British shipping to the bottom.

The announcement, first definite raider news since the scuttling of the Graf Spee off Uruguay last December 17, came as the Nazi air force fell with renewed fury on British shipping in a tightening of Germany's "starvation blockade" against England.

In three hotly contested engagements, the Germans reported 10 British planes attempting to shepherd British convoys across the English channel were downed against a single German loss

New Bases Available.

Today's brief reference to the sea raiding activities failed to identify the raiding craft or to disclose the scene of its activities. Its successes, however, indicated a perceptible trend toward increasing use of this weapon since French, Belgian and Norwegian bases fell into German hands.

Only yesterday the high command let it be known that Germany had challenged Britain again on the seas. Without presenting any figures, it declared valuable prize ships had been seized—apparently in operations directed from Norwegian or French Atlantic waters.

Raids Over Germany.

In today's aerial battles over the channel the Germans asserted five of 45 challenging British planes were downed in one engagement, three of 18 Spitfires in a second and two more in still a third.

Five more British planes—bringing the day's total to 15—were reported shot down over northern and western Germany, two in dogfights and three by antiaircraft. The Germans placed their losses at four planes in all during the day's operations.

GUNS' BREECH BLOCKS REMOVED FROM FRENCH WARSHIPS IN EGYPT

VICHY, France, July 14 (AP).—Breech mechanisms of the guns on French warships at Alexandria have been deposited at the French consulate there in demobilizing the squadron, French circles in Alexandria reported today. They said that the French ships tried first to escape from the harbor but were menaced by British forces three times their strength, and forced to surrender.

One thousand French sailors were killed in the British attack on the French fleet at Mers el Kebir, Algeria, on July 3, it was announced today at this provisional seat of the French government.

Cruiser Escapes Halifax.

New York, July 14 (AP).—The Berlin radio reported in a broadcast heard here today that the French cruiser Emile Bertin had eluded a British naval guard at Halifax, N. S., and had arrived at the island of Martinique, French West Indies.

REACHES BRITAIN FROM FRANCE IN 9 FOOT ROWBOAT

A SOUTH COAST TOWN, England, July 14 (AP).—A small, bespectacled little man of undisclosed name or nationality arrived during the night from German-occupied France after four days afloat in a nine foot rowboat in which he used his coat for a sail. The journey ended beneath an air battle among British and German planes along the coast. Fishermen who brought the man ashore saw him bailing frantically with his hat to keep the tiny craft afloat while bullets rained around it.

CALL ARMISTICE IN BALKAN PRESS BATTLE OF WORDS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 14 (AP).—Rumania and Hungary agreed today to a three-day "press armistice" as a prelude to negotiations towards better relations, reliable informants said today. The papers will withhold the editorial fire they have been leveling at each other over Hungary's demands for return of Transylvania.

Count Miklos Banssy, president of the Magyar party in Transylvania, announced an agreement with the Rumanian government for the entry of Magyars into King Carol's new Nazified party of the nation.

The closely censored Rumanian press today praised the German army in a manner interpreted as paving the way for German reorganization of the Rumanian army.

Diplomatic circles pointed out the Rumanian army provides a buffer against any soviet move against vital Rumanian oil holdings.

British to Rule Committee Is Real Czech Government

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Diplomatic circles reported tonight that Britain would recognize the Czech national committee of London as the legitimate government of Czecho-Slovakia. The action is expected to be announced in the house of commons later in the week.

UNREST CLOAKED BY BLACK LOOKS IN PARIS SLUMS

Citizens Told to Beware of Agitators.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 14.—[Via Berlin.]—Paris is calmly accepting the death of the democratic "third republic" of France as it existed since the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71, and the new dictatorial régime that has been created at Vichy under Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

The political situation in Paris, however, still is far from clear. It is generally admitted that but for the presence of German troops grave disorders might break out in the French capital.

There is in the Paris suburbs, which always have been hotbeds of revolution, a sinister undercurrent of social unrest, for the French proletariat has not yet entirely forgotten Leon Blum's "Popular Front" which promised them a paradise with little or no work and contributed more than anything else to the disintegration of the French army and of the people.

Can See Black Looks.

Walking in the poorer sections of the city, one is met with black looks and occasionally muttered vilifications. The menace of an insurrectionary movement such as the Paris Commune of 1871 is stressed by Jacques Doriot's La Vie Nationale, which affirms that "already professional agitators are trying to exploit the misery of the people in order to herd it to acts contrary to its interests and which would be severely repressed."

Germany certainly never would tolerate another Paris Commune. But it is only natural that it is inclined to regard with favor the growth of national socialistic feeling which is another thing and has nothing in common with red revolution. Hitler's slogan that he is fighting against "plutocracy," has made a deep impression on the French working class.

A Political War.

Frenchmen already speak of the war as "une guerre politique," that is to say a war of ideas and classes. German soldiers now are mingling freely in a spirit of good comradeship with the Parisian population and exalt Hitler's sympathy for the workers and his desire that all the peoples of Europe be prosperous and happy. Their perfectly sincere words find willing listeners.

The courtesy and friendliness shown by the German officers and soldiers to the civilian population also have done much to persuade Frenchmen that National Socialism [Nazism] cannot be as black as it was painted.

The turn of political events in Paris inevitably will depend largely on developments in the food situation. For the present, Parisians have enough to eat, altho there is a shortage of certain products, but the outlook for the future and particularly the coming winter is sufficiently serious.

Can Be Tided Over.

Wheat stocks are reported in Le Matin to be "relatively satisfactory," and that "provided that too many refugees do not return, the bread situation can be tided over until the harvest."

However, the wheat crop certainly will be less than last year's and restrictive measures probably will have to be taken to make it last. Far graver is the sugar problem. Existing stocks are described by Le Matin as "infinitesimal," and it is predicted that this year's crop will be from 70 to 80 per cent less than in 1939.

The German military government of Paris has brought strong pressure to bear on the French civil authorities to exercise a more strict control of retail prices of foodstuffs and to keep down the cost of living, but life nevertheless is continually becoming more expensive.

BRITISH LISTEN TO BROADCAST OF AIR BATTLE

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Britons at home and safely out of bomb range today were given a blow-by-blow account of the air battle over the Strait of Dover—with a convincingly explosive overtone of bomb bursts, engine roars and machine gun rattling.

The eyewitness-commentator reeled off the exciting details like an American football or prize fight broadcaster and his listeners cheered at the British successes; whitehaired old ladies dropped their knitting and screamed with delight.

Charles Gardiner, the announcer on this program unique in British Broadcasting corporation history, talked like this:

"They're letting bombs go now. . . . A miss. . . . They haven't hit a ship yet. There's one German machine coming down. One of the crew is bailing out—Ah, here comes the Hurricanes.

"Boy, O boy, three Hurricanes are chasing three Messerschmitts—If you could see them. . . ."

SEEK IDENTITY OF AUTO VICTIM.

Kankakee, Ill., July 14 [Special].—The identity of a man 70 years old, who was killed last night when struck by a car when walking along highway 17 at the west edge of Kankakee, was sought today. The motorist, John Kusta, 46, of Kankakee, said the man, dressed in farm clothing, stepped in front of his car as if to cross the pavement. His body was hurled into the ditch.

BRITISH WARSHIP TORPEDOED IN MEDITERRANEAN

Destroyer Sinks as It Is Towed Away.

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The loss of the British destroyer Escort in the western Mediterranean was announced today by the admiralty. It was torpedoed. The 1,350 ton destroyer was reported so badly damaged by the torpedo that it sank while other ships tried to tow it to port. Two sailors lost their lives. The ship's normal complement was 145 men.

There was no information about the action in which the Escort was damaged, nor when the ship was torpedoed.

The Escort was commanded by Lieutenant Commander J. Bostock, and was completed in 1934. The ship carried four 4.7 inch guns, six smaller guns and eight torpedo tubes.

Italy Reports Successes.

ROME, July 14 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported new successes for Italy's air and sea effort to break British power in the Mediterranean.

At an acknowledged cost of one warplane and a submarine missing and presumably lost, its communique reported a British submarine sunk, seven British planes destroyed, Malta repeatedly attacked, and a British naval formation peppered with "bombs of middle and heavy caliber."

Italian flyers overtook a British naval squadron which had been "forced to slow down in its journey toward Alexandria, Egypt," on Saturday, the high command said, and bombed them "during the whole day."

Previously Attacked.

The communique indicated the British warships were the same as those previously attacked in the sea-air battle which has been almost continuous in the eastern Mediterranean for almost a week.

"Still more damage was inflicted on them in addition to that already caused," it said.

In other air forays, it declared, Italian planes made day and night attacks on Malta, British eastern Mediterranean base, "causing big fires."

Where or when the British submarine was sunk was not disclosed. The communique said merely it was the victim of "one of our destroyers."

Dispute Italian Threat.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14 (AP).—Britain's middle-eastern air force disputed with bombs today the Italian air-sea threat to the empire life artery. On land, British colonial troops fought to hold their Egyptian, Somaliland, and Kenya frontiers against repeated Italian thrusts.

After almost a week of unceasing attack, the British garrison at Moyale, in Kenya, was reported still holding out against Italian troops striking southward from Ethiopia. Severe fighting went on between other British troops and Italian reënforcements trying to break thru to bolster the Moyale attack.

A small British outpost at Abdul Ghadir in British Somaliland was captured by a strong Italian force.

Fire Ammunition Dumps.

A communique disclosed that incendiary and explosive bombs rained on El Aden, El Gubbi, and Bardia in Libya. Italian shipping was bombed in the Libyan naval port of Tobruk. Three fires blazed up thru the gloom at Bardia.

In Eritrea, other planes fired ammunition dumps and gasoline storage tanks at Assab and scored direct hits on hangars and other buildings at the Massaua airdrome. Two British planes were lost in air fights.

The communique minimized Italian air raids on Aden, across the Red sea and Gulf of Aden from Eritrea, and on Malta in the Mediterranean.

In the western desert [Libya-Egypt] "casualties again were caused to Italian motor transport columns attempting to supply Fort Capuzzo . . . Mersa Matruh was ineffectively bombed," the communique said.

Americans Leave for Home.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 14 (AP).—Defense fighter planes drove off air raiders which approached the Alexandria district today.

Of 163 Americans living in Alexandria, 38 have left for home, the American legation reported. Of 327 in Cairo, 196 also have departed. Scattered thruout upper Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan are about 200 Americans who have not yet arranged passage homeward.

BULLITT RESERVES PASSAGE ON PLANE, LISBON TO NEW YORK

Writes Many Reports.

MADRID, July 14.—Ambassador William C. Bullitt spent today writing voluminous reports to Washington, D. C. and conferring with the French ambassador. He also saw Hugh Weddell, ambassador to Spain, and Anthony Drexel Biddle, minister to Poland.

Bullitt said a house has been rented at Vichy for the American embassy.

FRANCE AWARDS BRAVERY MEDAL TO WOMAN PILOT

VICHY, France, July 14 (AP).—A shy woman pilot of the French air force, who was captured by the Germans in the last month of the war, then escaped and rejoined her squadron before the armistice, was awarded tonight the war cross of France with a special citation for bravery.

She is Claire Roman, civilian pilot since 1932, and veteran of overseas flights to the French East Indies and French Morocco. She was accepted as a full-fledged French war pilot in May when women were admitted for auxiliary flying service.

In June she was sent on a flying mission to Rennes. As she stepped from her plane she was captured by German soldiers who had seized the airport. She broke away from her captors, found a bicycle and rode 25 miles to a French military airfield at St. Nazaire, where she warned that the Germans were on the way. The commandant gave her a pursuit plane which she flew to Bordeaux and finally rejoined her command.

London Closes Famous Vine St. Police Station

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—The famous Vine street police station, familiar alike to West End revellers and big-time criminals, closed its doors today. In a wartime consolidation it has moved to new quarters in nearby Savile row along with another old-timer, the Great Marlborough street police station.

WARNS AMERICAS BLOCKADE WOULD DRAW REPRISALS

Italian Charges U. S. Tries to Hamper Trade.

ROME, July 14 (AP).—A European economic lineup for reprisal against any American continental blockade was forecast today by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who often reflects official opinion.

Gayda's prediction was published in the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia.

Laid to United States.

Gayda laid sponsorship of an alleged blockade scheme to the United States, asserting that such a plan would "raise the problem of freedom of international trade, which surely cannot find useful assistance in this grandiose commercial blockade of the Americas meditated at Washington, D. C."

[President Roosevelt has approved a report designed to establish the basis for Pan-American economic unity thru a broad program of centralising exports of the western hemisphere thru one or more agencies representing all countries. He has emphasized, however, that commodities handled in such a way would be marketed outside the Americas and that in effect the plan would mean a pooling of staple crops grown in common and exporting them.]

Would Provoke Others.

"It is evident," Gayda declared, "that a concentration of American goods could only provoke other continents' formations of other similar groupings for defense and balance."

The Fascist editor commented also that such a plan contrasted with previous American policy of freedom of international trade and declared it "navigates in the waters of economic autarchy [self sufficiency]."

Gayda criticized three small Swiss newspapers for publishing the British version of last week's Mediterranean naval battle.

Reliable political circles regarded this as a considered warning to the Swiss press to soft-pedal news which could be regarded as unfriendly to the Rome-Berlin axis.

Gayda, writing in the weekly Voce d'Italia, asked if the papers were not contented with "the peace assured by the axis powers," and declared:

"Only more or less mercenary servitude to the British enemy can inspire in these Swiss papers such gross false judgment of events."

Briton Reaffirms Denials That the Hood Is Damaged

GIBRALTAR, July 14 (AP).—A reliable informant said today: "I can give definite assurance that the battle crusier Hood has never been hit or damaged in any way or form." He termed "Italo-German propaganda" the Spanish reports that the 42,100 ton floating fort was so badly damaged in her gun turrets that she could not be repaired at Gibraltar.

FRANCE MOURNS LOSS OF LIBERTY ON BASTILLE DAY

Petain, Lebrun Have Farewell Visit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, July 14.—The unoccupied portion of France observed the 151st anniversary of the national holiday, Bastille day with mourning and subdued ceremony without music and with flags at half staff. Today's spectacle contrasted with the usual celebration of the date, which commemorates the fall of the Bastille—the day of liberation—with music, gay decorations and street dancing.

Thru streets lined with soldiers and behind which large crowds were packed, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and Pierre Laval went to church services this morning then proceeded to the memorial at Vichy for the dead of the last war. They laid a wreath there and observed a minute of silence.

Rousing Cheer for Lebrun.

Marshal Petain, in full uniform, then reviewed marching troops. Later Petain, Gen. Maxime Weygand and others appeared on the balcony of a hotel and received the cheers of the crowd. Former President Albert Lebrun, who called on Petain at noon for a farewell visit prior to leaving Vichy to take up private life, got rousing cheers from the crowd before the hotel.

Lebrun was turned from office in the swift change of government that made France an authoritarian state after the German occupation.

The anniversary of the storming of the Bastille fortress by Paris revolutionary mobs brought no holiday rest for the new government. Its agencies worked ceaselessly with the vast problems of reorganization and resettlement.

Crowds in U. S. Embassy.

Jean Ybarnegaray, minister of youth and family in Petain's cabinet, disclosed that organized leadership of children was planned, and that government directed surveillance of children would be continued from early age.

The American embassy was crowded by Americans and others unable to reach representatives of their own countries.

Affairs at the embassy, quartered in the villa of a doctor, are being handled by a staff headed by Chargé d'Affaires Robert Murphy.

Because this temporary capital is so crowded some American attachés have been unable to obtain accomodations here and drive back and forth from the nearby hamlet of La Bourboule.

John Murphy, minister from Ireland, has also set up an office here. Ireland is the only country affiliated with the British empire which has maintained its diplomatic relations with the French government.

Parade in London.

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—A battle stained colorguard of French soldiers, sailors, and aviators paraded today in observance of Bastille day, the independence day of their homeland, now under a government they do not recognize.

They were headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, recognized by Britain as the leader of all "free" Frenchmen.

Prime Minister Churchill sent Gen. De Gaulle this message:

"On the anniversary of one of the greatest days in French history, I take opportunity of expressing to you my sympathy for the French people in the hour of their misfortune, and my gratitude to those who decided to continue the struggle at the side of their allies. I look forward with confidence to a time not far distant when the 14th of July will once again be celebrated as a day of rejoicing by a free and victorious France."

Urge Further Resistance.

CHANDERNAGOR, French Bengal, July 14 (AP).—M. Baron, administrator of this little French colony north of Calcutta urged Frenchmen in a Bastille day message today to continue the struggle against Germany beside "our friends the British."

There are five small French colonies in India, totaling 196 square miles and with a population of 300,000 Chandernagor, the third largest, has less than 35,000 population.

False Teeth Wearers Often Worst Breath Offenders!
"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Polident

A thin dark film collects on plates and bridges. This film soaks up odors and impurities like a sponge! It holds germs and decay bacteria, and it is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. It gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, a powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's ready to use!

TO THE DELEGATES to the Democratic National Convention—to American Mothers, Wage Earners, Farmers, and Veterans—

STOP THE MARCH OF WAR!

Stop the Interventionists and Warmongers!

DON'T let the Democratic Party, historically the Party of non-intervention, become the Party of intervention and war, against the will of 93 per cent of the American people.

The Republican Party at Philadelphia deliberately struck out of its platform a declaration against sending our boys to fight on foreign soil. Don't let the Democratic Party make the same mistake. It will be fatal in November.

Delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago, you have the greatest opportunity in the history of your party to serve your country and party by keeping America out of foreign wars and affording the American people a clear-cut vote on Election Day on the paramount issue of peace or war.

That will be the big issue—maybe the sole issue—a referendum on war.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado (June 15, 1940):

"The most important election ever to be held in the history of the world will occur in the United States of America in November. * * * I am not indulging in threats or idle talk or personal opinion, but unless one or the other of these great parties names a candidate who is not an interventionist, the millions of peace-loving people of this Nation will form a third party that will nominate such a candidate. A fair open referendum on the question of peace versus intervention must be had in November, for it is the overshadowing political issue of the generation. Each of these conventions will adopt party planks in their platforms which will pay lip service to peace but will not be worth the paper upon which they are written. The past record of the candidate and his known predilections are all that will count in November. Pledges made by candidates with fingers crossed will not fool the people this time. * * * Naturally, I hope and pray that the Democratic Party will be the peace party * * * but, if the Democratic Party fails to do its duty and makes the mistake of nominating an interventionist for the office of President, so far as I am concerned, my country will come before my party."

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana: in the Senate of the United States, June 20, 1940, on the appointment of Henry L. Stimson of New York and Frank Knox of Chicago to the Cabinet by President Roosevelt:

"I had hoped that the Democratic Party would be the peace party of the United States, and not make the foolish errors which have been made in the past, and that we would not drive the people, by hysteria and pounding, the same old way that they have been driven before. The men who met in the secret meeting in New York were the same group that carried on the propaganda to get us into the last war. They were using the same old slogans in the same old way. Now, instead of having them in New York and Chicago, we are to bring them down and put them in the Cabinet. * * *

"These two men were chosen, without doubt, because of all the interventionists in the Republican Party these two men have been foremost in that cause. * * * But the people of the country should know exactly what the nomination of these two gentlemen means and the significance of their selection. * * * These two appointments ought to be particularly pleasing to the warmongers, to those who think we ought to go to war; to those who think isolation means putting our heads in the sand. But it should not be pleasing to those who no longer feel that we are a colony of the British Government; it should not be pleasing to those who do not want to see American boys go across the water and be slaughtered upon the battlefields of Europe; it should not be pleasing to the peace-loving people of this country."

Senator Rush D. Holt, of West Virginia:

"I read in the newspapers three weeks ago that there was pressure from London to get Harry Woodring out of the Cabinet and it has succeeded. Why does London seemingly know more about our foreign policy than the United States Senate does? Did Lord Lothian tell the President when he conferred with him that Mr. Woodring was in the way? * * * Mr. Woodring's policy was to do everything for the Allies within the law and to look after America first, but the policy of the new nominee is to do anything for the Allies that is necessary and America be damned. * * * The President now has men who will do his bidding without question, because they are right along with him in conducting us along the path toward war."

Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri:

"I shall vote against their confirmation (Stimson and Knox) because they are both interventionists, not secretly, not clandestinely, but openly. The writings and speeches of both of them conclusively show that they favor a policy of American intervention. They are for war or for acts which amount to war, and are certain to precipitate war.

"* * * I hope never to see the day * * * when a son of mine will be the first member of my family * * * who will not engage in a war as a defender of the United States; * * * But, I will never cast my vote either to get into war or to take steps leading inevitably into war. * * * I will never cast a vote that will take us along step by step, inch by inch, and put us in the situation under the guise of measures short of war, to the point where we will be engaged in a war."

Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts (June 21, 1940):

"If we want war, let us make an open declaration of war. Let us refrain from surreptitious acts which we like to think of as 'short of war,' but which all sensible people in the world know to be acts of war. There is no sentiment in this country in favor of the United States entering the war. * * * Therefore, I say let us be careful not to provoke war, not to invite it, not to go to the point where it is inescapable. This great Nation, with its millions of people and its great resources, is the only light of democracy left in all the world, the only beacon of hope for the preservation of civilization and humanity. To risk its destruction now, in the condition in which we know we are, would be terrible. * * * If you are preparing to undertake the policing of the world in the name of justice you are committing your country and future generations to a policy of waging endless war throughout the world.

"* * * I do not hesitate to say that if this agitation (for war) from the men of property as against the men of no property continues in this country there will be developed a radical spirit which it will be very difficult to limit. * * * Oh, the tragedy of it, that a powerful group of men of property should be challenging the peace desires of the millions of poor people who toil and labor and sacrifice, to whom war brings more poverty, whose children are made for generations to eat the bread of poverty by war."

Write or wire to your Delegates at the Democratic National Convention, Convention Hall, Chicago, Illinois, to support a clearcut peace or anti-war plan.

Also, write your Representative in Congress to stay in session; and, above all, to vote to keep America out of foreign entanglements and wars.

WELCOME TO CHICAGO.

We want to welcome to Chicago all the delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention. We don't expect to approve what the convention does but we are not going to blame the delegates for that. Why should they be blamed when they haven't anything to say about it?

Chicago is a fine city. It has a lot of fine people in it. Every city has a lot of fine people in it, and we only mention to the delegates that there are a lot of fine people in Chicago because we're afraid that they might not think so after looking at their hosts, the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine.

But inasmuch as the delegates are going to see a lot of their hosts during the week, we would like to tip them off that there are certain subjects of conversation that it is diplomatic to avoid when talking to the generalissimos and lieutenants of the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine.

For instance, if you happen to be talking to the Hon. James M. Slattery, our United States senator, don't ask if he knows a safe place where you can stow your watch and spare cash before you step out for an evening. The Hon. Mr. Slattery will think you are referring to his strongbox and the $25,000 worth of Commonwealth Edison stock. He will probably call you a dirty Republican.

If you happen to have your movie camera along, be careful not to point it at a Democratic ward committeeman or police captain. He might break a leg scrambling under the nearest sofa. Ward committeemen and police captains have been allergic to movie cameras since the federal grand jury started holding previews of a film showing visitors to Billy Skidmore's junk yard.

If you meet State Senator Abe Marovitz [Dem.], don't ask him if he has a softball team. Softball teams use ball bats, and every time some one mentions ball bats Senator Marovitz is afraid the public will recall an honest garage owner named Marinus Hvid, who was beaten to death with them. The racket trade association that was pushing Hvid around got its jail bird executive secretary out of a conference in Abe's office.

When you meet Abe's boss, Jake Arvey, don't be too enthusiastic about getting the vote out. Jake's boys and girls in the 24th ward were so enthusiastic about getting the vote out that he's afraid to pick up the telephone for fear he will hear that another of them has been indicted.

Don't ask any one what's become of Lynden Smith, who was so active in the 1936 campaign. No one is quite sure how he died, and your hosts prefer not to discuss him, because just before he died Mr. Smith had been doing a lot of talking about some little black books he had been keeping while he was custodian of the 2 per cent shaken down from state employés and contractors.

When you meet our colored county commissioner, Edward M. Sneed, don't talk about the sacrifices all of us must make for rearmament. Commissioner Sneed will think you're asking for his pistol.

When you meet the Hon. Frank Zintak, superintendent of betterments at the city hall, don't say, "That's a snappy vest you're wearing, Mr. Zintak," or, "I see you're not wearing your vest, Mr. Zintak." Mr. Zintak is sensitive about his vests and the pockets in them. The jury that tried him might have been more sensitive if the bailiffs hadn't taken it out to a tavern and anesthetized it.

Don't use anything but whole numbers in conversation with Congressman A. J. Sabath. He's very sensitive about fractions, particularly fractional congressmen.

If you are eating near Secretary Ickes, don't order mushrooms with your steak. Mushrooms are grown in large holes under the ground, and it begins to look as if that's the only use Chicago can find for the subway that Mr. Ickes told us how to build.

Don't ask Mayor Kelly's health commissioner, Dr. Bundesen, anything about milk. He tried to tell a federal grand jury about it but the jurors didn't believe him.

In fact, there are so many things that it's not safe to talk about with a member of the Kelly-Nash-Nudelman machine that the best thing to do is to confine your conversation to Roosevelt and Humanity. If you don't, they will anyway. Just stick to Roosevelt and Humanity.

ON THE WALL.

Some people seem to have been astonished by the disclosure that communist cartoons had been painted on the walls of the administration building at the Floyd Bennett airport in Brooklyn. The work was done under the auspices of the WPA. It is known that one of the two painters employed on the murals has lately been dropped from the rolls because he did not file the affidavit of nonmembership in the communist party or the Nazi bund, now required. All but one of the pictures have been removed.

The incident recalls the use of communist symbolism and communist faces in the Rockefeller Center murals a few years ago. Many people at the time the pictures were still on view professed to be astonished at the presence of such propaganda where it was least expected.

In fact, neither of these incidents should occasion any surprise. New York is that kind of a community. It is flighty, emotional, unstable, unbalanced. The communists, who know exactly what they want, find it easy to get their way in New York because few persons care enough about matters of principle to challenge the communists until they have convicted themselves.

ROOSEVELT'S PLANNED HYSTERIA.

Mr. Roosevelt has announced his intention of calling 50,000 men of the National Guard into federal service, to be followed later by the rest of the militia, totaling 240,000 men.

Spokesmen for Mr. Roosevelt's war department talk of keeping these men with the colors for a year at least. The New Dealers expect congress to enact a conscription law to provide immense additional levies for the army.

These measures are but the latest of many evidences of the hysteria in Washington, a hysteria that is being whipped up by the New Dealers for political effect. The plan is to scare the country into reelecting Mr. Roosevelt and at the same time to provide him with an army for war in Europe.

Testimony before congressional committees shows that the regular army is being recruited rather more rapidly than the schedules of the war department had called for, and quite as rapidly as the army can digest the additional personnel. If there were any such instant emergency as Mr. Roosevelt pretends, the obvious place to find recruits is the CCC camps and the relief rolls. There are hundreds of thousands of men of military age now being supported by the government because they are out of work. Instead of seeking to enlist them and thereby causing no disruption whatsoever in the economic life of the country, Mr. Roosevelt proposes instead to send the guardsmen to camp for many months. The guardsmen with few exceptions have jobs and the great majority of them are carrying family responsibilities. Mr. Roosevelt, without any showing of instant need, prepares to order the guard into service, thereby creating a maximum of individual and economic disorganization. This kind of thing has no other explanation than a desire on his part to excite and alarm the country and prepare the public mind for larger military adventures.

The same perverse purpose, the same determination to make confusion worse confounded, can be traced in the successive demands on congress for military appropriations. Every one is agreed that under Mr. Roosevelt the defenses of this country have been neglected in face of the growing tensions abroad. Every one is agreed that the shortages of equipment must be met as rapidly as possible.

The war had been in progress for four months and Poland had been knocked out last January when Mr. Roosevelt sent his budget to congress. He requested about 2 billion dollars for the army and navy. It was not enough, as he should have known. In mid-May, with the German advance on the western front under way, he felt the growing tension in this country and made his melodramatic appearance before congress. It was calculated not to allay alarm but to excite it to the point of frenzy. He well knew that any additional sums needed for the nation's defense could have been obtained in the routine way, by the introduction of bills in congress, but that would have left the country calm and clear-headed. He chose instead to cry havoc and the results were altogether satisfactory from his viewpoint.

They were so satisfactory in upsetting the nation's equilibrium that a fortnight later he was back again, demanding more billions, and a little more than a month later, on July 10, he presented his latest bill for nearly 5 billions more.

Between January and July he has raised his estimate of the nation's military needs from 2 billion to nearly 10 billion. That establishes a world's record for bad guessing, but the manner in which the requests were made is even more significant. The succession of requests for money were a succession of calculated shocks to the nation, intended to spread hysteria. As if that were not enough, he has now decided to call the militia.

And that isn't all. When the appropriations were being expanded it was obvious that additional taxes would be required. The New Deal managed to create a maximum of confusion by first intimating that the tax question would be postponed until next year, then by passing a bill raising income and other taxes. Before individuals and business corporations had been given time to adjust themselves to the new schedules, it was announced that still higher taxes would be imposed. Limitations on the permissible profits from war orders have been juggled and the last announcement is that they now will be removed.

While all this has been going on, Mr. Roosevelt has been seeing submarines off Florida, and sending the navy on mysterious errands from Hawaii only to send it back again a few days later; and thru it all has been refusing to announce his intentions regarding the third term. His whole course of conduct has been calculated to confuse, to alarm, and to excite hysteria. No other explanation fits the facts.

Editorial of the Day

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

The Federal Trade commission has uncovered what appears to be a dastardly plot against the well-being of the United States government. It has charged six corporations with establishing a combination to fix prices and create a monopoly on a product which is so essential that without it Washington's broad structure might readily collapse. It has, in full—we will not keep you waiting—disclosed what it believes to be a conspiracy to monopolize the market for rubber erasers.

The complaint reveals the extent to which such monopoly affects the United States. It asserts that not only firms and corporations, but the federal, state, and municipal governments use substantial quantities of rubber erasers, and that this heinous plot is designed to unreasonably lessen, eliminate and restrain competition in that indispensable commodity.

It is well for the country that the eagle eye of the Federal Trade commission discovered what was going on, if such a thing as that is going on. What of our defense plans, at the mercy of the dispensers of rubber erasers? What of those mosquito boats equipped with 18 inch torpedo tubes, when the United States uses 21 inch torpedoes? What of the miscalculation of military needs, which must be corrected swiftly? How could the United States rub out the old debt limit and set up a new one, without an eraser?

This thing is too horrible, too despicable to contemplate. We can't believe the manufacturers of rubber erasers would be guilty of such a plot to take advantage of government in its time of need. If this is true, only one more thing would be needed to destroy our faith in humanity. We urge the Federal Trade commission to look searchingly into the distribution of red ink.

MOST FAMOUS SECRET WEAPON.

All the babble about secret weapons of German invention seems like rumormongering and bogey man stuff when one remembers Greek fire. This was the greatest secret weapon of them all, and the world will never see its like again unless Orson Welles coaxes down an army of his Martians with their death dealing rays. Greek fire was a secret guarded so zealously by the Byzantine or eastern Roman empire that chemists and military experts can only guess at its composition.

By means of this invention, used largely as a naval weapon, Byzantium held imperial sway in the Mediterranean and kept classic civilization alive for 1,000 years after Rome had fallen before the barbarians. It was a fiery fluid, projected by machines akin to the flame throwers of the first world war, which water could not quench. Indeed, water seemed to make it burn more furiously. No fleet, no matter how numerous, could stand before the Byzantine biremes when the Greek fire tubes were put to work. The stuff was also called sea fire and wildfire.

An architect named Callinicus is credited with its invention, about 650 A. D. It was ejected from wooden tubes lined with bronze by means of a siphon arrangement, and apparently could be thrown to a considerable distance from the ship's side. After examination of all the contemporary evidence, which is slight, Lieut. Col. H. W. L. Hime, an English ordnance expert, has come to the conclusion that Greek fire was a mixture of inflammable substances, such as naphtha, sulphur, tallow, rosin, turpentine, and possibly saltpeter, with quick lime. His theory is that a hose from a water engine was applied to the breech of the siphon tube, and thus the fluid was ejected and ignited.

The enemies of Byzantium were too ignorant of chemistry and mechanics to solve the mystery. Therefore an empire, usually sneered at by modern historians as decadent, effeminate, corrupt, and priest ridden, achieved the European record for longevity.

TWO SHIPS ARE SAILING.

Two ships sail out of the harbor today
And one is laden with things that slay,
Cruel weapons of lead and steel,
And one with things that assuage and heal.

Side by side they will hurry on
Into the twilight from out the dawn,
From the land of peace to the land of strife—
The Ship of Death and the Ship of Life.

The gods that watch from Olympus' height—
What shall they make of so strange a sight?
What shall they think of the race of men
Who mangle, then help to restore again?

The Tactful Telephone Operator.

Telephone operators are trained to use a few concise replies for all occasions of their work. This method, tho efficient, sometimes produces curious situations.

Not long ago a man, after having vainly tried to call a number thru one of the suburban exchanges, became exasperated and yelled into the mouthpiece of his phone:

"Listen, sister, are you nuts or am I?"

She calmly gave him the standard answer:

"I'm sorry, sir, but we don't have that information."

"TO HAVE AND TO HOLD" ATTRACTIVE TRESSES.

BEAUTY parlors and barber shops are indispensable and most of their procedures can be commended highly. We wish our tresses to be attractive. Perhaps a regular visit to the beautician has become a matter of routine. It is looked forward to with satisfaction because it involves rest—sometimes a lot of conversation [not to mention gossip]—while massage ofttimes proves soothing.

But all too frequently we forget that a small amount of personal care can do much for the hygiene of the scalp. There is no reason why this should not be begun in childhood. Were this custom adopted generally we would encounter fewer bald heads. If the hair is too dry it is bound to split, break off, and become thin. Excessive oiliness, on the other hand, may point to an actual disease of the skin glands wherein overstimulation may destroy the roots.

As we can understand, the first essential is cleanliness, and this means that insect invaders, bacteria, and dandruff must not be permitted to get a "head" start. Dust can prove irritating, as can profuse perspiration. With some a daily wash is necessary, particularly with children—regardless of the bother and the time spent in drying.

Some of my friends believe in vigorous massage. I do not. Too much friction may be followed by soreness. Warm water, a superfatted soap, plus the yolk of one egg—well beaten—will supply just enough fat to loosen the minute fragments of dead skin—leaving a soft pinkish surface. The rinsing process is even more important, as all of the material must be removed.

With most youngsters a thoro cleansing once a week is none too often. If scaliness is noted olive oil may be rubbed in gently and allowed to remain on for several hours before the scalp bath is undertaken. Dandruff usually develops between the ages of 10 and 15 years. Only very fine flecks are observed at first and —while the parts look immaculate after each shampoo—nevertheless the loose particles recur a day or two later.

Unless this condition is relieved the trouble will increase in severity with the appearance of large, greasy plaques. We are then facing what is known as seborrhea. While there may be no loss of hair at first, by the time the boy or girl reaches his 18th year it will start to fall out.

The lesson is that we should detect the first manifestation of dandruff and—if healthy locks are to be retained—the malady must be conquered. The best household remedy is tar soap or one that contains a little sulfur. If the scalp is very dry, sulfur ointment may be employed. This is the same preparation suggested for scabies, altho it may be more dilute. It is safe to say that we can prevent 90 per cent of our hair disorders if we will start early with one or the other of these soaps. Sulfonated oils are not recommended, as they produce excessive drying and snapping of the strands.

Neither brushes nor combs should carry sharp points. Digging into the surface helps germs to obtain a foothold. Furthermore, toilet articles are likely to become foul unless they are plunged in warm water, soapsuds, and ammonia at least once each week.

"Shall I wear a hat?" is a common question and much has been written on the bad effects of a tightly constricting hatband. While this may have some influence upon the circulation, a hundred times as much damage is caused by seborrhea. Perspiration soaked bands, however, may make the skin less firm and bring on a weakened condition. It may be said with certainty that going bareheaded will not promote the growth of one's thatch. In fact, prolonged exposure to strong sunlight is deleterious to many. The ensuing dryness is far from desirable. Lotions are valuable only as they are cleansing.

TERMS EXPLAINED.

H. M. S. writes: 1. What is a hypertensive cardiac condition? 2. Is there a Latin term for "cancer"?

REPLY.

1. One in which high blood pressure damages the heart and the kidneys—hence the circulation.

2. The Greek word "carcinoma" is usually employed. The meaning is the same as the Latin word "cancer"—a crab.

FALLEN GALL BLADDER.

A. B. C. writes: According to X-rays, my gall bladder has dropped down as far as the pelvic bone. Is this possible?

REPLY.

Almost as great a fall as that suffered by Humpty Dumpty. The chances are you refer to the kidney, which may ramble around quite a bit. A gall bladder—to reach this vicinity—would require an extraordinarily long neck. I doubt it.

A PERMANENT AND PSORIASIS.

G. R. D. writes: Would a permanent wave harm a person with psoriasis of the scalp?

REPLY.

No. Wave all you please—but employ a fat-free diet. This will do more to relieve psoriasis than any other plan.

BLOOD IN STOOLS.

N. H. writes: What causes blood to appear in a bowel movement?

REPLY.

The most common cause is enlargement of a hemorrhoidal vein [piles]. The symptom is present in a severe grade of colitis or should a malignant growth occur along the alimentary tract.

THE THIRD TERM.

Chicago, July 9.—Soon after William McKinley was elected President for the second time in November, 1900, many selfish politicians got busy and talked third term. The movement had gone so far that the President felt it necessary to take the matter up with his cabinet and to issue to the public over his own name on June 10, 1901, the following statement:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of a thought of a third term. In view, therefore, of the reiteration of the suggestion, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long settled conviction, that I not only am not a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me.

"My only ambition is to serve thru my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then with them do my duty in the ranks as a private citizen."

Soon after Theodore Roosevelt was elected in November, 1904, the politicians again started talking third term. So on Dec. 11, 1904, there was issued from the White House a statement as follows:

"On March 4 next I shall have served 3½ years, and this 3½ years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

CALLS IT "PLAYING POLITICS."

Chicago, July 9.—Won't you ever stop playing at politics long enough to realize that this time Rome is really burning? That, Republican and anti-New Deal tho you are and I am, now is the time for all good men to forget about what, in view of the larger matters at stake, is downright trivial—i. e., party?

For the last seven years you've been yammering for freedom of the press, freedom of enterprise, freedom of speech—in short, the constitution. So now, when these things are perishing thruout the world at the hands of a maniac, the conclusion is inescapable that you don't give a damn about freedom of anything except freedom from Roosevelt.

For my part, tho I've never yet voted Democratic and think Willkie's good presidential material, I'd rather declare a moratorium on the election until we've got thru our really important business, quenching a fire in Europe that constitutes a greater menace to our freedom than Roosevelt ever could.

Of course you won't print this, but it might conceivably make a little dent in your obsession. HELEN BUGBEE.

CONVOYS AND THE CHILDREN.

Chicago, July 13.—It would be interesting to know what is back of the British government's apparent change of plan in regard to sending children to safety in the United States. If it is true that a great number of them may enter this country under the existing quota, it cannot be because of governmental restrictions, and with large numbers of boats under convoy returning empty to Canada, the report current in England that it is because of a shortage of ships that the plan may be abandoned, seems somewhat specious.

The suggestions made in the house of commons that the United States provide ships and convoys furnishes what may be a clew. Under our existing neutrality act we cannot send our boats into the war zone. If the suggestion made in the house were carried out it would involve changes in the act which would leave the door wide open to American shipping. Is it possible that the honorable gentlemen recall the fact that it was the sinking of our ships which involved us in the last European war, and are using the safety of British children as propaganda?

I have complete sympathy with England, and the highest admiration for the courage of her defenders. I believe it is of vital importance to the whole civilized world that she should defeat Germany, but I think it would make for better feeling at this critical time if the British politicians could understand that we do our own thinking in the United States of America. The reason for such request is naturally obvious to you.

POINTS HIGH SCHOOL NEEDS.

Chicago, July 11.—The need for better selection and training for high school teachers and higher standards for student accomplishment as stated in your editorial of July 7 have been increasingly evident to the Citizens' Schools committee. Even a master's degree, as you point out, while evidence of a higher standard for teachers, may mean only an extra year of academic plugging for the sake of the "loaves and fishes" of more pay.

As long as so large a number of teachers on temporary certificates have high school positions when regularly qualified people are waiting or easily attainable, the avenues for personal and political favoritism are wide open, and the quality of teaching will be lowered whatever academic standards may be set up for the casual observer to see and the politician to use.

We believe that high schools should be smaller, as you point out. We believe that money should be spent on instruction rather than "Union Depot" types of buildings. We believe that principals should be chosen on a basis of merit, and held responsible for their schools. This, of course, implies authority and freedom to do the job.

We agree with you that student standards of achievement should be raised. The "no failure" philosophy of recent years is not conducive to stiffening the backbone of our future citizens. Character is the result of earned achievement. One high school teacher said recently, "Every year for six years I have revised my standards downward and every year I have come less near getting student work to meet even the lowered standard."

These are serious trends in these days that demand the best we can do in education.

MABEL P. SIMPSON,
Executive Secretary, Citizens' Schools Committee.

DAMAGES.

Berwyn, Ill., July 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Some years ago I had a bad accident, injuring and disfiguring my nose. Last fall I went to court after years of delay.

2. In court the judge awarded me $600 and said [3] that the defendant had to pay me $100 within ninety days or he would be put in jail.

When the ninety days were up [six months ago] [4] our lawyer said we would have to pay $3 to a sheriff to collect the money. After these six months had passed the lawyer claims he did not hear from sheriff.

5. Now our lawyer said we would have to pay $18 to $20 to another sheriff to [6] arrest this man, who lives in our neighborhood.

The lawyer said [7] we have a lien on the defendant's lot, but we have nothing to show for it.

Please tell us [8] if and [9] where we can find about the lien we are supposed to have and [10] if we have to pay this so-called sheriff the $20. G. S.

1. This sounds as if you mean more than two years, but the Illinois limitation period is two years.

2. It is not clear how the effect of delay was avoided.

3. In general, there is no such ninety day limit on a judgment. It seems probable that you are mistaken on this point. You can check up by examining the records in the office of the clerk of the court.

4. He is in a better position to advise you than we are.

5. Presumably he was talking about some other step than the one on which he had previously quoted the $3.00 figure. He is the proper source of information as to what he is talking about in each case.

6. In general, such a judgment would be a lien on real estate of the judgment debtor in the county.

7. The court records will show that you have the judgment, and this is enough.

8 and 9. You can check up at the office of the clerk of the court.

10. The amount to be paid will depend on what you wish to do.

Stony Point stormed by 1,350 picked American troops under Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne. Altho the British garrison, under Lieut. Col. GUNS TO COMBAT THE DIVE BOMBER NEEDED IN WAR

Britain Lacks Weapons for Ground Defense.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 14.—Military opinion here now regards the dive bomber as used in large numbers by the Germans as the most effective and destructive weapon in the war.

Delivering the first blow of each successive attack, it serves the purpose of a deadly artillery, destroying fortifications, front lines, smashing up troop concentrations, wrecking communications and industrial equipment and even threatening shipping.

Closest military attention now is being given to the problem of finding the best weapon to stop the dive bomber.

Great Britain now has antiaircraft guns of 3 inch or greater caliber which can reach high flying planes, but which are too unwieldy for use against planes diving fast. These guns have a slow rate of fire and cannot make rapid adjustments of angle and shell fuse setting.

Machine Guns Ineffective.

Small caliber machine guns, while widely used as antiaircraft defense, likewise are ineffective against dive bombers. They have only a short effective range, and the German dive bombers are armored to withstand their light bullets.

The answer to the problem seems to be something on the order of the Nazi 37mm. [1.4-inch] automatic antiaircraft gun. This weapon is used by the Germans in batteries of 4, 8 and 12 firing crossfire and throwing up a devastating curtain of fire.

Operating in conjunction with these weapons are heavy machine guns mounted in pairs and firing bullets of about .6 inch bore which add to the power of the fire curtain.

How Dive Bomber Works.

Dive bombers rely upon diving straight at a target to direct the missiles accurately. When about 1,500 or 1,000 feet above the target they release the bombs and pull out for a get-away, usually hedge-hopping until out of range of ground fire.

Because the allies lacked medium automatic weapons and were short of anti-aircraft guns of all types, the German dive bombers losses were slight considering the great destruction they inflicted.

When at first the British air force night-raided German airdromes, naval bases, etc., they reported upon their return that the Germans fired a curtain of shells which could be clearly seen because of their fire trail, which rose in the air to about a mile and a half and then curved over and burst while falling.

These the R. A. F. christened "flaming onions." Actually they were 37 mm. automatic gun shells. While they lacked range against high flying aircraft, they served to keep the aircraft well up while the 3 inch and bigger antiaircraft guns went into action against them.

Anti-Tank and Plane Guns.

The Germans built both 20 mm. and 37 mm. guns designed for use against both tanks and planes. They used these weapons even in firing at ships leaving Calais, according to the last British troops evacuated from there.

These guns have a carriage which rests flat on the ground. The gunner sits on a chair which moves around as the gun swings on a turntable, and when the gun is elevated the chair flattens out like a barber chair until with extreme elevation the gunner is lying down, being turned around as if ready for a shave.

Clips of ammunition are fed into the gun by a loader who moves around in a circle.

Protects Moving Troops.

This double purpose gun can be transported by motor and together with heavy machine guns in pairs, as described, gives protection against tanks and planes to columns of troops moving across country.

The British Expeditionary Force and allied troops who fought in France agree that the story would have been totally different if they only had had enough efficient anti-aircraft guns, anti-tank guns and planes.

Indian Girl, 2, Tries to Save Sister in Fire; Both Perish

Jenks, Okla., July 14 (AP).—An Indian girl, 2 years old, tried vainly today to rescue her sister, 10 months old, but both perished as their frame home collapsed in flames. The mother, Mrs. Huel Peek, was visiting a neighbor, but ran home, and suffered minor burns in a futile effort to enter the house.

Thrill Show Notes

Chief James S. Furlong's clown firemen had engine trouble on the way to a fire. They opened the hood and birds flew out. Then the truck caught fire. Firemen who escaped got out the life net. Their comrades, trapped on the truck, jumped in with umbrella parachutes.

Engine company 5 won the firemen's water fight for the third successive year. Team: Capt. Thomas Mulcahey, Edward Datz, Gail Kenney, and Raphael Leahy. They got there fustest—with the mostest water.

Motorcycle daredevils, actor bandits, racing police squads—everything that came in the south gate—came in on time. The reason: Sergt. Michael Spatz of Chief Prendergast's office. His job was to keep the show running smoothly.

Eleven and one-half seconds was the time on the bunking exhibition. That's how long it took the firemen who undressed and went to bed in the center of the field to get dressed, down the pole, and out of their goldfish bowl fire station onto their truck.

John Balek is the motorcycle policeman who did the head stand. Dober is the dog that did the back seat driving on Harry Epstein's motorcycle. Dober likes speed, hates trick riding.

The smoke ejector looks like a pile of furnace pipes on wheels. Fire department officials thought it wouldn't interest the public. Everyone wanted to know what it was.

Small boys were about evenly divided. Some wanted a fire truck and some the North Western railroad's model train, used in the crime drama holdup.

If you saw a rainbow, you're quite O. K. There was one. The sun shone thru the artificial fog from James Gleason's trick nozzles in the fog scene finale.

There were two kinds of people in the audience: Those who wanted the south side police to win the push ball contest and those who liked the north side. The latter went home smiling.

Harry K. [Smoky] Rogers, chief engineer of the Western Actuarial bureau, explained technical details of the fire department drills over the public address system.

20,000 CARS GET TO THRILL SHOW WITHOUT A HITCH

Park Policemen Perform Efficient Task.

An estimated 20,000 automobiles carried spectators to the Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon. Despite this traffic burden the efficiency of the Park district police made it possible for the motorists to reach the show quickly—and to get away afterward without delay.

A special traffic detail of 110 policemen, headed by Capt. M. J. Doyle, under the supervision of Chief Roger F. Shanahan of the park police, handled the show traffic without a hitch. Their burden was made far more difficult by the thousands of Sunday motorists speeding along the Outer drive.

Where Cars Parked.

Parking space for about 4,000 automobiles was provided along Columbus drive, Leif Eriksen drive, and Field drive, between Congress and 23d street. About 16,000 cars were accommodated in parking lots at Soldiers' field, the Field museum, and on Northerly Island.

The efficiency with which traffic was handled was demonstrated by a taxicab ride from Michigan avenue and Monroe street to the south end of Soldiers' field at 1:45 p. m., just 15 minutes before the show began. The trip, a distance of 1.7 miles, required only 3½ minutes.

At 1:53 p. m. Capt. Doyle ordered the Outer drive closed from Ohio street to 23d street. Police permitted only persons going to the show to drive into that area, while other traffic was rerouted along Michigan avenue for 50 minutes. The only points at which traffic piled up were at the entrances to the parking lots, where several lanes of autos were forced into single or double lanes.

Drive Closed for Departure.

At 5:15 p. m., toward the end of the show, the van of the huge crowd began to pour out of Soldiers' field on its way home. At 5:30 Capt. Doyle again ordered the Outer drive closed to thru traffic, while automobiles began to stream out of the parking lots at the rate of several hundred a minute.

At 6:05 p. m. policemen assigned to clear the field reported to Capt. Doyle that all but a few stragglers had departed. At 6:09 p. m. a small number of automobiles remained in the lots, traffic on the drive had dwindled to normal, and Capt. Doyle ordered the drive reopened to thru traffic. It had been closed for only 39 minutes, during which more than 90 per cent of the crowd had departed.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—President Roosevelt returned to the White House late today from an overnight cruise on the Potomac river. Accompanying him on the trip was Justice Samuel I. Roseman of the New York State Supreme court, an old friend and political adviser.

EDITOR WHO BEAT HUEY LONG CROWD TELLS HIS STORY

New Orleans Crusader Is Here for Convention.

BY PERCY WOOD.

The working press at the Democratic national convention, opening today, will include a vigorous 64 year old newspaper man who is the particular abomination of the remnants of the old Long Democratic machine in Louisiana.

James E. Crown.

James E. Crown, editor of the New Orleans States, bears the hatred of this ring as lightly as he takes the credit for its exposure. The job isn't done yet, he said yesterday, in his room at the Palmer House, but an impressive line of scalps already hangs from his belt.

About 80 ex-politicians in Louisiana have reason to curse "Major Crown," as the editor is known in New Orleans, for their troubles. Under sentence are such figures as Richard W. Leche, who was governor of Louisiana when Crown grew suspicious of his suddenly acquired wealth, and Seymour Weiss, a power both during and after Huey Long's time.

Scores Awaiting Trial.

Serving time is Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State university. Scores of lesser political lights are awaiting trial or appeals from convictions. The old order is gone, and a new governor, Sam Houston Jones, whom Crown enthusiastically supported against Earl Long, Huey's brother, sits in the statehouse at Baton Rouge.

Crown gives the credit to his staff for breaking the scandals, but this is discounting the blistering editorials the editor wrote, and the cartoons he inspired, to dramatize the news stories exposing the official corruption.

Crown tells about a telephone call from Earl Long, when the latter had succeeded Leche and was under fire himself.

"Jim Crown," said the governor, "you're the biggest liar in the world! Man, the truth just isn't in you!"

"Earl, you've made me mighty happy," drawled the editor. "You've finally admitted there's a bigger liar in the world than yourself!"

Skeptical of Huey Long.

Almost forty years of American journalism had given Editor Crown a healthy skepticism of political figures when Huey Long came to power. He watched this fabulous character transform a free state into a demagoguery.

But Huey was cannier than his successors. Not until after Leche's election in 1936 did a loophole appear.

There were plenty of things to shoot at when Crown began his campaign. The administration collected 5 per cent from every state employé's salary, and it published a puff-sheet called the Progress every week and assessed subscriptions from the payrollers in proportion to their salaries.

"About $6,000,000 rolled in from those 5 per cent collections and not one cent has ever been accounted for," Crown said.

This went on for months until, finally, on the morning of June 7, 1939, the city editor of the States received a telephone call.

WPA Materials Used in House.

"Send a reporter and a photographer out to Metairie [a suburb] where James L. McLaughlin, a contractor, is building a house," said the informant. "Right now a state truck is at the university [at Baton Rouge, 90 miles from New Orleans] loading sash doors from a WPA project there that are going to be placed in McLaughlin's house. That truck will be along presently."

Crown assigned one of his ace reporters, Meigs O. Frost, and a photographer. The informant sent a guide along to show them the house. All three crawled thru the grass close to the partially completed dwelling. And presently the truck did come along, and the photographer got pictures of the unloading of the material. One of the pictures showed the license plate on the truck.

Orders Tracked Down.

"So we had our pictures and our story," the editor continued, "and that started it all. We traced the truck and the doors and learned that the orders to send them to McLaughlin's home came from George Caldwell, then superintendent of buildings and grounds at the university. He's doing time in Atlanta now.

"Gov. Leche raised the devil with us—for a while. He cited me and the president of our company, L. K. Nicholson, before the District court at Baton Rouge to tell all we knew about the affair, and we expressed publicly our delight at the opportunity to do so.

"But Leche got scared, and the action was withdrawn.

"Leche sent for Dr. Smith, the president of the university, and before long it developed that Dr. Smith had taken $500,000 of university funds and lost them on the wheat market. He ran away to Canada but came back and was sentenced to 8 to 24 years in the penitentiary.

"Leche resigned on June 26, 1939, and just last month was sentenced to 10 years in federal prison for mail fraud. That was in connection with the purchase of highway trucks.

"The ring got away with about $100,000,000 in all, but Gov. Jones thinks he can recover about $10,000,000 of it. We've had one murder and five suicides as another result. The looting had gone on for 12 years."

Californian Sets Glider Record of 290 Miles

REPORT 30 SOVIET TROOP TRAINS ON WAY TO FAR EAST

SHANGHAI, July 15, Monday (AP).—Reliable travelers arriving here from Europe via Vladivostok, reported today that they saw more than 30 soviet Russian troop trains, complete with tanks and artillery moving eastward.

This report was linked here with the recent disclosure that the Japanese dominated state of Manchukuo protested to Russia on July 9 regarding recurrent incidents along the Manchukuan-Siberian border. These incidents allegedly included soviet encroachments on Manchukuan territory and the kidnaping of Manchukuan officials.

The report also was linked with recent Japanese press assertions that Russia, Britain and the United States were engaged in a gigantic triple plot to disturb far-eastern affairs.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, July 14.—Anselmo Anselo, Italian consul general, has challenged a journalist, José Joaquin Pino de Icaza, to a duel, the newspaper Telegrafo of Guayaquil Ecuador, reported today. Anselo was said to have been offended by a broadcast speech of Pino de Icaza in favor of democracy in which, the challenger charged, unfavorable remarks were made against the totalitarian governments. The government has shut down the radio station for 20 hours following a protest by the consul.

BRITAIN ACTS FOR PEACE BETWEEN CHINA AND JAPAN

Talks Involve Hongkong and Burma Road.

LONDON, July 14 (AP).—Great Britain is prepared to offer concessions to Japan in Hongkong and over the Burma road in the hope of ending the Japanese-Chinese war, authoritative quarters suggested tonight.

[In a broadcast from Singapore, S. W. Jones, acting governor of Malaya, said the result of Britain's peace effort would be known soon. He said the British government would "go to the greatest length to avoid seconding and prolonging the war in the far east."]

Altho the British were portrayed as unwilling to forego treaty rights and industrial interests in the far east, they were said to be interested in arranging a larger settlement to end the 3 year old conflict.

Negotiations in Progress.

Negotiations already are in progress in Tokio concerning the Burma road, which is China's last important link with the outside world.

The Japanese have demanded closure of this route, and British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie was authorized on Friday to agree to a three month restriction on arms traffic over it pending broader exploration of the entire problem.

The rainy season is coming on and the road would be of little use during that period in any event.

It was said here that there had been few recent shipments of British munitions over the road because Britain has needed all she can produce for her own war against Germany.

Hongkong Secondary.

In these negotiations the position of Hongkong, British crown colony on the China coast, is regarded as secondary, because arms shipments to China from that port have been restricted since 1939.

Observers pointed out that since Britain has even gone to the length of issuing trade credits and sending arms to China in the past, there is no reason to suppose that any large-scale settlement would damage Chinese interests.

The British desire was said always to have been for peace on equitable terms for both parties.

Authoritative quarters cautioned, however, that it would be wrong to assume that Britain intended to start any policy of granting major concessions to Japan which would jeopardize British oriental interests or prejudice China's resistance.

Spaniard Will Replace French Chief at Tangier

TANGIER, July 14.—It was announced today that the French administrator of this international zone, opposite Gibraltar in Africa, soon will resign and be replaced by a Spanish administrator. The official candidate, Dr. Amieva, Spanish minister to Tangier, is the head of the local falange, [fascist party]. The British consulate general at Rabat, the consulate at Casa Blanca, and the vice consulates at Safi and Mazagan have been closed, at the request of the Rabat authorities. The British consulates at Marrakesh and Fez will remain open.

Celebrities Arrive

Three celebrities of the stage, film, and radio worlds arrived in Chicago yesterday for a musical comedy engagement during which they are scheduled to appear on a radio feature presented by W-G-N and the Mutual coast to coast network.

The three are Ruby Keeler, famous dancer with the lightning feet; Martha Raye, comedienne known for her echoing voice, and Bert Gordon, the so-called "Mad Russian." Tonight with Al Jolson they will open an engagement of the show "Hold On to Your Hats" at the Grand Opera house. Other stellar performers in the cast are Jack Whiting and Russ Brown. The entire company arrived from a run in Detroit, Mich.

On Aug. 1 Jolson, Miss Keeler, Miss Raye, Gordon, Whiting, and Brown will appear on the W-G-N regular Thursday night feature, In Chicago Tonight. Each will present a specialty. Miss Keeler, Miss Raye, Gordon, Whiting, and Brown said they were pleased to have an opportunity to appear on the popular program. Jolson, star-producer of "Hold On to Your Hats" will arrive in Chicago today. He was held over in Detroit by a charity performance.

Wedge Parties Into Intervals of Convention

BY JUDITH CASS.

DONKEYS will be the favorite decorative motif this week, for virtually every one who will be entertaining in town will be doing so for the purpose of fêting one or more of the Democrats here for the national convention. Not that parties will be limited to Democrats, for social gatherings are strictly nonpartisan, of course, and a sophisticated hostess tries to invite as many Republicans as Democrats. Not very many parties have been planned, for it is difficult for convention delegates or guests to know when they will be free to indulge in social festivities, but there will be numerous impromptu gatherings.

Among the parties that were arranged in advance was a buffet supper given last night by the Adlai E. Stevensons and the Philip Mahers at the home of Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Mr. Carpenter. The especial guests were Mr. Stevenson's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Ives, who arrived just before the party, and Charles Michelson, Mrs. Maher's uncle. Mr. and Mrs. Ives, who have lived all over the world, now call Southern Pines, N. C., home. They will be in the Carpenter house while they are in Chicago and then will go north to Charlevoix, Mich., for the rest of the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson live in Libertyville so they plan to stay in town with Mr. and Mrs. Ives whenever night sessions at the Stadium run late.

Carpenters Visiting Col. and Mrs. Langhorne.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are not here for the convention, for they are in Seal Harbor, Me., visiting Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne. The Carpenters will return to Beverly Cove, Mass., next week and will occupy a house next to the one they have had, which was burned last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert are to be the special guests at two large parties this week, a buffet supper the Walter R. Kirks will give tomorrow night in their Lake Shore drive apartment, and a cocktail and snack party Mr. and Mrs. Leray Berdeau will give on Wednesday at the Blackstone hotel. Evie and Chip Robert are enormously popular with Palm Beach fashionables as well as with those in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Berdeau arrived yesterday and are at the Drake. They have been in the east since closing their Palm Beach home and, after some 10 days here, will leave for California, where they will spend the remainder of the summer. Soon after the convention adjourns Mr. and Mrs. Kirk also will be leaving for California. They will be at the new Arrowhead Springs hotel and then will go to Santa Barbara to see Mrs. Kirk's nieces and nephews.

Restaurants and Races to Draw Delegates.

If one may judge by the last national conventions to which Chicago was host, every restaurant and club will be exceedingly gay and busy while the Democrats are here. The Arlington Race track was popular with those who were here eight years ago for the Democratic and Republican meetings and whenever an afternoon session at the Stadium permitted it, dozens of the delegates and guests went to the racing plant northwest of the city for a few hours' relaxation.

The women delegates and visitors at the convention will be the guests of the League of Women Voters at breakfast today at 9:30 in the Tower room of the Stevens hotel.

The opening of Al Jolson in "Hold On to Your Hats" at the Grand Opera House tonight will attract many visitors to the city, as well as Chicago's regular first-nighters.

Dr. and Mrs. Sydney P. Waud [Isabel Morrell] are being congratulated on the birth of a son Saturday at Passavant hospital. The baby has been named Sydney Palmer. He has two little sisters.

Mrs. Walter O. Wilson and Daughter Are Visitors.

Mrs. Walter O. Wilson and her daughter, Miss Marion, arrived yesterday from their home in Westbrook, Conn., to spend two days on the north shore. They are on their way to California. Mrs. Wilson is with her brother, James Curtiss, at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest, and Miss Wilson is visiting Miss Miranda Randall and her parents, the Clarence Randalls of Winnetka. Miss Randall entertained last night for her guest.

Miss Randall is not to have a formal debut this season, for her elder sister, Mary, is to be married in September and the whole family thinks that will be excitement enough for the autumn. Miss Mary Randall is engaged to J. Gordon Gilkey. Miss Miranda will return to Wellesley for her sophomore year next fall.

Thinks of a Winning Ticket

Looking at Hollywood by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 14.—Bette Davis, the comparatively new owner of two homes—one in Hollywood called Riverbottom because it used to get flooded in the spring washouts, the other in New Hampshire—got to counting up all the places in which she's lived.

The total comes to 86 homes, mostly rented. The first one, where she was born, is in Lowell, Mass. It was a good place—built by her grandmother—and still is. She knows the people who live there now and often visits them.

Some of the other 85 places, she has discovered, have become gas stations; others tearooms. Some have fallen apart, and with relish she remembers one she rented in Rochester when she was with George Cukor's stock company. When she gave her new address to the stage manager he looked kind of funny. And she noticed that, when the stage manager called for her in his car, he'd park around the corner and never in front. Finally she discovered that she had innocently rented quarters in Rochester's Barbary Coast district.

There was another Rochester house that Miss Davis and her mother took—and discovered, after they'd signed the lease, that they didn't like it. Breaking the lease looked hopeless, but Bette's mother—whom the actress calls Ruthie—devised a simple solution. She went outside and stamped some big, heavy footprints outside the window. Then they called the owner and said they couldn't possibly stay because there were prowlers about. The owner came over and said, "Nonsense, this neighborhood doesn't have prowlers."

"I'm sure we had a peeping Tom last night," said Mrs. Davis. "Let's go see if he left any evidence." And when the footprints were discovered Bette and Ruthie were relieved of their lease.

Miss Davis bought her New England home near Franconia, N. H., last summer—a house without plumbing, with 90 acres—for $2,000 cash.

It is being done over and her mother has gone on ahead to buy furniture. The place is called Butternut, and now Miss Davis has real names to put on her California and New Hampshire station wagons. Formerly her station wagon bore the imposing Spanish equivalent for "Ranch Nowhere."

Bette is glad she took the plunge and bought a couple of places, both modest. "For years," she says, "I had the notion that a woman shouldn't buy property. A man should buy it for her. But I finally did it myself."

Chicago's John Barrymore isn't the same J. B. who had the town by the ears for the 30 odd weeks he was being the municipal clown in "My Dear Children." Chicago had the carefully fostered notion that he was the town drunk, always teetering on the edge of delirium tremens—when, as a matter of fact, he was a plain invalid. Main trouble was an infection in the cheekbone which spread from a bad tooth.

Now, working in Hollywood in "The Great Profile," he is a healthy man and looks about 10 years younger than he did in his Chicago and New York engagements. No parties until the picture is finished.

The actor has retained Carl, the young fellow he picked up as a nurse on his tour. Carl is still fairly firm with the boss. Some time during the morning Barrymore usually calls for a rum and cola drink. Carl supplies it with a fair amount of rum. Then, as the day wears on, John will call for more. Carl gives him coke with a touch of rum flavoring extract and John doesn't know the difference.

Barrymore likes to talk about the old days. One of his pleasantest recollections is the time the Warners had him in "Moby Dick." This was a superduper of a picture and the Warners spent something like $90,000 on a whale that would really work. This was a whale of a whale, with a man inside to run a vast set of machinery that would make it blow, stick out its tongue and roll its eyes.

Came the day for the launching of Moby Dick, on location at San Pedro. The press was there in droves. Amid great ceremony Moby slid down the ways, into the water—and right on down. He worked perfectly on land but he wouldn't float. The man inside barely escaped with his life and Moby Dick is still on the bottom of the bay at San Pedro. The Warners had to build another whale.

Good Morning!

Saturday I wasn't very happy. On account of the movie I had to review, I mean. Sunday—well——? But TODAY, Ah! Hoss of another color, COMplete!

"Beyond Tomorrow" is like a charming person, who, entering a room, causes you instantly to forget unpleasant people present and become oblivious of others.

The original and delightful story straddles this world and the next, with all of the characters performing on this orb for part of the time and some of them doing their stuff from the hereafter for most of it.

The action starts on a Christmas eve. The first folks you meet are three elderly gentlemen who live in a somber, magnificent house, attended by an old, one time Russian countess and devoted servitors, who, you gather, had known better things in other days. . . . George Melton, Allan Chadwick, and Michael O'Brien are associated in business and are devoted cronies. . . .

On this evening they had expected guests for dinner who do not arrive. . . . It is the idea of Michael, the jovial, gregarious one of the lot, that each of them fling a wallet, containing his card and a $10 bill, out on the snowy sidewalk and that they entertain as guests any who shall be so honest as to return the purses.

Thus into their lives come Jimmy Houston, a lad from Texas and right now on his uppers, and Jean Lawrence, who works in a public children's clinic. Two of the sunniest kids that ever blew into an old house and brightened up a Christmas!

Jimmy and Jean are taken under loving paternal wings, the while dear old Madame Tanya broods over them. Then—the three men are called away on business. . . .

"TAKE the train. DON'T go on the plane," begs Madame Tanya—old-fashioned and fearful. . . . But—Well——

The plane is lost in a mountain storm. . . . The wraiths of three kindly gentlemen return to the house they had left as mortals—earthbound, they, for a brief time.

For a while Melton and Chadwick unite with O'Brien in observing their protégées and vainly trying to steer them away from trouble, brought about by a heartless woman met by Jimmy at a radio station. [Did I tell you the boy had a voice? Guess not.] Then, one by one, they are summoned away, and only Michael remains. . . . And does he get around! When time comes for him to go he can't leave the kids. . . . Well——

I'll let the picture go on from here.

The acting is really superlative. By that I mean it's the last word in naturalness. I think you'll probably like Charles Winninger better than anybody else in the cast, but that's because he's such a sweet old lamb.

Direction, photography, dialog are tops and the film abounds in those little "unexpecteds" that are to a movie what cut is to a gown.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Al Jolson is back in town. After more than eight years away from the speaking stage, the great entertainer has now produced a musical comedy of his own, entitled "Hold on to Your Hats." When the show opens at the Grand Opera house tonight, Chicago will be seeing it in advance of Broadway. The world premiere took place in Detroit a fortnight ago, and now "Hold on to Your Hats" is ours to keep as long as we like before New York gets a glimpse of it.

Back in the halcyon nineteen-twenties, when Jolson was running up some of the most fabulous box office grosses in the history of the American theater, producers ordinarily did not much care what kind of a show they put the star in. The mere presence of Jolson, with "April Showers" and "Swanee" and "California, Here I Come" waiting to be unloosed from his larynx, was a sufficient guarantee of success. Bevies of mute and inanimate show girls surrounded him, with all the wit and sparkle of a group of cretins, and the scenery seemed to have been sneaked by blindfolded stage hands from dark recesses of forgotten warehouses.

All this is changed—unbelievably. For years Jolson has wanted to produce his own show, and it now transpires that he possesses a brilliant and theatre-wise knowledge of how to do it. Having been disgracefully fooled last winter by advance publicity touting "Three after Three" as a brilliant musical, I took the precaution of going to Detroit to look this one over.

Now, "Hold on to Your Hats" doesn't open until tonight, and it isn't cricket to review a performance in advance. But I will hint darkly that I saw and heard some things that will knock the folks' eyes and ears out tonight. There are genuinely brilliant western and Mexican settings and costumes by Raoul Pene du Bois and excellent, sophisticated dance routines devised by Catherine Littlefield, who seems to have found her proper metier in musical comedy. And there are Martha Raye, a real discovery for the musical stage, Ruby Keeler, Jack Whiting, Bert Gordon, Arnold Moss, and many other really excellent entertainers. Al Goodman, one of the skillful veterans, is in the orchestra pit, and a part of tonight's orchestra has already played the score for two weeks in Detroit.

In other words, Jolson has produced a major musical comedy, put together by some of the best people in the business, and performed by a cast whose own merit seems to stimulate him and add stature to his own gifts. Does Jolson sing any of the old songs? Yes, he does, and some attractive new ones as well, notably "Don't Let It Get You Down," "There's a Great Day Coming, Manana," and "Down on the Dude Ranch."

Singer's Debut Delights Huge Crowd in Park

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Naomi Cook, resident soprano, made her Grant park debut last night with the Chicago Opera orchestra under Rudolph Ganz's direction. The quality of her voice and the aptness of her interpretations succeeded in delighting the huge crowd which the lure of free music and the beauty of the evening had drawn to the lake front.

In arias from "Tannhäuser," "Aida" and "Il Trovatore" Miss Cook displayed a voice of large dimensions and pleasing quality. It was pure of texture and capable of remarkably lovely color effects.

She used these color possibilities skilfully. The joyfulness of the "Dich Teure Halle" and the half ecstatic, half anguished "Ritorna Vincitor" both profited in their differing ways from the singer's ability to fit the tone colorings she was using to the mood which she was externalizing. The same was true of her use of rubato and other expressive devices. That was a finely handled change of pace after the exciting ascending scale in the "Tacea la notte placida."

Among the evening's orchestral music were three little pieces by Felix Borowski, Chicago composer, teacher, and critic. Mr. Borowski is a man who has never been terrified by the Time Spirit and who has never been misled into using fashionable devices simply because they were fashionable. In "Portrait of a Young Girl" he felt like writing a simple, fragrant, conventional, unassuming little piece—and he did it.

The feature of the Ravinia weekend was the first performance Saturday evening of David Van Vactor's viola concerto by Milton Preves and the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The composer conducted.

The work tells us nothing new about Mr. Van Vactor. It has his characteristic delicacy of texture and it shows his fastidious workmanship in every bar. Sometimes, it is true, this fastidiousness results in understatement, and there were passages in the concerto where the composer's meaning—sincerely felt tho it doubtless was—did not cross the footlights with enough urgency.

Considering the coolness of the night [which must handicap musicians seriously] the performance was highly creditable. Both Mr. Van Vactor and Mr. Preves were roundly applauded.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, a childless widow, knowing she has but a short time to live, wants to select the most deserving heir for her large estate. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin, lives with her, but on pretense she has to retrench financially, Madge sends for the other members of her family and suggests they live with her also. Leda, her own niece, is married to Frank, her husband's nephew, but in love with Geoffry, another nephew of Madge's husband. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage. Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary, is given charge of Betsy. Madge has always been partial to Geoffry because of his continuous playing up to her, but she is beginning to find his debts and escapades rather trying. She likes Shirley and suggests to Geoffry that Shirley would make a good wife. Tiring of Leda, Geoffry pays court to Shirley and is infuriated when she repulses his advances. Frank, miserable because he suspects Leda and Geoffry, sees the sweetness of his first wife in Shirley and falls in love with her. Shirley sympathizes with Frank when she sees how Leda is treating him and finds her sympathy turning to love. After a number of tantrums by Leda, Madge begins to see things in their true light and decides to change her will. Amelia overhears Madge's conversation with Alfred Barnes, her solicitor, and learns of Madge's illness and her plans for a new will. She tells Geoffry, who in turn steals Madge's keys to her safe and reads the old will in which he is to be left the estate, and the new version in which Frank is to be the main heir. The new will is not to be signed until the following Friday. Geoffry, furious at the turn of things, goes on a rampage. He encounters Frank in the woods and threatens to get Shirley as he got Leda. Frank strikes him, knocking out his front teeth. When Frank confronts Leda with Geoffry's accusation, Leda, in a fit of temper, admits to both Frank and Madge her love for Geoffry. Madge decides to wait up for Geoffry, who has gone to the city to see his dentist. She wants to talk things over with him. He arrives late, is insulting to Madge, and when she asks him to get her medicine for her he gives her an overdose which kills her. Amelia is eavesdropping, but is too afraid of Geoffry to tell, as he threatens to commit her as insane. The death certificate is signed as heart failure and the funeral service is held with every one under great tension.

INSTALMENT XLIII.

HEIRS EXPECTANT.

Geoffry was very conscious, however, of Leda Darmeny. He felt about her as he felt about Amelia—not knowing what she would do. Men have been driven mad by such uncertainty.

Alfred Barnes touched his arm. He had forgotten to rise. They were taking her out now; her servants in their Sunday blacks bearing the little casket. There need not have been so many to carry her.

Amelia was weeping noisily under her curtain of crêpe and Frank was whispering to her, trying to quiet her.

Geoffry shivered as Alfred Barnes had to nudge him again, but Amelia suddenly left off weeping and the procession began to file out of the church.

When they went in the sun had been shining, but now the sky was a tumbled mass of angry clouds.

A few hot spattering raindrops had begun to fall and then the veil of heaven was suddenly rent by a zigzag yellow streak of fire that tore it from zenith to horizon, while simultaneously the thunder roared and boomed, sounding like the veritable crash of doom.

Giving point to her observation a haystack in the field next the churchyard burst into flames and blazed like a giant torch.

Down came the rain, a deluge.

The burning haystack died down to a blackened steaming mass, and suddenly the clouds parted and the sun shone out again.

Back at Beechbourne, after it was over, almost an air of festivity prevailed.

There were the traditional "baked meats" translated into an early substantial tea for the departing relatives and those close friends who came back to the house.

Geoffry Darmeny could scarcely restrain his impatience now. He wanted to clear them all off.

With some surprise he noted Shirley, who had come in with Betsy. Betsy had evidently been told she was in no circumstances to express her personality, for she sat quietly beside Shirley at one end of the long dining room table keeping her eyes on her plate.

Geoffry heard Shirley say: "We won't get our supper until late, you know, so we must try to make a good meal."

"Are we going to have supper on the train?" Betsy asked.

"I don't know, dear. Perhaps your daddy is planning for us to stop the night in London."

"O, dear—I'm glad you're going with us, Shirley, but I do so hate to leave Beechbourne and—and dear Auntie Madge."

"But——" Shirley looked unhappy.

"I know. You'll say Auntie Madge isn't here any more, but I know better. Just now I—I sort of saw her. She was standing near daddy and smiling—such a queer smile it was, too. When I looked again, tho, she wasn't there. Perhaps she went into the drawing room."

Geoffry moved away hastily. The child's words made his blood run chill.

He had felt that way, too; they hadn't left Madge Darmeny lying out there in the tomb beside her husband; she had followed them back to Beechbourne, and was moving about among these, her last guests, more alive in a sense than she had ever been.

He tried to turn his mind from her.

So Frank had persuaded Shirley Westall to go with him and Leda wherever they were going, on the excuse of looking after the brat, no doubt.

Again Frank was getting ahead of him—not waiting to be kicked out either.

But he would be kicked out, all the same, if it was the last act on earth he, Geoffry Darmeny, accomplished.

Geoffry decided he would do the deed in front of everybody the instant Alfred Barnes had concluded reading that will.

Would these fools never stop stuffing themselves and be gone? This wasn't exactly a cocktail party, was it?

Of course they had a topic of conversation apart from the service and the beauty of the choir boys' rendering of the anthem and the quantity of the floral offerings.

That sudden storm and the sun coming out with such a glorious rainbow had shaken and impressed every one.

But now the room really was beginning to clear, and when Mr. Mortgage and his wife made a move, they all moved.

Gibson and Brett helped them to go by starting to clear away the remains of the feast.

Hands were shaken all over again, cars slithered down the drive, and Madge Darmeny's last social occasion was over.

Mr. Barnes had said to Frank: "I want you to stay for the will, and Leda and Betsy, too. Also Miss Westall."

Frank nodded. Leda and Betsy were probably down for legacies. Perhaps he was down for one, too.

The Scofield cousins were asked to stay, as well. Apparently Madge Darmeny had a soft spot in her heart for indigent spinsters. Some of the servants came in, apparently by request of Mr. Barnes, and seated themselves modestly and a little awkwardly in the background.

Chairs were spaced out around the table, which had been made as long as it would go, and Alfred Barnes took his position at the head, with his brief case before him.

He asked them to sit down, but he, himself, stood.

It took some time to get his papers arranged and settle his eyeglasses. Amelia's heart was beating furiously, and she licked her dry lips.

She had forgotten her terror in the churchyard; forgotten for the moment the dreadful thing a part of her knew that Geoffry had done, and another part denied. She was thinking now only of the annuity, the legacy and the use of that cottage dear Madge had promised her.

After what had happened here, Amelia did not want to live at Beechbourne alone with Geoffry, as he had tried to make her believe was his intention when he wheedled her into keeping her mouth shut about him and Leda.

Geoffry isolated himself as much as possible. Gibson had set too many chairs, and Geoffry took a seat with a vacant one on either side. He sat negligently, keeping his gaze fixed on the ceiling.

The Scofield cousins were trying hard not to look too eager. They weren't expecting much, but anything at all would be a godsend.

"Before I read you this, the last will and testament of Margaret Scofield Darmeny, I feel I must mention a rather curious coincidence that happened. Otherwise some of you, and with reason, might be a little bewildered.

"A short while before her decease, Mrs. Darmeny had a consultation with me during which she announced her intention of making a new will, thus revoking a previous document she had drawn up some five years previously. There were radical, I may go so far as to say sweeping changes she wished to make."

Mr. Barnes paused to take a sip of water, while Geoffry Darmeny shifted one knee over the other and scowled heavily.

What was the old fool getting at, anyway? He had the will there—why didn't he read it? He knew perfectly well that whatever Aunt Madge's intentions had been, it was the old will that he had to read, and the only possible document that would stand in a court of law. Why harrow everybody by discussing her intentions?

Mr. Barnes went on, "I was to have come to Beechbourne on Friday, bringing the new will for Mrs. Darmeny to sign. That was last Friday, I should mention. But something happened."

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

MR. TINKER TAKES A TOP.

Mr. Thomas Tinker is known in his own little circle as an indefatigable but pitifully unsuccessful duplicate player. In addition to various technical shortcomings, he is handicapped by extreme nearsightedness. However, to prove that an impediment can turn into a veritable blessing, I should like to tell you about the following hand.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ J 7 ♦ 6 5 ♣ 9 6
WEST ♠ A Q ♥ K 8 4 ♦ K Q J 8 ♣ K J 10 5		EAST ♠ None ♥ Q 10 6 5 3 2 ♦ 10 9 4 3 ♣ 8 4 3
	SOUTH ♠ K J 10 9 ♥ A 9 ♦ A 7 2 ♣ A Q 7 2 Mr. Tinker

The deal occurred in a match-point duplicate game. Mr. Tinker found himself in the South position, holding a very nice hand. The bidding proceeded as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Double	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

East might well have come forward with a bid of four hearts, but he just didn't. As for Mr. Tinker's abrupt pass on the second round, well, therein lies our story. Mr. Tinker's estimate of his own holding was not as high as yours or mine for a very peculiar reason: He did not see his own ace of diamonds. Hence, he not only based his bidding on 12 cards [an occurrence so common to Mr. T. as to be scarcely worth mentioning], but started out playing the hand with the idea that he had only two worthless diamonds. This oversight led to the most masterly exhibition of play that had ever been produced in that particular club.

West opened the king of diamonds and Mr. Tinker, not aware that he could win the trick, meekly followed suit. Now West, who wanted his partner on lead for a club return, led the jack of diamonds. When that card also held the trick, West directed a glare of pure hatred at East. Now West had to guess whether to lead a heart or a club [he was afraid to play South for a third diamond.] As it happened, he chose the safe lead of a low heart. East's ten went to declarer's ace, and at this point Mr. T. made an astonishing discovery, that he held the diamond ace.

Probably appalled at the thought that he had conceded two diamond tricks, he hastened to cash the ace before he should lose it entirely, discarding dummy's remaining heart. Now, merely to reach dummy for a spade finesse and with no idea that he was effecting a splendid strip play, Mr. T. ruffed his low heart then led a spade to his jack. West won with the queen and was utterly helpless! Actually, he chose to exit with a heart. Mr. T. rose nobly to the occasion. He discarded a club from dummy and ruffed in his own hand. Obviously a club return by West would have had the same result, saving declarer from a club loser.

Mr. T.'s brilliant double-holdup of his chameleon-like diamond ace [without which play the contract could not have been fulfilled] won the undying appreciation of his partner and, even better, an absolute top on the board.

When you put a white cake batter into the oven, you have a mental picture of what it is going to look like, or of what you hope it is going to look like. That idea of a cake is high, feathery textured, light, not too dry and golden on top and bottom.

If the real cake doesn't turn out that way, the disappointment is keen, but nowadays cake baking has become such a science that, given the right kind of oven providing even, controled heat, the cake idea is almost certain to become the real cake.

Here are a few cake making tips especially applicable to white cakes:

1. Have egg whites and shortening at room temperature before mixing.
2. Cream shortening and sugar together until the sugar seems almost dissolved in the fat.
3. Sift flour with baking powder and salt three or four times and, when adding it to the creamed mixture, begin by adding about a fourth and stirring it in well. Then add a third of the milk, beat the batter again, add another fourth of flour, and so on, until flour has all been added. The last portion of flour will have been added after the milk is in. Mix lightly and quickly.
4. Beat egg whites until glossy, but not dry, if you want a light cake.
5. Fold in egg whites thoroly, but lightly and quickly.
6. Grease the pan and line it with waxed paper.
7. Be sure oven temperature is right, and then leave the oven door closed for the first 20 minutes of baking. Don't peek for that time.
8. Let the cake cool in the pan for three or four minutes. Then loosen it at the edges and turn out on a cake rack to cool.

A whiter cake may be made with vegetable shortening than with butter, but since butter can't be excelled for flavor, some cooks use half of each kind of shortening. Either alone will make a fine cake, if a good recipe is followed.

Lady Baltimore White Cake.
[Two 9 inch round layers.]
½ cup shortening.
1½ cups sugar.
2½ cups sifted cake flour.
2½ teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon lemon juice, or
1 teaspoon lemon extract.
4 egg whites, beaten stiff.

Cream shortening and one cup of the sugar together until very light and fluffy. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together three or four times and add alternately with milk to creamed mixture, beating after each addition. Add lemon flavoring. Beat egg whites with a whip until they form peaks. Whip in the remaining half cup of sugar gradually. Fold this meringue into the cake batter thoroly and quickly. Spread batter to the edges of greased, wax paper lined pans, and bake layers at 350 degrees until done, about half an hour. Fill with fruit filling and frost with boiled icing.

FRUIT FILLING—Mix together ¼ cup chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped walnuts, ¼ cup chopped steamed figs and ¼ cup drained, chopped maraschino cherries. Mix with a part of the icing with which the cake is to be frosted, and spread between layers.

BOILED ICING—Boil two cups sugar, ⅓ cup light corn sirup and ⅓ cup water to 240 degrees, soft ball stage, and pour this sirup in a thin stream over two egg whites beaten stiff with ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat constantly while pouring and after sirup is all in, until frosting begins to hold its shape. Flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla and then frost the cake.

New and nobby:

The mitts made of a light corduroy and filled with talc in a famous fragrance. Originally the mitts were of terry cloth. The soft corduroy is, somehow, a little more luxurious. One advantage of having your talc in a mitt is that you can slap on exactly as much as you want. There is less waste. Another is that the mitt is an easy thing to handle with moist hands—not slippery, like the usual container. The corduroy is in lovely colors and snowy white. The scent of the soft talcum is a rich blend, with lilac predominating. These make charming gifts, by the way.

Atomizers: For the going away gift for that difficult woman who seems to have everything she needs, consider the traveling atomizer. These are beautifully made, small, and leakproof. Transporting a favorite perfume without loss of the precious stuff and damage to the contents of the bag is practically impossible without one of these nice little inventions. For the cologne fans, there are stunning atomizers, too. The price range is obligingly wide.

Soap disks: Little disks of flannel in various colors, saturated with a beautiful jasmine soap. The disk is small but on immersion expands to face cloth size and contains more soap than you'd believe possible. These come by the dozen and are an inspired gift for the traveler, relieving her of the eternal fuss with wet washcloths and sticky cakes of soap. The soap with which these disks are infused is a famous, luxurious one.

Simple Frocks for Daytime

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Here's a simple frock for home wear and for your sojourn in the country. It may be made with or without a collar and is the perfect streamlined model for those with larger figures. If you choose the collarless model you might trim the neckline and the "easy" sleeves with plaiting, ruffling, or lace. Pockets on this model are optional, as is a belt. Notice that this easy-to wear dress buttons all the way down the front.

Style No. 3339 is designed for size 16, and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with 2½ yards of ruffling for collarless version; 3¼ yards for dress with collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Letter from Lockhart.

Some idea of British morale may be gathered from a recent letter from Bruce Lockhart, English author [British Agent, Guns or Butter?]. Writing to James E. Pope of Chicago, Mr. Lockhart says:

The collapse of France is a blow, but it was not wholly unexpected. Now we have to fight alone, and the knowledge has had a wonderful effect on the spirit of the British people. I reckon that the morale of the home front is now better than it has been at any moment since the beginning of the war. In many respects we shall be strong. We shall no longer need to dissipate our forces in different parts of Europe. We shall now have a war of sea power and air power against land power and air power, and I have no doubt about the ultimate outcome. The German land successes have impressed and frightened the small nations of Europe. They will now stand by in order to see: [1] whether or not we can stand up to every form of German attack, and [2] whether or not we are able to carry the war into the heart of Germany. We shall do both.

We have had frightful years of neglect and it has been a job to make up the leeway, but thank God production is now going ahead.

The next three months will be grim, but I have a feeling that German resistance is nothing like so strong as German aggression, and that the desirable end may come sooner than most people realize.

Throngs Hear Choral Music in Woodlands

Vesper services in the summer series sponsored by the Cook county forest preserve district and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE yesterday drew throngs of music loving Chicagoans to Thatcher, Dan Ryan, and Caldwell woods.

The Drexel Park Senior choir, directed by Theodore C. Barg, was heard by about 1,500 persons in Dan Ryan woods, while the Wright Junior College choir, under Erhardt Bergstrasser, drew an even larger crowd to Caldwell woods. A newly formed group, the Northwest Choral union, sang to a large crowd in Thatcher woods. Theodore W. Wallschlaeger directed the choral union.

The Drexel choir, comprising 103 men and women, had as soloists Iris Stothard, George McHardy, and William Donaldson. Here, as in the other concerts, the audience included all ages from babes-in-arms to graybeards, and so friendly was the atmosphere that Carl Sommer, the announcer, twice appealed for aid in finding strayed children. The program ended with the entire audience joining in "God Bless America."

The Wright college choir of 100 mixed voices was unexpectedly accompanied at the piano by Samuel Burkholder, director of the Edgewater Presbyterian church choir, whose music will be heard next Sunday. Mr. Burkholder was noticed in the audience and invited to participate. Soloists with the Wright group were George Reimer, Newton Fink, Herman Cassman, Daniel Kemper, Alexandria Psiris, Marian Wessman, Claire Manoogian, Lillian Chookasiaw, Irene Reynolds, and Helynne Tronkiewicz.

The Northwest Choral union is a mixed group made up of choirs of three churches: Evangelical Lutheran Church of Peace, Mont Clare Congregational church, and the Westwood English Lutheran church. Mr. Wallschlaeger, the director, was aided by individual directors of the choirs, Edna Pohlmann, Leon Shafer, and Brownley Hammon.

Boys and Girls: Write to Sally if You Want Invitation to Circus

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

The news of our next party was every bit as good as I promised, wasn't it, boys and girls?

I know how much you youngsters love the circus, and as soon as I heard that Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey were coming to town, I knew where we were going.

The big tops soon will be erected and all the performers and hundreds of animals who take part in the show will be here. There'll be clowns and tightrope walkers, jugglers and aerialists, and, of course, elephants and lions and tigers with their trainers.

There are so many exciting things about this circus that I couldn't possibly begin to mention all of them, but you can be sure that the boys and girls who come with me to see it won't miss a single one of them.

We're going out to see this big show on Thursday, July 25, and I want as my guests 100 boys and girls who are really excited about the circus and who'll have a good time if they win invitations.

If you feel that way about it, just let me know in your letters. Those of you who write the most enthusiastic and sincere letters will be selected, because you're the ones who'll have the best time there.

You must all write your own letters, and please don't ask to bring your cousin or your sister. Have them write, too, if they'd like to come. Names, addresses and ages must be included—don't just sign Johnny or Mary, or say you live in Chicago,—you'll never be a winner that way.

There's just one other important point to remember: Your letter must be mailed in time to reach me by Thursday, at the latest. The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Chicago.

July 15, 1940.

Universal Day—Wait until tomorrow if you have any important plans to inaugurate. Wind up old matters.

Harmonizing Numbers—The numbers 3, 6, and 9 are harmonious. The first of this group is the number of expression while 9 is the highest power of the expression numbers, an all inclusive number. Both 3 and 9 are emotional numbers so too many of these in a name, birthpath, or personal year are hard to handle. There is likely to be a scattering of forces.

Year Ahead—From now until the end of the year things and people may drop out of your life, clearing the way for new contacts. Don't let your nerves get the upper hand.

their daughter Isabelle's debut because the Princeton Triangle club performance is to be given on Dec. 28, the date they had chosen for a tea-dance at which to introduce Miss Johnson. The party will be given on Friday, Dec. 27. Miss Johnson will be a senior at Ogontz next year.

The annual Arden Shore picnic, to which all board and committee members of the Arden Shore association are invited, will be held today at the camp. Box luncheons will be eaten out of doors, and afterward the 500 campers—mothers, children, grandmothers—will put on a festival pageant to entertain the guests. Miss Anna Belle Ferrier, executive head of the camp, will be the official hostess at the picnic.

From Mackinac Island comes word that Robert F. Carr's Sea-Carr has been anchored in the harbor since early last week and that the owner has given several dinner parties at the Grand hotel. Among those enjoying the cruise with him are the junior Carrs.

Mackinac Island is a favorite stopping place for all yachts that cruise in northern waters and all during the summer there are several of them in the harbor most of the time. The Leon Mandels' Buccaneer was there recently with a gay party aboard that went up to the Grand often for dining and dancing. Their guests were the Leander McCormicks, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, James Simpson Jr., and Preston Boyden.

Ladies, Nylon Will Control Those Bulges

BY REA SEEGER.

New, next to your skin, are the audacious combines of coal, air, and water; Nylon to the knowing shoppers! It's the big excitement of the hour, Nylon is now used in curve controling underlayers, the foundation garments without which no suavely fitted gown will properly flatter the streamlines. The Nylon is in the side panels that stretch with every move, but stretch with a fine elasticity that keeps everything extra in inches well smoothed down.

It's the same Nylon yarn used for knitting the tremendously popular Nylon hosiery. According to the best authorities, this elasticized stuff will resist finger nail snags better than the older lastex side panels. Girdles, combinations of bra and girdle, corsets, or whatever you wear are obtainable now in beautifully cut models. Neatness is further assured with zippered closings. Gleaming satin lastex front and back panels do a handsome job of dramatizing the long sheath of the models.

All such important underlayers will tub and dry with the same quick drying records of the hosiery, which should please a lot of fastidious souls who spend a lot of time keeping spotless.

New nylon underlayers work magic with the bodyline, assuring a firm control with comfort and coolness stressed. The colorings are dainty, the lace and the rest of the models are expertly combined to enhance the streamlining of the finished production. All sizes, all manner of girdles, all-in-ones, and corsets are ready now for the first rush of the buying public.

SOX LOSE, 4 TO 0; CUBS SPLIT WITH GIANTS

DO FANS KNOW FOOTBALL? LOOK AT THESE VOTES

Bleacherites Pick All-Star Teams.

The nation's football fans are wasting little time deciding the starting College All-American team to meet the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 29. A glance at several lineups cast in the poll now being conducted by THE TRIBUNE and 391 associated newspapers and radio stations reveals that the direction of the game is in capable hands. Again the fans are enjoying their annual trip to the coaches' bench, the only sports contest in which they are allowed to select the players for a game.

Bill Kerr.

Picked at random from a huge stack of mail in THE TRIBUNE'S contest department, the fans' lineups indicate that America's headliners of the 1939 season are the ones to face the professional champions. Sectional favorites are forgotten. Iowa's Nile Kinnick, Southern California's Harry Smith, Notre Dame's Bill Kerr, Santa Clara's Johnny Schiechl, and Joe Boyd of the Texas Aggies are among the names found on the ballots.

Southern Boys Named.

Famous coaches, former All-Stars, and celebrities usually are among the first to submit their lineups, but THE TRIBUNE this morning presents the fans' ideas. Here they are:

John Kuenster, 8212 Aberdeen street, Chicago, named two fleet southerners, Banks McFadden of Clemson and George McAfee of Duke, in his starting back field. Kuenster's other back field candidates are George Cafego of Tennessee and Kinnick. His selection follows:

GUARDS—Harry Smith, Southern California, and Frank Rykowski, Purdue.
CENTER—Johnny Schiechl, Santa Clara.
QUARTER BACK—George Cafego, Tennessee.
HALF BACKS—Nile Kinnick Iowa, and George McAfee, Duke.
FULL BACK—Banks McFadden, Clemson.

Bernard H. Raskin, loop attorney, chose Kenny Washington of U. C. L. A., Kinnick, Cafego, and McFadden in his back field. He named Clyde [Bulldog] Turner of Hardin-Simmons at center, adding, "Owner George Halas of the Bears picked him as No. 1 in the draft and that is good enough for me." Raskin's choice:

ENDS—Bill Kerr, Notre Dame, and Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State.
TACKLES—Harry Stella, Army, and Allen Bergner, Navy.
GUARDS—Harry Smith, Southern California, and Jim Loran, Indiana.
CENTER—Clyde Turner, Hardin-Simmons.
QUARTER BACK—George Cafego, Tennessee.

Honors Three Trojans.

Three Southern California players are on the ballot submitted by James Kostka, 2425 South 56th court, Cicero. They are Harry Smith, Grenville Lansdell, and Bob Winslow. Kostka's selections:

FULL BACK—Bill Schneller, Mississippi.

Cafego also was named on the ballot mailed by Delven Brandt, 631 West Station street, Kankakee, Ill. Brandt's half back candidates are Kinnick and Dick Cassiano of Pittsburgh. Martin Christiansen of Minnesota is chosen for the full back position. Brandt's team:

BOSTWICK FOUR WINS BENEFIT POLO GAME, 9-6

New York, July 14 (AP).—Three goals in the last three minutes gave Pete Bostwick's polo team a 9 to 6 victory over Meadowbrook before 10,000 today in a benefit game for the Red Cross.

Play between the two 32 goal teams was even until Bostwick and Bobby Gerry went on a scoring spree. Bostwick counted six times.

HELEN BERNHARD WINS IN FINAL OVER MISS JACOBS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 14 (AP).—Helen Bernhard of New York upset Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., 7-5, 8-6, today to retain her Middle States Women's tennis championship. The victory was Miss Bernhard's first over the second-ranking American woman player. Miss Jacobs paired with Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., won the doubles title. They beat Nellie Sheer and Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., 6-2, 6-2.

WARD DEFEATS VICTOR, 2 AND 1, TO TAKE TITLE

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Marvin Ward of Spokane, Wash., who is nicknamed Bud, but might more aptly be called Killer, today added the Western Amateur golf championship to the national crown he won in Chicago last September. The 27 year old westerner completed this unusual double by defeating 22 year old George Victor of Chicago's Glen View club, 2 and 1, in the 36 hole final at the Minneapolis Golf club.

Bud Ward.

The progress of this battle between the national champion and the youngster who was making his first big time bid was so chaotic that the gallery trailing it could hardly keep up with it. Victor was three up at the 18 hole intermission with a 73, one over par, against Ward's 76. The 27th hole found Victor 1 up after having rallied from the two hole deficit dealt him by Ward's fiery afternoon start, which included an eagle and two birdies on the first four holes.

Plays Like a Champion.

Of those first six holes of the second 18, Ward won five with golf worthy of any champion who ever swung a club. Then he lost the next three to return the advantage to Victor. He came back to win the 28th with a par, the 29th with a 40 foot chip shot for a birdie, and the 30th with another chip from 25 feet for an eagle. He went three up at the 32d with another birdie, gave that back at the 34th, and closed out the match with a bogey five for a half on the 35th. For the distance, Ward was one over par and Victor five over.

Ward left no doubt about the fact that he is one of the greatest match players in the game, one who can claim rank with such man-to-man artists as Bob Jones, Lawson Little, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen. The curly headed fighter from the northwest puts one in mind of a boxer who has taken it for nine rounds and then comes out swinging rights and lefts in the tenth. He thrives on trouble, and there are few connoisseurs of sand and rough to match him.

From Levinsky to Louis.

This morning he looked like King Levinsky in his quainter moments. This afternoon he looked more like Joe Louis. Bud is gifted with the perfect match play psychology, forgetting each error and looking to the next hole as a separate job to be used in canceling the prior mistakes. He will be a tough party with whom to deal in September, when he defends

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

BILLY WEBB, director of the White Sox farm system, believes the South Siders will have a worthy running mate for Mike Kreevich next year in the person of 22 year old Dave Short, obtained from Oklahoma City last week in the club's first deal of the season. . . . Short, tagged for spring delivery, is batting .318 just now and is a gazelle in the outfield. . . . He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. . . . Danny Carroll, veteran trainer of the Detroit Tigers who has been ill all season, has convalesced to the stage that he can watch his boys from the stands. . . . The Detroit Lions have been working out for the last month at a club near the Motor City. . . . Sid Hudson of the Senators is leading the American league in home run pitches to date. . . . Sid has been rapped for 14 circuit drives. . . . Oregon State's varsity line this year will average 210 pounds. . . . Orlin Johnson, who keeps Gar Wood's famous record-breaking speedboat America X in running order, says only 14 persons ever have ridden in the craft. . . . This department could name a lot of others who wouldn't care to. . . . The present lowly status of the Yankees makes Connie Mack and Clark Griffith major prophets. . . . Both predicted the world champions would fold this season.

Clarence Rowland, the Cubs' head ivory hunter, is trailing Huck Geary, Minneapolis shortstop, around the American association. . . . Huck is said to be a great fielder, is possessed of a rifle throwing arm, and is batting around .340. . . . Phil Furr and Ken Overlin, the middleweight champion, are stablemates under the management of Chris Dundee, but that doesn't keep them from wanting to battle each other. . . . A feud, which began with an argument as to which was the better dressed man out of the ring, has led to so much hard feeling Dundee will not allow them to spar with each other. . . . The Joe Cronin-Ted Williams situation is said to be approaching the fine and suspension stage. . . . The Red Sox manager became so angry the other day when he saw the big fellow loaf going to first that he reminded Ted a pretty good outfielder named Dominic DiMaggio was waiting for his chance. . . . Boston writers lay Williams' attitude to jealousy of the attention paid the popular Jimmy Foxx.

Barney McCosky of the Tigers and Roy Cullenbine of the Browns engage in a friendly duel for batting honors whenever the two clubs meet. They were rivals in a Detroit sandlot league not so many seasons back. . . . Truck Hannah, manager of the Memphis club, tells a beaning story: When Buck Newsom, now of the Tigers, was in the Pacific Coast league he sent Lou Almada, brother of the better known Melo, to the hospital for several weeks with a duster. . . . Upon Almada's return to the lineup the first pitcher he faced was Newsom, and Buck's first pitch, catching Lou behind the ear, sent him back to the emergency ward. . . . Jim Thorpe's nomination for the title of "fastest human" is R. O. Williams, a professional sprinter. . . . Thorpe says in the current issue of a monthly magazine: "In May, 1906, Williams ran an exhibition 100 yards at Winthrop, Mass. The track was measured and five timers clocked the effort at 9 seconds flat. The same afternoon Williams did the century in 9 1-5 seconds. Pro records were not recognized in those days."

All Life Is Grand.

All life is grand when it can bring
Into one's heart new songs to sing;
New hopes that will replace the old—
New dreams to weave that will enfold
The ideals to which all men cling.

And tho life sometimes deals a sting
That breaks the heart and makes it wring
With pain—this do I still uphold:
All life is grand.

Tho one be chief or underling,
This world possesses everything
That any spirit, meek or bold,
May want tho it be love or gold—
And from each heart this song should spring:
"All life is grand!"

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—The champion Yankees, who despite their present difficulties in the percentage column haven't abandoned the idea that there still is time to win their fifth pennant in a row, unraveled the White Sox today with amazing ease. The Sox, who thought they were tough as the result of their twin victory yesterday in Boston, were disillusioned by the pitching of Charles [Red] Ruffing, who limited them to four hits while his mates were marching by easy stages to a 4 to 0 decision before 18,729.

The Yanks might be suckers for left handed pitching, but this wasn't one of those occasions. They didn't garner any homers off Thornton Lee, but they did manage very well in the accumulation of singles, not to mention a triple and a pair of doubles. They slashed forth with one or more hits in all except two innings, scoring on a pair in the first, second, fourth and sixth.

Lee Needs More Killers.

Lee found one cousin in Manager Joe McCarthy's ensemble. Charley Keller, hailed last fall as the newly found world series wonder, was up with a mate on third in the opening inning and fanned. He was up in the third with one out and poked into a double play. He hit into another double play in the fifth and a third one in the seventh. The Sox made two other double plays and thus with a total of five made amends for the four errors they perpetrated behind Lee. But the errors didn't figure in the scoring.

The Yanks began pecking at Lee in the first inning. Rolfe lined over first base with one out and Wright didn't do a very impressive job of guessing just how the ball was going to carom off the low concrete wall. He caught up with it as Rolfe pulled up at third. Keller fanned, but DiMaggio singled to center to score Rolfe, and when Kreevich fumbled DiMaggio went to second, where he was left stranded.

Yanks Get Another.

In the second inning Mills singled to center with one out, stopped at third on Dahlgren's double to right center, and scored while Ruffing was being thrown out by Webb. The Yanks also made threats in the third, but were thwarted by a double play. Rolfe led off with a single; then Keller bounced into a double play. DiMaggio made two bases on Kennedy's error and Gordon walked, but Rosar tapped to Appling.

The Sox evoked the double play technique again in the fourth, but it didn't prevent the Yanks from scor-

NICHOLSON HITS HOMER IN 13TH FOR 6-5 VICTORY

Lohrman Outpitches Raffensberger, 2-0.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs put on an old time victory special to beat the New York Giants, 6 to 5, on Bill Nicholson's thirteenth inning homer yesterday in the first game of a double header before 34,870 in Wrigley field.

This sterling success, in which they conquered after being behind, 5 to 2, at the end of the fifth inning, apparently made Gabby Hartnett's boys a bit giddy. In the second game they rarely got on base and when they did usually were picked off by Harry Danning or Mel Ott. This affair ended in a 2 to 0 victory for Bill Lohrman, tho the Cubs got seven hits to six the Giants made off Ken Raffensberger. First of the Giants' runs in the second game was unearned, but Ott later made the victory genuine with a home run.

Bill Lee Has More Woe.

Bill Lee unveiled his new specs as starting pitcher, but was driven away, glasses and all, with a four run blast after two were out in the fifth inning. These four runs, added to a homer Babe Young made in the second inning, gave the Giants a 5 to 2 lead, which the Cubs overcame with one run in the sixth and two in the seventh. During these heroics, Phil

Cavarretta contributed a single, Hartnett a double and Dom Dallessandro a pinch single, little Dom's effort blasting Hal Schumacher right out of the panorama.

Passeau Wins No. 10.

The insertion of Dallessandro had forced the termination of a swell relief pitching rôle by Charley Root, and Claude Passeau succeeded Charley. Passeau had his tough moments, but carried on bravely to his tenth victory, thus becoming the Cubs' winningest pitcher by topping Larry French's nine successes.

Dizzy Dean's younger brother, Paul, went in after Roy [Pop] Joiner had pitched to one batsman in the seventh and drew his first defeat at the hands of the Cubs, whom he twice has conquered this year.

FIRST GAME

The Giants took the lead in the second inning of the first game when Young socked his fifth homer of the season. Before the inning ended the Giants wasted a pop double by Ott

CLASSIC IS KEY RACE AGAIN IN TITLE RANKING

Bimelech, Gallahadion Clash Saturday.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Arlington Park approaches the high point of its meeting this week with the $50,000 Classic stakes scheduled for Saturday.

As the situation now stands the Classic once more will be the crucial race that it has been so often in the past—the struggle which makes or breaks the 3 year old champion of the American turf. Last year it broke Johnstown and established Challedon. This time it seems likely either to confirm Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech as the 3 year old of the season or to give some rival, such as the Milky Way farm's Gallahadion, the impetus necessary to carry him on to a title.

Ship Bimelech Wednesday.

Definite word has been received from the east that Bimelech will be shipped from Suffolk Downs on Wednesday. With him will come Dixiana farm's Sirocco. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Corydon and William Woodward's Fenelon also are likely to be shipped out from the east for this event.

While adverse weather conditions at Suffolk Downs on Saturday were prompting the cancellation of a preparatory race which involved Bimelech and Sirocco, two of the prominent Classic contenders were adding to their prestige at Arlington Park.

Gallahadion Looks Superb.

If ever a horse looked in splendid condition it was Gallahadion in the Classic Trial. When Carroll Bierman found an opening for him and let him go in the stretch, he moved with the speed of a Stuka bomber gathering way for a takeoff. It took him only a few strides to go from last place to first in the field of four—and in so doing he passed Andy K. as though that formidable rival had been tied to the rail.

Joseph E. Widener's Roman was the other Classic candidate which looked particularly well at Arlington on Saturday, tho his victory in the Midsummer handicap gave his followers little information that they didn't already have. In this race of six furlongs he ran against older horses for the first time and he beat them soundly. But it proved only that he is a splendid sprinter—and every one knew that already. Whether he ever will be able to carry his brilliant speed over a mile and a quarter is something which he has yet to demonstrate.

Corydon May Threaten.

Just at present, Bimelech's victories in the Blue Grass stakes, the Preakness and the Belmont entitle him to general recognition as leader of the 3 year olds. He will have to do a lot of running, tho, to maintain that position. If Gallahadion, winner of the Kentucky Derby, should add the Classic to his triumphs, his claim would be as good as Bimelech's. Corydon, conqueror of Bimelech in the Withers mile, could complicate the situation tremendously by winning next Saturday. So could Andy K., which beat Gallahadion in the Kent handicap at Delaware.

In the course of its previous 11 runnings, the Classic stakes often has been the coronation ceremony for the 3 year old champion of the year. Among those which won it were Blue Larkspur, Gallant Fox, Cavalcade, Omaha, and Challedon. Other famous Classic winners were Male, Granville, Gusto, and Nedayr.

WARD DEFEATS VICTOR, 2 AND 1, TO TAKE TITLE

And Victor, the boy Ward outlasted in today's final? They can stop calling him George, for he has earned the name of Giant Killer in his amazing record of these last six days. Any one who reached the quarter-finals in this field, strongest the Western Amateur ever has seen, could be proud of his work. Victor didn't stop at that point. After eliminating his talented townsman. Art Doering, he came back to gain the semi-finals by putting out Earl Larson, the home town favorite. He thereby drew Jim Ferrier, the Australian Open and Amateur champion. Ferrier went out, a 1 up loser in 36 holes.

Today, the galleries hoped that Ward would go easy on the Chicago blond. Instead, their sympathies leaned toward Ward after the first 18 holes. And in the afternoon, where many another golfer might have flinched in the face of Ward's withering barrage, Victor came back to take the advantage and even after going down again, carried the match almost to the final hole.

All Even at Ninth.

They fought thru the first nine of the morning round all even, altho Victor held a two up lead at the fourth where Ward three putted from 20 feet. Victor had taken the second with an iron to within less than a yard of the flag, holing out for a birdie. The Chicagoan lost these back on the seventh and eighth, the clover costing him the former and a hooked second shot back of the green losing the latter. Each scored a birdie on the ninth.

Ward's real difficulties began after the 12th, where the match still was even. He found a trap off the 13th and was short with his put. Ward missed a chance to take the 14th by blowing a six foot putt and ran into another trap on his second shot on the 15th, which was coupled with a poor escape shot. Victor added another hole on the 16th when he hit the cup in a 14 foot attempt for a deuce, winning after Ward missed the green and was still nine feet shy of the pin with his explosion from heavy clover. Ward gained one back on the 17th where Victor was overbold on a chip shot, but Ward complemented this by nearly going out of bounds on the 18th, winding up with a five to Victor's orthodox par four. This left the Chicagoan three up.

Ward Starts with Eagle.

Ward touched off his afternoon rally by winning the 19th with an eagle, a 25 foot putt doing the job. They halved the 20th, and then Ward, after missing the green at the 533 yard 21st, put his next within two feet for a winning birdie. He then smacked an iron four feet past the pin at the 137 yard 22d, and the backspin brought the ball to within 10 inches of the cup for a deuce. Victor overshot the 23d green to lose that, and a bunker cost him the 24th.

Here it was that Victor fought back and took the next three holes with pars. Ward found the clover with his drives to the 25th and 26th, and played the 27th like a duffer, overshooting the green with his second, and taking two to get on from there.

Ward Takes 28th with Par.

Victor then missed the 222 yard 28th, yielding that to Ward's par. Then Ward began blazing away with his chip shots, one for the birdie at the 29th and an eagle at the 30th. Victor had chances to win on most of these holes, as he had all day, but the only vital putt he sank in the entire 35 holes was a nine footer for a birdie half on the morning ninth. At the 32d a 16 footer dropped for Ward, the birdie leaving him 3 up. Ward played the 225 yard 34th badly, as he had all week, and Victor was only two down going to the 35th. Here Victor's drive struck a boy and landed in the rough, altho it was not well hit in the first place. He took four to reach the green, and Ward, who was on in three, conceded him the putt to end the match.

The cards:

Morning Round.

Par—Out	545	343	444—36
Ward—Out	545	443	443—36
Victor—Out	535	343	553—36

Ward—In	444	546	445—40—76
Victor—In	345	445	354—37—73

Victor leads, 3 up.

Afternoon Round.

Victor, out	445	354	444—37
Ward, out	344	243	555—35

Victor leads, 1 up.

Victor—In	445	545	35
Ward—In	333	535	45

Good Timber.

The tree that never had to fight
For sun and sky and air and light;
That stood out in the open plain
And always got its share of rain,
Never became a forest king,
But lived and died a scrubby thing.

The man who never had to toil
By hand or mind in life's turmoil,
Who never had to win his share
Of sun and light and sky and air,
Never became a manly man,
But lived and died as he began.

The stronger wind—the tougher trees
The farther sky—the greater length—
The rougher storms—the greater strength—
By sun and cold, by rain and snows
In tree or man good timber grows.

Where thickest stands the forest growth
We find the patriarchs of both,
And they hold converse with the stars
Whose broken branches show the scars
Of many winds and much of strife—
This is the common law of life.

4 Sectional Swim Meets Open July 27

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ninety-four boys and girls have won Chicagoland swimming championships in the last ten years. The 11th annual races in 10 classes, five for boys and the same number for girls, will be held in Lincoln park lagoon Aug. 4.

Four sectional meets are scheduled for July 27 and 28 and all contestants must register before a week from tonight to be eligible. Individual entry may be made on the blank which will be printed in these columns. Team entries may be sent in by the coach, instructor, or manager but the home address of each swimmer must be given as well as the correct age. When the finals are held in Lincoln park all qualifiers must be prepared to prove their ages upon request.

Started 10 Years Ago.

The 100 yard free style races were inaugurated by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., 10 years ago. That first year there were only two age classes for boys and two for girls. The entry immediately convinced the officials of the meet that the age divisions should be expanded to give all a fair chance and to accommodate all ages.

Accordingly, the youngest age division became Class A for those boys and girls 11 and 12 years of age. Youngsters under 11 years are permitted to compete and each year a score or more enter and receive the souvenir buttons which are presented to all contestants who swim 100 yards. It is seldom, however, that a boy or girl under 11 years of age can qualify for the championship race.

The complete schedule of age divisions is Class A, 11 and 12; Class B, 13 and 14 years of age; Class C, 15 and 16; Class D, 17 and 18, and Class E, 19 years of age and over. These groupings furnish the fairest competition.

Award 10 Gold Medals.

Since 1931, the second year of The Tribune meet, 10 gold medals have been awarded the champions. Second and third place finishers receive silver and bronze medals, respectively.

Several years ago when the number of boys and girls became so large that it was impossible to conduct the races in one afternoon, sectional meets were established and winners in these races were qualified for the finals. Approximately 120 boys and girls will win gold qualifying medals and will be eligible for the championships Aug. 4.

Preliminaries Are Set.

The preliminary races will be held in Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill., and Sherman park pool, 52d street and Racine avenue, on July 27. On July 28 trials will be held in Wheaian pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and in California park pool, 3901 North California avenue.

1940 All-Stars to Have Power—Neyland

BY ROBERT WILSON.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 14.—His enjoyable as well as beneficial two weeks as a member of the college All-Star coaching staff, in helping groom the collegians for their battle against the national professional champions, the New York Giants, is something that Maj. Bob Neyland, University of Tennessee coach, will always remember.

FOXX IS INJURED AS RED SOX WIN DOUBLE HEADER

Browns Lose, 5-4 and 7-3; Star in Hospital.

Boston, Mass., July 14 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox took a double header from the St. Louis Browns today, coming from behind to win the first, 5 to 4, in the eleventh and taking the seven inning second, 7 to 3.

The Red Sox lost Jimmy Foxx in the first inning of the opener. He suffered a wrenched knee in a first base collision with Johnny Berardino of the Browns. Foxx will be out of the lineup for the next few days.

Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox first baseman, surrounded by players after being floored in collision with Johnny Berardino in yesterday's first game against the Browns. Foxx suffered a wrenched knee.

Dom DiMaggio starred in each contest, scoring the winning run in the opener, when he singled in the eleventh and came home on Doc Cramer's double. In the third inning of the second his throw from deep right to Jim Tabor nailed Walt Judnich as he tried to go from first to third on Rip Radcliff's single. Two innings later DiMaggio made his first major league home run. Between games he received the Sporting News trophy as the Pacific Coast league's most valuable player in 1939. Scores:

ing their third run. Mills opened with a single to center. Dahlgren shot a bounder toward short, but Appling had strayed over in anticipation of a play at second and the ball skipped thru for a single, Mills going to third. Mills scored on Ruffing's double play roller to Appling.

The Yanks' fourth pair of hits came in the sixth and with it came the fourth run. Gordon opened with a double to left, was bunted to third by Rosar, and driven in by Mills' third single.

Double Plays Help.

The first of the two Chicagoans who reached base during the first six innings was Webb. He singled to left on Ruffing's first pitch of the game. There wasn't another pause in Ruffing's progress until Appling walked with one out in the fifth. The next break occurred with two out in the seventh. Wright singled past Gordon for the Sox second hit and Appling walked again. Tresh lined a single into center and Wright dashed for the plate, only to become another victim of DiMaggio's rifelike throwing arm.

The Sox turned in their last two double plays in the seventh and eighth. Crosetti and Rolfe singled with one out in the seventh, Crosetti going to third on Webb's bad throw of the Rolfe hit. Keller tapped to Webb for the twin killing. In the eighth DiMaggio walked and was doubled on Rosar's bounder, Kuhel to Appling to Kuhel.

SMITH FACES YANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 14.—The Yankees will be fed another dose of left handed pitching by the White Sox tomorrow. It will be dispensed by Eddie Smith, the little round man. The Yanks will start Marv Breuer against the White Sox.

With his world champions imbedded in fourth place, Manager Joe McCarthy should feel most unhappy about the whole thing, but if you ask him what's wrong with his ball club he'll reply, "Nothing. We are still in the race." That's what clubs like Detroit and Cleveland are afraid of.

BOBBY RIGGS, ALICE MARBLE WIN NET TITLES

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, and Alice Marble, queen of the world's women players, captured singles championships today in the fifty-third annual western tennis tournament at Woodstock Country club and neither lost a set.

Riggs beat Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Riggs and Miss Marble paired to win the mixed doubles, defeating William Talbert of Cincinnati and Miss Wolfenden, 11-9, 3-6, 6-1.

Charles Hare of England and Johnny Shostrom of Chicago won the men's doubles title. They defeated Riggs and Van Horn in the finals, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, after winning a semi-final match from Bob Kamrath of Houston, Tex., and Bobby Carrothers of Coronado, Cal., 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Cubs Win, 6-5, in 13th; Giants Triumph in 2d

The Cubs eked out the tying run in their half. Galan dropped a single in short center and reached third while Cavarretta beat out a bunt. Hartnett walked, loading the bases. Schumacher induced Mattick to pop to Whitehead and struck out Lee. Hack then walked on four pitches, forcing Galan across the plate. Herman's grounder to Witek forced Hack.

Chase Lee in Fifth.

Three sound singles put the Cubs ahead in the home fourth. With one down, Mattick singled to left and, after Lee had been called out on strikes, went to third on Hack's single to right. Herman singled to left, scoring Mattick. Gleeson then became Schumacher's fifth strikeout victim.

The Giants resumed the lead after the first two batsmen had been disposed of in the fifth. Schumacher singled to left and Whitehead singled to center. Both scored on Moore's double to left center. Demaree singled to center, scoring Moore. Young drew Lee's only pass, and Root went in. Danning singled to left, scoring Demaree. Herman made a swell play to spear Ott's bouncer back of second and toss to Mattick in time to force Danning.

Galan drew Schumacher's fourth pass, and Hartnett made the eighth Cub hit in the fifth, but these things led only to base running misadventure. When Mattick grounded to Witek, who juggled the ball, Hartnett apparently thought a throw would be made to first. He lumbered past second as Cuccinello dropped Witek's throw, but Cuccinello had plenty of time to recover the ball and tag Gabby before the boss man discovered what was going on.

Root Scores a Run.

Root drew Schumacher's fifth pass at the start of the Chicago sixth and the score soon became 5 to 3. After Hack struck out, Herman beat out a bunt to Whitehead. Gleeson then fouled to Young, but Nicholson beat out a hit to Witek, who threw into the Giant dugout on the single, Root scoring. Galan flied to Demaree.

Here's the way the Cubs tied the score and knocked out Schumacher in the seventh: Cavarretta opened with a single to right. Hartnett silenced the wolves by hammering a double to left, Cavarretta scoring. Rogell ran for Hartnett and took third on Mattick's fly to Ott. Dallessandro batted for Root and singled to center, scoring Rogell with the tying run. Joiner replaced Schumacher and Hack grounded out to Cuccinello. Dean replaced Joiner and Herman grounded out to Witek.

There were only mild threats by both teams until Nicholson's decisive homer in the thirteenth.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs spent the first two innings of the second game getting picked off the base lines. Hack walked, but was doubled trying to reach second as Herman struck out. Gleeson singled and was thrown out trying to steal second. Nicholson opened the second with a single and, after Galan had flied to Demaree, went to third on Cavarretta's single to right. Cavarretta, however, was plucked, Ott to Young, when he rounded first too far.

The Giants did not get a man on base until one was out in the third, when Witek was safe on Mattick's wide throw. Lohrman walked after a three and two count, but Whitehead lined to Nicholson. Moore then singled to center, Witek scoring and Lohrman taking third. Moore got to second on Gleeson's throw to third. Demaree was given an intentional pass, loading the bases, then Young struck out.

Raffensberger opened the home sixth with a single to right and stopped at second on Hack's single to left. Raffensberger became the fourth Cub to be picked off the baselines when he was sunk off second, Danning to Witek. Herman fouled to Danning and Gleeson bounced to Cuccinello. This was the Cubs' last serious threat.

GIANT OF ALTON DIES; BELIEVED 'TALLEST MAN'

Foot Infection Fatal to Robert Wadlow.

Manistee, Mich., July 15, Monday (AP). —Robert Wadlow, the 22 year old Alton, Ill., "giant," who was 8 feet 9½ inches tall and was believed the world's tallest man, died here early today from complications following a foot infection.

Wadlow, who was making a professional appearance as the "world's tallest man" at the National Forest festival here, suffered an infection in his left ankle less than a fortnight ago.

The youthful giant's condition grew steadily worse, and physicians gave him a blood transfusion yesterday and performed a minor operation on his foot last night. His temperature all of yesterday was reported as "never lower than 106."

Sponsored by Shoe Firm.

Under the management of his father, Harold F. Wadlow, the young man was sponsored on his appearance here by a shoe company.

A child of normal size at birth, Wadlow weighed 491 pounds while making his last public appearance. Medical men said his great height resulted from over activity of the pituitary gland.

Wadlow suffered his injury July 4. A brace worn on his ankle chafed and infection set in. He was confined in his hotel rather than a hospital. His condition had become "very grave" yesterday and he was taking nourishment thru a tube.

Brothers of Normal Size.

Father, mother, two sisters, and two brothers all were of normal stature. Robert weighed 8½ pounds at birth, Feb. 22, 1918. By the time Robert reached young manhood the elder Wadlow's shoulders came only to his son's hips.

Scientists classified him as an "acromegalic type," designating a person whose growth has been abnormal because of overactivity of the pituitary, lying at the base of the brain.

TIRE THIEF TRAPS SELF; HAS TO ASK CAR OWNER'S AID

A tire thief brought about his own capture early yesterday while attempting to take the tires off the car of Charles Buchholtz in the garage at the rear of his home at 7938 Burnham avenue.

Buchholtz was awakened by cries of help from the garage. Investigating with two friends, he found the burglar in the garage, his arm wedged between the fender and wheel of the car. The burglar was unable to move.

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The number of airports, landing fields and seaplane bases in the United States increased by 204 from Jan. 1 to July 1, the Civil Aeronautics authority reported today. They totalled 2,655 on July 1. Six states and Alaska had more than 100 landing fields and airports. PARACHUTE FIGHTERS DROPPED IN FORESTS TO BATTLE BLAZES

Missoula, Mont., July 14 (AP).—Scattered victories today spurred on thousands of men struggling to quell lightning-set fires in forests of three northwestern states.

Supplies attached to parachutes were dropped into the blazing, mountain studded areas by five airplanes. Trucks laden with other supplies rolled toward base camps from Missoula, Spokane, and other forest centers.

Between 8,000 and 10,000 men answered a forest service radio call for help. From ranches and the larger cities the motley crews converged on recruiting stations. A few with parachutes were dropped to their tasks from airplanes.

The timberlands' wors' enemy—lightning—had started a thousand fires during a rainless storm Friday in eastern Washington, northern Idaho, and western Montana. Today 600 of the blazes still were burning.

MEXICO CUTS PAY OF RAIL WORKERS AS DEFICIT GROWS

Seized Roads Pile Up $2,600,000 Debt.

MEXICO CITY, July 14 (AP).—The 50,000 employés of Mexico's national railways must accept a general wage reduction totaling 1,800,000 pesos [$360,000] a month to save the lines from "financial chaos," they were told today by their general executive committee.

The committee asserted the railways had accumulated a debt of 13,000,000 pesos [$2,600,000] since President Lazaro Cardenas expropriated them in 1938 and turned them over to the workers for operation. It was understood this debt was piled up chiefly by operating losses and unpaid taxes.

The committee acted in support of Cardenas' recent order for economy measures similar to those he drafted for the government petroleum industry.

Almazan Charges Tax Plot.

Meanwhile it was charged today by Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan that taxes of businessmen who openly supported his independent candidacy for president in last Sunday's turbulent elections already have been increased as much as 49 per cent in retaliation by the administration, which backed his opponent, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho.

The attorney general's office announced that all documents seized by federal agents who raided Almazan's offices Friday night had been returned. He had obtained an injunction last night restraining future raids.

Troops Sent to Ocampo.

The ministry of national defense announced troops had been sent to Ocampo, Chihuahua, to investigate election disorders in which the mayor was alleged to have slain a lieutenant colonel.

The tourist division of the National railways today reported excursion trips which were to have brought some 10,000 American teachers to Mexico had been canceled because of their anxiety over the Mexican political situation.

Shade Trees Watered.

July 14, 1940.

SHADE trees are being watered at the Du Page county farm, a practice followed regularly there during the late summer, but seldom started this early in the season. Lack of moisture in the subsoil, despite plenty of rain this spring and summer, made it necessary to start last week soaking the ground around young elms that were set out last fall and the year before.

The gardeners have observed that young trees have made less growth than usual this summer and that leaves on most trees are small for this time of year. They think this is due partly to the late season and partly to the long drouth last fall and winter that left the subsoil thirsty. Only shade trees that were fertilized last spring have made as much leaf growth as last year.

Seek to Hold Leaves.

The main purpose in watering the shade trees is not to keep them from dying, but to help them hold their leaves later in the fall. Trees that are watered thru summer stay green longer and tend to shed more of their leaves at once when they finally start falling. When trees lack water they may start shedding leaves in summer and keep the lawn littered with dead leaves until after frost.

Only trees that can be reached with a garden hose are watered regularly. Newly set trees along the farm lanes and drives are kept mulched with straw for the first year or two to help hold moisture during hot, dry weather. This practice, however, has some drawbacks. The straw sheds light summer rains that otherwise would supply some moisture to the tree roots.

The gardeners says ordinary sprinkling does little or no good. They advise soaking the ground thoroly and waiting until the trees need water again before giving them more.

Broom Handle Test Used.

Since it is best not to keep the ground soaked all the time, the gardeners use what they call the broom handle test to tell when water is needed. They keep a sharpened broom handle handy. When they suspect that a tree is needing water they gouge out some soil at a depth of six or eight inches and squeeze the sample of soil in one hand. If the soil sticks together, no water is needed; if it crumbles, they soak the ground again.

The trees will be watered whenever the broom stick test indicates they need it until early in September. Experience has shown that it is important to start watering before growth is checked by rapid loss of water thru the leaves in hot weather. Once the trees begin going into the dormant stage it is difficult to start the leaves growing again.

Elms seem to need more water than most other shade trees. They are not as deep rooted as oaks and hard maples. Evergreens, even large trees, always are watered thru summer.

CLIPPER FLIES FROM HONOLULU FOR TINY ATOLL

Blazes 2d Lap of Trail to New Zealand.

HONOLULU, T. H., July 14 (AP).—Pan American Airways' 42 ton American Clipper, blazing a new commercial air trial across the Pacific, hopped off at 6:57 a. m. [12:27 p. m. Chicago time] today for Canton Island, 1,300 miles to the southwest. Its ultimate destination is Auckland, New Zealand.

The Clipper left Los Angeles on Friday, arrived yesterday, and stopped overnight. It carried 27 nonpaying passengers, a crew of 10 and a cargo of mail and express. On the flight to Canton Island there were 24 passengers.

Canton is a tiny atoll claimed by both the United States and Great Britain.

Historic Flight Recalled.

Oakland, Calif., July 14 (AP).— Thirteen years ago today a fragile little two-place plane was fighting its way thru stormy skies to complete the first civilian flight from this continent to Hawaii.

Today a great Clipper plane soared over the South Pacific toward New Zealand on a flight establishing regular air service between North America and the antipodes.

In the little high-wing monoplane that left Oakland on July 14, 1927, were Ernie Smith and Emory Bronte, both of San Francisco. Their single engine developed 225 horsepower. Four engines with a total of 6,000 horsepower drove the 74-passenger American Clipper over the South Pacific today.

The Smith-Bronte flight took 25 hours, 36 minutes, while the modern Clipper's schedule is 19 hours. Thirteen years ago thousands gathered at Oakland to witness the takeoff. Today there are few who give more than a fleeting glance at the big sea planes moving in and out of their ports.

Land in a Tree.

Smith and Bronte smashed their land plane in a kaiwe tree on the leper island of Molokai when their fuel ran out after they had encountered bad weather and mechanical difficulty. They were 60 miles from Honolulu, their goal.

At Honolulu, where they received a heroes' welcome, they said they believed their flight had demonstarted the practicability of trans-Pacific air travel.

From the time they dived into a fog bank off San Francisco until they picked the kaiwe tree as the softest available thing on which to land, their project consisted of a series of difficulties. There was weather trouble, fuel pump trouble and radio trouble. Smith told admiring throngs, "It was all hard—it was work all the way thru."

Smith the pilot, and Bronte, the navigator, will meet in San Francisco on Tuesday for their annual celebration of their flight.

AUTO DOOR FLIES OPEN AND CHILD FALLS TO DEATH

Frank Rockaitis Jr., 2½ years old, 5537 South Bishop street, was killed yesterday when the door of an automobile flew open and he fell to the pavement in La Grange road near Park Ridge. The child's father was driving the car.

Henry Blair, 12 years old, 525 West 38th street, died in county hospital of injuries suffered Friday when he fell beneath the wheels of a city trailer garbage truck on which he was hitching a ride at Ashland avenue and 27th street.

A pedestrian identified as Martin H. Smith, address unknown, was killed when he was struck by a car at Milwaukee and Harlem avenues near Niles.

Bruno W. Alexander, 32 years old, was killed when his car was struck by a Milwaukee railroad passenger train near the Long Lake depot in Lake county. He lived at 3327 South Union avenue.

CAR THIEF FLEES ON FOOT AFTER CRASH IN CHASE

Police were searching last night for an automobile thief who fled when they interrupted an alley dice game. The thief rammed another car, critically injuring the driver, and escaped on foot.

When the fugitive drove out of the alley, near Loomis street and 18th place, his car struck one driven by Thomas Beavers, 36 years old, 3231 Grenshaw street, who incurred a skull fracture and internal injuries.

The thief sped on, tho the crash had knocked a tire partly off a front wheel. At 26th street and Washtenaw avenue the car became unmanageable and the driver jumped out and fled. Policeman Harry Bingham withheld his fire because children were playing near by. The car had been stolen from Levi Mohler, 1962 Dayton street.

BRITAIN 'KILLS' FREE STERLING MARKET AGAIN

Official Rate Will Be Used in New York.

New York July 14 (AP).—Great Britain took a final step toward killing the "free" market in the pound sterling with the announcement today United States banks may open accounts in England for clearance of all export business at the official rate of exchange after July 18.

The foreign exchange committee of New York disclosed cables from London indicating recent negotiations between New York and London bankers had culminated in a plan to establish the Bank of England's price for sterling in the local exchange market.

The official selling rate is $4.03½, buying $4.02½. The "free" rate closed Saturday at $3.71.

Usable on Old Contracts.

A glimmer of life was allowed the "free" market by the provisions that sterling already held on United States account when the new arrangements come into force may be used:

[1] For all payments in the sterling area except to pay for exports; [2] for sale or transfer to other residents in the United States of America; [3] for settlement of all contractual commitments in any part of the world provided such commitments were definitely outstanding at the time the new plan goes into effect, and [4] for transfer to residents in any country with which the British government has no special arrangements to the contrary.

Under the plan all permitted commercial and current financial transactions in terms of sterling between the sterling area and the United States will be settled thru the accounts of American banks in the United Kingdom registered by the Bank of England.

Transfers to Be Restricted.

Transfers from such accounts may be made only to another similar account or to a resident in the sterling area.

All approved sterling payments to United States residents, the Philippine Islands and Switzerland, including payments for imports from those countries into the United Kingdom will be made thru the registered account.

Credit balances in the accounts may be bought by the Bank of England either in London or thru the Federal Reserve Bank of New York at official rates.

Storekeeper's Role in Sight for Uncle Sam

As storekeeper for the western hemisphere under the cartel plan recently proposed by the Roosevelt administration, the United States may be faced with the purchase of 4 billion dollars' worth of export goods a year, a survey of 1938 trade indicated yesterday. That year is the last for which complete statistics are available.

Plans for a vast corporation or a series of small cartels—to be financed by the United States—have been discussed, revised, and reconsidered in Washington. Altho the plans are still in a nebulus state, administration leaders have advanced the cartel as a method of combatting economically a dictator-ruled Europe.

Unlike the storekeeper who buys and sells the merchandise on which he can make a profit, the cartel would buy all exportable produce and merchandise of North and South America. This tremendous bloc could successfully meet the foreign trade tactics of the axis nations, administration spokesmen have said.

1938 Export Figures.

In 1938 United States exports to the rest of the world, exclusive of the western hemisphere, totaled $2,054,731,799. Exports of Latin America to the same countries amounted to $1,206,742,000. Canada's non-American exports were $658,433,000. The grand total was $3,919,906,799.

These figures include goods bought and paid for by Europe, Asia, Africa and Oceania. Not included are the surpluses of crops and merchandise produced in the western hemisphere for which no export market was available. These, along with the other exports, would be purchased by the cartel, according to tentative plans, and either held until a foreign demand developed or distributed in the United States to raise the standard of living.

As sole bargaining agent of the producers of the western area, the cartel's chief customers would be the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Italy and Japan, according to the 1938 export figures.

Wheat and Minerals Plentiful.

The cartel's "store shelves" would be stocked with millions of bushels of wheat and corn, thousands of tons of minerals, millions of pounds of meat, and textiles, machine goods and a variety of other articles grown or manufactured in this hemisphere.

The 20 Latin American republics, which have done a large part of their foreign trading with Germany in the last few years, have indicated they will consider the cartel proposal but Argentina has adopted a cool attitude. In Chile, Brazil, Uruguay, Bolivia, and Paraguay officials have expressed eagerness to see the plan in action.

In 1938 the Latin American countries did 16.1 per cent of their export business with the United Kingdom, 10.3 per cent with Germany, 4 per cent with France, 1.5 per cent with Italy and 1.3 per cent with Japan. The United States took 31.3 per cent of the exports.

BIG EQUIPMENT LOAN ARRANGED BY AM. AIRLINES

C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, Inc., yesterday announced the company has arranged a $2,250,000 airplane equipment loan thru a group of eastern and middle western banks. Participating in the loan, he said, were the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company, the First National Bank of Boston, the Chase National bank, New York; the Schroder Trust company, New York, and the National Bank of Detroit.

C. R. Smith.

The loan, he said, represents 75 per cent of the purchase price of 26 transports to be delivered to the line this year by the Douglas Aircraft company. The ships will be pledged as security for the loan. Interest will be 2½ per cent, and quarterly installments on principal and interest made until maturity of the loan in five years.

NATION'S STAKE ABROAD REDUCED BY 394 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., July 14 (AP).—The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce estimated today that United States investments in foreign countries aggregated $11,365,000,000 at the end of 1939, a decline of $394,000,000 in 12 months.

More than two-thirds of the foreign investments were in the western hemisphere, with $4,134,000,000 in Latin America and $3,781,000,000 in Canada. One-fifth represented European investments; less than 7 per cent investments in the far east.

TANK CARS.

I understand that General American Transportation corporation has a broad interest in the transportation field. It would seem that such a company would be able to earn substantial profits, especially if the freight movement increases with the stimulus from the arms program. I would like a general review of the company's activities and earnings.—F. W.

Answer: General American Transportation corporation is both a holding and operating company. It conducts a nation-wide business of leasing tank, refrigerator, and other special railway cars; manufactures and repairs freight cars, and operates tank storage terminals.

Among the company's investments are interests in a Canadian and a French car leasing company and a 22 per cent stock holding in Pressed Steel Car Company, Inc.

In 1939 the company moved to diversify its holdings in the transportation industry by entering the motor bus and aviation fields. The General American Aerocoach company was formed by the parent company and Pressed Steel Car to manufacture rear drive buses.

The parent company also acquired a 7 per cent interest in the Aviation and Transportation corporation and a 74 per cent interest in the Barkley-Grow Aircraft corporation.

General American Transportation has outstanding funded debt of $26,736,000 and 1,032,315 shares of $5 par common stock. Fixed charges have been covered an average of 3.08 times in the last 10 years.

Cash dividends on the common stock have been paid in each year since 1918. Dividends in recent years were as follows: $1.75 a share in 1935, $3 in 1936, $3.50 in 1937, $2.25 in 1938, and $2.37½ in 1939. A dividend of $1.25 a share was paid July 1 this year.

Earnings of the company have been quite stable despite sharp variations in gross income from sales and rentals. Consolidated gross income, net income, and earnings per share in recent years follow:

	Gross income.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1935.....	$27,342,000	$2,209,000	$2.64
1936.....	38,696,000	2,966,000	2.92
1937.....	45,935,000	4,543,000	4.44
1938.....	27,090,000	3,005,000	2.91
1939.....	27,821,000	3,214,000	3.11

Net income in the first three months of 1940 more than doubled to $1,241,662, or $1.20 a share, compared with $535,546, or 52 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1939.

ALIEN VISITORS' SPENDING SETS PEAK SINCE 1929

Washington, D. C., July 14. (AP).—The department of commerce reported today that foreigners spent $170,000,000 visiting the United States last year, the largest total since 1929. American spending abroad declined.

Of the total spending by alien visitors, $93,000,000 came from Canada, $14,000,000 from Mexico, and $63,000,000 from all other countries. A decrease of $8,000,000 in the amount spent in this country by Canadians was more than offset by gains in amounts from Europe, Asia, and South America.

Americans spent $469,000,000 for foreign travel, $63,000,000 less than in 1938. The decrease was accounted for largely by a drop of $51,000,000 in the amount spent in Europe and the Mediterranean area and $11,000,000 less spent in Canada.

YEAR'S INCOME RISES FOR SHOE MANUFACTURER

The Endicott Johnson corporation, a leading shoe manufacturer, yesterday reported for 52 weeks ended June 1, net profit of $1,291,991, equal to $2.28 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,261,358, or $2.19 a share in 53 weeks ended June 3, 1939.

National Bond and Share corporation, an investing company, reported the net asset value of its capital stock declined to $21.75 a share on June 30 from $25.33 at the end of March and $24.09 a year ago.

Chemical Fund, Inc., reported net assets as of June 30 were equivalent to $9.07 a share on 856,912 outstanding shares, compared with $10.81 a share on 774,395 shares outstanding on March 31.

MANUFACTURING DIRECTORY LISTS CHICAGO'S GAINS

Chicago and the metropolitan area now have 71 manufacturing companies each with 1,000 or more employés on their pay rolls, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday in its 1940 directory of manufacturers. There were 68 companies in this group in the association's last survey of this kind, made in 1936.

Manufacturing organizations with 500 to 1,000 workers, numbered 124 against 105 in 1936; those with 250 to 500 employés 256, compared with 213 four years ago; those with 100 to 250 workers 682, against 522, and companies with 50 to 100 employés 815, against 573 in 1936.

CHICAGO LEADS ALL CENTERS IN STEEL MAKING

Peak Yet to Be Set, Survey Shows.

Steel mills in the Chicago area are rushing to fill an accumulation of orders at the fastest rate of any producing district in the United States, and the peak is not yet in sight, it was indicated yesterday.

Altho the national ingot production rate increased 13 points last week to 88 per cent of capacity, mills in the Chicago area stepped operations up 18 points to 95 per cent of their theoretical capacity, the magazine Steel reported.

Pittsburgh's rate rose 16 points to 80 per cent. National operations were at 50½ per cent of capacity at this time last year.

More Increases Expected.

"Additional increases are in prospect for some districts in coming weeks and the peak for the current upward movement apparently is yet to be reached," the publication said.

Export business and national defense preparations have more than offset seasonal influences which normally restrict steel buying in mid-July, Steel said. Industry's preparations for armament manufacture, rather than the actual production of implements of war, have been largely responsible for the upturn in steel manufacture, the magazine said, indicating a further boost in operations when the defense program is accelerated.

Tool Makers Busy.

Machine tool builders, designing the machinery for the production of armament, supplies, have made increasing demands on the steel industry. More than one-third of their capacity is being devoted to requirements of the aviation manufacturers, and their backlog of orders remains at the recent peak level despite the dwindling of foreign shipments.

Steel mills will be unable to make shipments on certain types of bars for another 30 days, and will be unable to ship some kinds of alloys for several months, Steel said, because of the rush of business.

LARGER RUBBER SUPPLIES URGED BY LITCHFIELD

Citing America's dependence upon foreign sources for crude rubber, Litchfield issued a statement advocating building up a supply 400,000 tons in excess of current commercial needs.

He advised government encouragement in the expansion of facilities for production of synthetic rubber in this country and federal appropriations for the establishment of rubber plantations in Central and South America.

Britain's Fate Big Problem for Business

Cleveland, O., July 14 (AP).—The answer to almost all important business questions, Col. Leonard P. Ayres declared today, "depends primarily on the progress and the outcome of the attempt to invade England.

Leonard P. Ayres.

"The importance of that development transcends that of all others," the economist said. "The fate of England is probably the most important problem we have ever faced nationally except perhaps during the revolutionary war and the civil war."

Col. Ayres, who charts physical volume of industrial production for the Cleveland Trust company, said the production figure was 16 per cent below normal in June after declining to 25.3 per cent below normal in April.

Weekly earnings of factory workers, he said, "are now over twice as great as they were in 1914" since "pay per hour has been trebled, and hours per week have been reduced by almost one third.

"This does not mean that the typical worker now has twice as much purchasing power as he had then, for the cost of living has advanced," he explained. "Probably it is true that the typical factory worker now has real wages that give him almost 60 per cent more purchasing power in terms of the necessities of life than that of the factory worker in 1914."

GARMENT WAGE RATE INCREASE EFFECTIVE TODAY

Six thousand of the 44,000 workers employed in Illinois' 675 garment factories are scheduled to receive increases in hourly wage rates effective this morning, Thomas O'Malley, regional director of the wage and hour division, announced yesterday.

The increase, provided in an apparel wage order signed in Washington in May, will also affect the wages of 4,000 Indiana and 2,000 Wisconsin workers, O'Malley said.

About half of the Illinois employés affected are engaged in making women's dresses, he said. About 200,000 employés thruout the industry will share in the wage adjustment, he said.

The order establishes minimum hour wage rates of 32½, 35, 37½, and 40 cents for 25 divisions of the garment industry.

Argentina Acts Against Diversion of Securities

BUENOS AIRES, July 14 (AP).—The Argentine finance ministry, in a decree which financial circles interpreted as intended to prevent Germany from realizing on Argentine securities in occupied countries, today gave the Central bank broad powers to control marketing of such securities. Postal and customs services were directed to cooperate to prevent transfers out of Argentina of money realized in unauthorized marketing of foreign held securities.

FUTURES PRICES OF WHEAT, OATS AT LOW LEVELS

Decline Attributed to Hedging Sales.

Wheat and oats futures prices established new seasonal low marks in the Chicago market last week. Quotations moved to the lowest levels in more than 9 months. Brokers attributed the decline principally to hedging sales and said the absence of outside speculative interest had made the market extremely sensitive.

A government estimate of 729 million bushels as the total 1940 wheat crop was about in line with brokers' expectations, and altho 26 million bushels short of the 1939 harvest, will provide about 60 million bushels more than normal domestic requirements.

September 73½ Cents.

September wheat sold as low as 73½ cents a bushel. That delivery of oats was down to 28 cents.

Sales in the Chicago cash market indicated farmers were disposed to sell some of their grain at a discount of 4 or 5 cents under the government loan basis.

Rains in various parts of the United States were said to have halted, temporarily at least, the deterioration in new crops of spring wheat, corn and oats. Harvesting of winter wheat was reported about completed, with operations getting under way in parts of the spring wheat area.

Sales of cash corn were in largest volume in several weeks.

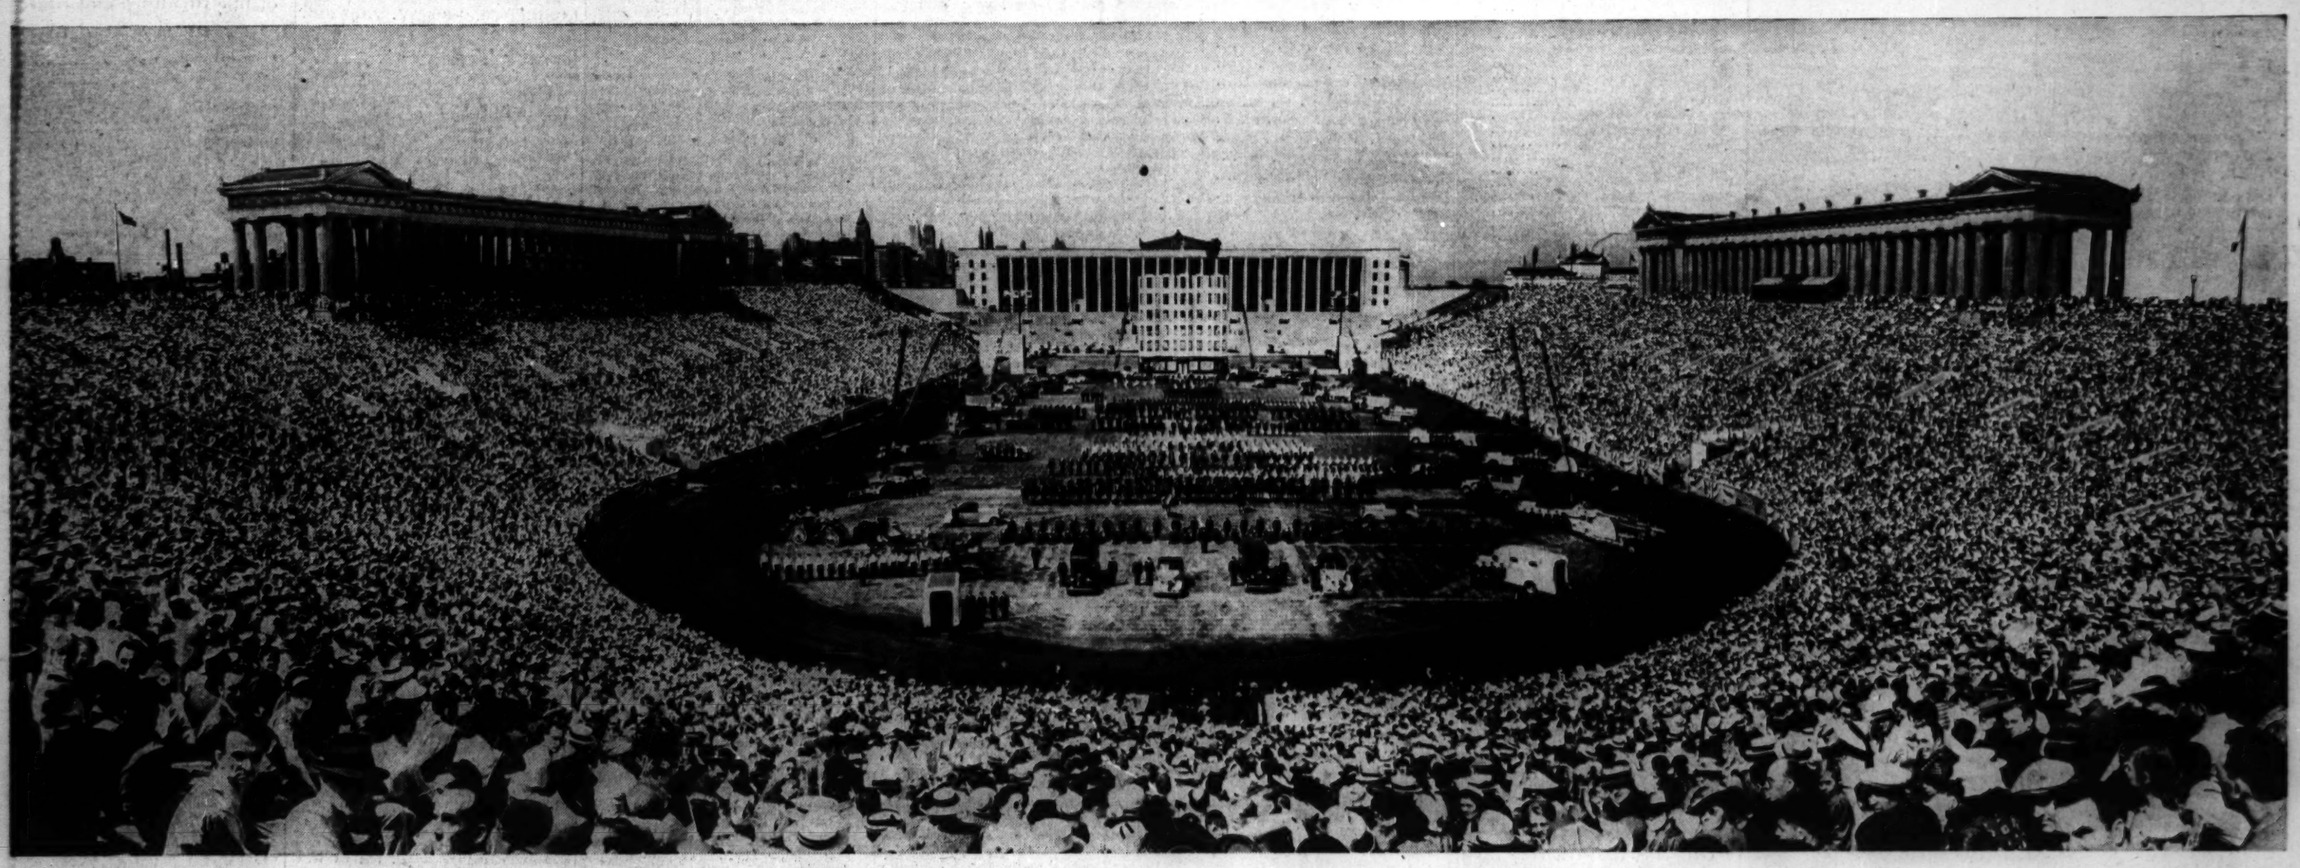
80,000 Thrilled by Third Annual Police and Fire Show—Patriotism Is Keynote of Spectacle



Panorama showing part of crowd of 80,000 persons which witnessed third annual Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field yesterday. Massed for review in the vast arena are all performers and the pieces of apparatus that were utilized in demonstrating how Chicago's policemen battle crime and how the fire department's prowess curbs disastrous blazes. The show is sponsored by the fire and police departments, the Chicago Park district, and Chicago Tribune.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Fog, used in fighting oil and chemical fires, shrouds six story fire tower. Nozzles invented by James M. Gleason, department engineer, convert water into smothering element.

Flag waving spectacle which provided big patriotic thrill. Children waved gift flags as they repeated pledge to be good Americans and good citizens. Many adults joined them.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Thirty-man balancing act on five motorcycles, which was performed by Chicago policemen. They rode around field twice, then unfurled American flag to accompaniment of cheers.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Horse drawn "steamer" which thrilled Chicagoans as a novelty yesterday. It thrilled 1880 residents when it was last word in fire fighting equipment.
